Red Rearguard Attacks Allied Units at Chorwon

Flamethrowers Used by Americans in Clearing Path for Tanks

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—Stubborn rearguard Communists today hurled two counterattacks against allied units closing on Chorwon, presumed Red base.

An unestimated number of Reds attacked American troops eight miles southeast of Chorwon. The fight raged into late afternoon.

About 200 Reds hit allied lines in the same area Friday morning but were dispersed by artillery within 15 minutes.

Allied patrols were reported fighting strong Red units Friday night at several other points north of the front.

Doughboys wielding flamethrowers against Red outposts burned a path for tanks which moved up within gun range of Chorwon.

A United Nations tank-infantry column captured a hill one mile north of Hwachon reservoir's east tip after a four-hour fire fight with 300 Reds.

Pocket Is Hit

The allied column hit the stubborn pocket of Red Koreans Friday morning. Heavy air and artillery attacks softened the Communists just before the column rushed the hill.

Patrols easily dispersed a Red force northeast of Yanggu.

Artillery killed an estimated 50 Communists grouped near the reservoir's north bank.

U. S. Fifth Air Force fighters and light bombers, flying through an overcast, hurled 552 sorties at Chinese and North Korean frontline positions and other targets.

They attacked one concentration of 100 enemy vehicles and hit 26 towns.

Jet pilots reported they damaged three Red tanks and five other vehicles near Sinmak on the main Pyongyang-Seoul road.

600,000 Are Massed

Allied authorities estimated some 600,000 Red troops were massed north of Chorwon for an expected all-out spring assault. Chorwon is 18 miles inside North Korea.

There was little ground activity elsewhere Friday morning along the 140-mile front.

Allied troops continued to follow up Communist withdrawals.

Allied warships Friday pounded rubbled Wonsan on the east coast for the 62nd straight day. Farther north, naval shells screamed into Songjin port for the 43rd straight day.

With allied troops well north of the Red Korea border, the feeling

President Drafts Eleven Scientists

Men Will Help Coordinate Research, Planning for Defense

Washington, April 20 (AP)—President Truman today drafted 11 prominent scientists to help coordinate government and private scientific research and planning for defense.

Appointment of the group to advise Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson on top secret research in all the sciences, including atomic, was disclosed in a White House announcement.

The announcement said Mr. Truman had invited Dr. Oliver E. Buckley, former president and now chairman of the board of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, to serve as chairman of the group.

He is a member of the general advisory committee of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Also named were:

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, noted atomic scientist and director and professor of physics at Princeton's Institute of Advanced Study.

Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of Johns Hopkins University and of the National Academy of Sciences.

Dr. William Webster, chairman of the Research and Development Board.

University Students Say They Snatched Famed Item From Abbey

Glasgow, Scotland, April 20 (AP)—Three Glasgow University students revealed last night that they and a woman school teacher snatched the coronation stone from Westminster Abbey Christmas Day.

The students came forward a few hours after the British government announced there would be no prosecutions in the now-celebrated case.

The spokesman for the students, Ian Hamilton, 25, gave reporters a statement telling how the ancient Stone of Scone was removed from the Abbey, smuggled into Scotland, hidden for 107 days and finally surrendered in the ruined Scottish Arbroath Abbey April 11.

At a meeting of the New York State Bridge Authority held Wednesday afternoon at the offices at the Rip Van Winkle bridge at Catskill, James F. Loughran of this city was again elected chairman of the Bridge Authority. Dr. John L. Edwards of Hudson was elected vice-chairman.

Underworld Boss Is Found Slain

New York, April 20 (AP)—The body of Philip Mangano, 50, high-ranking underworld boss, was found yesterday in a Brooklyn swamp in what police said may be the first in a series of killings of crime syndicate informers.

A high-ranking police official, who asked that his name be withheld, recalled Mangano held several conferences with the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigation Committee and FBI agents here.

The partly-stripped body of Mangano, Mafia and underworld chieftain, an associate of racketeers Joe Adonis and Albert Anastasia, was discovered lying on a long coil of rope, indicating he may have been killed elsewhere and dragged into the swamp grass. He had been shot three times in the head. On one finger was a costly diamond ring which, police thought, ruled out robbery as a motive.

City Will Remove Private Rubbish

Extra Men, Trucks to Go Around Next Week; Cooperation Asked

Extra men and trucks will be added to city forces for clean-up week in the city starting Monday, Ernest A Steuding, public works superintendent, said today.

All rubbish placed between curbs and sidewalks during the week will be picked up, he said, but he stressed that leaves and similar refuse must be in containers. Brush should be stacked.

Everything should be placed for convient handling, Steuding stressed, because the men will not have time to go into yards. Rubbish collections will continue through Friday.

Fire Chief's Caution

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, a staunch backer of clean-up week, requests all local residents to get rid of fire hazards as "a patriotic duty."

Needless fires, he said, are actually detrimental to national security at a time when "we are involved in hostilities in Korea."

A good job of house cleaning should be done in homes, offices, stores and industrial plants, he urged. Repair of buildings damaged by fires, he said, would curtail the limited supplies available for other than military purposes.

Face Rising Costs

Those who must repair fire-damaged structures, also face rising costs, and "viewed solely from the standpoint of personal interest we simply cannot afford to harbor common hazards which are known to cause nine out of every ten fires," he stressed.

It takes only a spark, a carelessly discarded cigarette or a match to set a pile of newspapers and rags ablaze, he said, and he urged everyone to clear away rubbish which has been allowed to accumulate during the winter. This eliminates the possibility of such a fire.

MacArthur's Talk Gets Full Support Of Foreign Press

Non-Red Newspapers Agree Communism Is Global Menace; Some See Long Controversy

London, April 20 (AP)—Non-Communist newspapers in western Europe said today Gen. MacArthur's speech before the U. S. Congress gave the world a dramatic example of the difference between democracy and Red dictatorship.

There was agreement with MacArthur that communism is a global menace and it is impossible to fight it in one place alone.

West Berlin's Der Tag commented that "yesterday Gen. MacArthur was able freely to present his opinions, which as everyone knows, disagree with that of the President and his secretary of state. This is a proof of democracy's strength. In Moscow, a stubborn general would have been silenced. In Washington he was called on to speak.

Der Tag added that "one may be of divided opinion over MacArthur's conception and his tactics up to now. But on one point he is incontrovertible: Communism threatens the whole world. Therefore, one cannot oppose it merely in one place alone."

Rome's Il Tempo, an independent newspaper, emphasized MacArthur's statement that communism is a global menace and suggested that after honors are rendered to the general it may be possible to modify present administration policy.

Administration Doesn't Give Direct Denial to General's Report on Strategy Beliefs

Unanimity Cited

White House Approves Statement Chiefs Were for Dismissal

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's claim that the joint chiefs of staff once shared his views on Korean war strategy fired demands in Congress today for a policy showdown with the military high command.

The 71-year-old general of the army had gone on to New York, there to receive the nation's biggest welcome home, but he left behind him a capital torn with the bitterest controversy of a decade.

From Democrat as well as Republican lawmakers came demands that the joint chiefs of staff answer quickly whether they agree—from a military standpoint—with a four-point win-the-war program the deposed Pacific commander laid before a cheering Congress yesterday.

The Truman administration replied immediately to MacArthur's statement that he believed his strategy views had been shared in the past by most military men, "including our own joint chiefs of staff."

Declaration Not Refuted

The reply did not directly refute that declaration. Clayton Fritchey, chief public relations man of the Defense Department, said he had been authorized by the White House to say President Truman's action in firing MacArthur "was based upon the unanimous recommendations of the President's principal civilian and military advisers including the joint chiefs of staff."

The statement also referred to the reasons for MacArthur's ouster—Mr. Truman's expressed belief that the five-star general was unable to give his "whole-hearted support" to administration Far Eastern policy.

MacArthur's program for prosecution of the Korean war was in effect a protest against the administration's efforts to limit it strictly to the embattled Korean peninsula.

"Why, my soldiers asked of me surrender military advantages to an enemy in the field?" he said, "I could not answer."

Involves Three Factors

The MacArthur program involved (1) intensification of the economic blockade against the Chinese Reds, (2) naval blockade of the China coast, (3) authority for allied airpower to operate over Manchuria, and (4) logistical (supply) support of the Chinese Nationalists for "effective operation against the Chinese mainland."

A Very Great Privilege
(An Editorial)

It is doubtful whether Americans ever again will hear a more completely soul-stirring and spirit-lifting address than was given yesterday afternoon by General Douglas MacArthur in the Capitol of the United States at Washington.

It was magnificent in its dignity, its scope, its rhetoric and its diction. It was a ringing speech in which a vibrant voice, deep from the heart of the speaker, closed out a career of 52 years in the army with a stalwart defense of the principles in which he believes, and was, in effect, a salute to the beloved dead and those who will continue the American tradition.

We believe it was a farewell speech which will rank in history with that of General George Washington, and in saying that we believe we have set the final mark of distinction upon the event.

And now we wonder how the President of the United States feels about the whole thing? Don't you suppose he feels low in mind, a victim of his own small spirit and the smaller ones who advise him? Don't you suppose he wishes he had simply recalled General MacArthur, as his commander-in-chief he was privileged to do, for a private White House conference? Suppose he had done that and at the same time had proclaimed a period of national celebrations for this great leader of our and United Nations forces, don't you suppose all America would have respected and admired Mr. President for this wise action?

As it is, all America today literally has turned its back upon the White House and is rewarding General MacArthur for his devotion to service, and is hailing Mrs. MacArthur for the spirit in which she met the grim days she faced from Bataan to Australia and back again.

This is a period of national jubilation and national mourning. It has been a very great privilege to applaud the General, but it has been a very sad thing to realize how impoverished our civilian leadership has become, how stupid we can be.

There is rest for the spirit in recalling the words of wisdom which solaced Lincoln, "This, too, shall come to pass." Well, so may it be, and may we have a prayer for the meantime.

Finish Fight Is Assured on Firing Issue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, April 20 (AP)—It looks like a fight to the finish between Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the Truman administration over the best strategy for victory in the Far East.

A surprise Defense Department statement last night putting President Truman's civilian and military advisers squarely behind his dismissal of the general was widely taken here today as a display of administration solidarity in preparation for a showdown policy struggle. The White House authorized the statement.

On the other side of the arguments, persons in position to know MacArthur's personal feelings described him as deeply convinced of the rightness of the ideas he expressed in his address to Congress yesterday and determined to see them through in the belief that majority opinion in Congress and throughout the country would support him.

Would Broaden Conflict

Moreover, his attack in a talk to the Daughters of the American Revolution late yesterday on "regimentation" in the United States indicated a willingness on his part to broaden the field of conflict to domestic as well as foreign policy issues.

Administration strategy in meeting MacArthur's headon challenge—as it is now being developed under White House leadership—is understood to be designed to accomplish two purposes:

1. To convince a majority of Congress and public opinion that MacArthur's key proposals to seek an early victory in the Korean war by taking new military measures against Red China actually would create a serious danger of setting off World War 3.

2. To demonstrate that in developing his own policy of fighting only a limited war in Korea, and in sticking to that policy, the President has acted on the advice of directly responsible military counselors—the joint chiefs of staffs.

Great Weight Expected

On both these points the opinions of military men are expected to carry great weight. The President therefore is due to rely heavily on the testimony before Congressional committees of Secretary of Defense Marshall and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Both, like MacArthur, are five-star generals. Earlier this week Bradley entered the MacArthur controversy publicly with a defense of the limited war policy.

Last night the Defense Department as a whole swung into the fray with a statement expressly prompted by General MacArthur's reference in his congressional speech to the Joint Chiefs of Staff. After advocating the program which he said was designed to produce a Korean victory with minimum delay and to save American and Allied lives, MacArthur declared he thought other military leaders in the past had shared his views about the military necessity of such action and that this included the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Seized as Key Point

Congressional critics and supporters of the general alike seized upon this as a key point: If the JCS thought MacArthur's ideas were right, then presumably they had disagreed with Mr. Truman at least in some respects and this, if publicly documented, would weaken the President's position in relation to MacArthur.

The Defense Department statement did not directly answer this point but it indicated, as some administration officials privately asserted, that the military leaders and the President would meet the MacArthur challenge with closed ranks. The statement, issued a few hours after a spokesman had said the department would make no comment, declared:

"In response to inquiries from the press concerning General MacArthur's reference to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a Pentagon spokesman said that the White House had authorized him to state that the action taken by the President in relieving General MacArthur was based upon

Editors Comment On General's Talk

(By The Associated Press)

The nation's newspapers today voiced commendation of General MacArthur's sincerity and patriotism in his address to the joint meeting of Congress. Some expressed doubt of wisdom of the military policy he advocated.

The New York Times said the general's speech bore out his claim that he was not the advocate of a partisan cause or a political aspirant.

But, it continued: "The issue here is not one of appeasement but of choosing the ground on which we wish to fight.

"General MacArthur himself agrees that his proposals are based on two assumptions—namely that the actions he advocates will crush Communist China and that Soviet Russia will not 'necessarily' join in the war. But the general himself seems to have doubts on the latter all-important point. And if his assumptions should prove wrong, as they did in the case of Communist China, the actions he advocates would not only lead to the catastrophe of a new World War. They would also put the onus for that war on us, even in the eyes of our friends."

'Surprise to Many'

The New Orleans Times-Picayune observed that "it came as a surprise to many that General MacArthur expressed his 'understanding' that the joint chiefs of staff favored the course he outlined against China. * * * his declaration that we can and must hold both fronts—Far East and western Europe—against the aggressor Soviet likewise will jolt our high politico-military command who were wondering how we may do even one of those chores at a time, and had con-

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—It was nearly seven years ago. New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey had just won the Republican nomination for president.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur sat in his headquarters at Brisbane, Australia, mulling over the portents of the American political campaign. Once he had hoped for the nomination Dewey got that day.

MacArthur was in a thinking-aloud mood with an audience of one person: this correspondent. What MacArthur said would have to be off the record, and it has been kept so.

But as dramatically as he spoke in Congress Thursday, he delivered to me a speech he said he would give if he were in Dewey's shoes.

Then he changed dramatically over into a speech he said he would give if he were in President Roosevelt's place.

The sense of it was that President Roosevelt would step down in favor of a younger man and wear the toga of senior United States political sachem for the rest of his life.

MacArthur ended on a personal note: "You may think this is strange coming from me, an old man of 64. But if you will look back through history you will find much of the trouble of the world may be laid to old men who won't step down."

At 71, he stepped down Thursday, saying:

"Old soldiers never die; they just fade away. * * *"

General Acknowledges Plaudits With Smiles, Waves of Hand

New York, April 20 (AP)—An estimated 7,500,000 persons turned out in New York today to give Gen. Douglas MacArthur the nation's greatest welcome to a returning hero.

The estimate of the astonishing and almost unbelievable size of the cheering, flag-waving throngs that lined the 15-mile route of his 50-car motorcade came from Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy.

From building to curbs the sidewalks of New York were packed with a dense mass of hoarsely shouting humanity. Office building windows were jammed.

Many of the spectators welcoming the old soldier back from the Far East came from neighboring states — Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Cheering throngs greeted him from the moment he drove out of his hotel driveway in a big open automobile at 11:06 a. m.

The weather was perfect — sunny and cool.

The general, smiling and waving, wore his familiar crushed officer's cap with its "scrambled eggs" visor and a long army overcoat. Seated beside him was Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri in a blue topcoat and a gray homburg hat.

Also in the car were Grover A. Whalen, the city's "official greeter," and Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, the general's aide.

A throng gathered outside the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel burst into cheering when the general's automobile appeared from the hotel's underground garage.

Shouts of "Hi, General," could be heard.

The wives of the general and the mayor rode in a second car. The general's 13-year-old son, Arthur, rode with his mother.

50 Cars in Motorcade

Headed by 86 motorcycle police, the 50-car motorcade turned north on Park avenue for Central Park where thousands of school children were waiting to shriek a welcome.

Torn paper showered from buildings along the normally-staid upper East Side district between the hotel and the park.

"Come on, MacArthur, save America," shouted one spectator whose strong voice echoed above the roars of the crowd.

Sidewalks along Park Avenue were packed seven and eight deep.

The general, seated in the right rear seat, waved a gloved hand at the noisy acclaim.

Police had difficulty holding the crowds back at some points.

"Hey general, hey general," shouted excited youngsters.

MacArthur arose at 7:30 a. m. (EST), and 40 minutes later, breakfast was sent to his 10-room suite on the 37th floor of the Waldorf Towers.

March City Accident Rate Shows Only 5 Hurt While Walking

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren's March report to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday listed the lowest accident rate in the city in more than a year.

The report showed only five pedestrians injured in five motor vehicle mishaps for the month. There were eight in February and 11 in January.

Of the 47 arrests reported, 22 were for public intoxication; six for disorderly conduct. There were four each for third degree assault, violations of the city traffic code and of the vehicle and traffic laws. Three arrests were made on petit larceny charges, and one for grand larceny, first degree.

Mac's Health Good

New York, April 20 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's health is magnificent, and has not been impaired by his recent strenuous schedule, his personal physician said today. "General MacArthur has stood this ordeal better than any of us," said Col. Charles Canada. "He has stood up to it magnificently."

At 71, he stepped down Thursday, saying:

A Very Great Privilege (An Editorial)

It is doubtful whether Americans ever again will hear a more completely soul-stirring and spirit-lifting address than was given yesterday afternoon by General Douglas MacArthur in the Capitol of the United States at Washington.

It was magnificent in its dignity, its scope, its rhetoric and its diction. It was a ringing speech in which a vibrant voice, deep from the heart of the speaker, closed out a career of 52 years in the army with a stalwart defense of the principles in which he believes, and was, in effect, a salute to the beloved dead and those who will continue the American tradition.

We believe it was a farewell speech which will rank in history with that of General George Washington, and in saying that we believe we have set the final mark of distinction upon the event.

And now we wonder how the President of the United States feels about the whole thing? Don't you suppose he feels low in mind, a victim of his own small spirit and the smaller ones who advise him? Don't you suppose he wishes he had simply recalled General MacArthur, as his commander-in-chief he was privileged to do, for a private White House conference? Suppose he had done that and at the same time had proclaimed a period of national celebrations for this great leader of our and United Nations forces, don't you suppose all America would have respected and admired Mr. President for this wise action?

As it is, all America today literally has turned its back upon the White House and is rewarding General MacArthur for his devotion to service, and is hailing Mrs. MacArthur for the spirit in which she met the grim days she faced from Bataan to Australia and back again.

This is a period of national jubilation and national mourning. It has been a very great privilege to applaud the General, but it has been a very sad thing to realize how impoverished our civilian leadership has become, how stupid we can be.

There is rest for the spirit in recalling the words of wisdom which solaced Lincoln, "This, too, shall come to pass." Well, so may it be, and may we have a prayer for the meantime.

Editors Comment On General's Talk

(By The Associated Press)

The nation's newspapers today voiced commendation of General MacArthur's sincerity and patriotism in his address to the joint meeting of Congress. Some expressed doubt of wisdom of the military policy he advocated.

The New York Times said the general's speech bore out his claim that he was not the advocate of a partisan cause or a political aspirant.

But, it continued: "The issue here is not one of appeasement but of choosing the ground on which we wish to fight.

"General MacArthur himself agrees that his proposals are based on two assumptions—namely that the actions he advocates will crush Communist China and that Soviet Russia will not 'necessarily' join in the war. But the general himself seems to have doubts on the latter all-important point. And if his assumptions should prove wrong, as they did in the case of Communist China, the actions he advocates would not only lead to the catastrophe of a new World War. They would also put the onus for that war on us, even in the eyes of our friends."

'Surprise to Many'

The New Orleans Times-Picayune observed that "it came as a surprise to many that General MacArthur expressed his 'understanding' that the joint chiefs of staff favored the course he outlined against China. * * * his declaration that we can and must hold both fronts—Far East and western Europe—against the aggressor Soviet likewise will jolt our high politico-military command who were wondering how we may do even one of those chores at a time, and had con-

Finish Fight Is Assured on Firing Issue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, April 20 (AP)—It looks like a fight to the finish between Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the Truman administration over the best strategy for victory in the Far East.

A surprise Defense Department statement last night putting President Truman's civilian and military advisers squarely behind his dismissal of the general was widely taken here today as a display of administration solidarity in preparation for a showdown policy struggle. The White House authorized the statement.

On the other side of the arguments, persons in position to know MacArthur's personal feelings described him as deeply convinced of the rightness of the ideas he expressed in his address to Congress yesterday and determined to see them through in the belief that majority opinion in Congress and throughout the country would support him.

Would Broaden Conflict

Moreover, his attack in a talk to the Daughters of the American Revolution late yesterday on "regimentation" in the United States indicated a willingness on his part to broaden the field of conflict to domestic as well as foreign policy issues.

Administration strategy in meeting MacArthur's headon challenge—as it is now being developed under White House leadership—is understood to be designed to accomplish two purposes:

1. To convince a majority of Congress and public opinion that MacArthur's key proposals to seek an early victory in the Korean war by taking new military measures against Red China actually would create a serious danger of setting off World War 3.

2. To demonstrate that in developing his own policy of fighting only a limited war in Korea, and in sticking to that policy, the President has acted on the advice of directly responsible military counselors—the joint chiefs of staffs.

Great Weight Expected

On both these points the opinions of military men are expected to carry great weight. The President therefore is due to rely heavily on the testimony before Congressional committees of Secretary of Defense Marshall and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Both, like MacArthur, are five-star generals. Earlier this week Bradley entered the MacArthur controversy publicly with a defense of the limited war policy.

Last night the Defense Department as a whole swung into the fray with a statement expressly prompted by General MacArthur's reference in his congressional speech to the Joint Chiefs of Staff. After advocating the program which he said was designed to produce a Korean victory with minimum delay and to save American and Allied lives, MacArthur declared he thought other military leaders in the past had shared his views about the military necessity of such action and that this included the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Seized as Key Point

Congressional critics and supporters of the general alike seized upon this as a key point: If the JCS thought MacArthur's ideas were right, then presumably they had disagreed with Mr. Truman at least in some respects and this, if publicly documented, would weaken the President's position in relation to MacArthur.

The Defense Department statement did not directly answer this point but it indicated, as some administration officials privately asserted, that the military leaders and the President would meet the MacArthur challenge with closed ranks. The statement, issued a few hours after a spokesman had said the department would make no comment, declared:

"In response to inquiries from the press concerning General MacArthur's reference to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a Pentagon spokesman said that the White House had authorized him to state that the action taken by the President in relieving General MacArthur was based upon

New York, April 20 (AP)—An estimated 7,500,000 persons turned out in New York today to give Gen. Douglas MacArthur the nation's greatest welcome to a returning hero.

The estimate of the astonishing and almost unbelievable size of the cheering, flag-waving throngs that lined the 15-mile route of his 50-car motorcade came from Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy.

From building to curbs the sidewalks of New York were packed with a dense mass of hoarsely shouting humanity. Office building windows were jammed.

Many of the spectators welcoming the old soldier back from the Far East came from neighboring states — Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Cheering throngs greeted him from the moment he drove out of his hotel driveway in a big open automobile at 11:06 a. m.

The weather was perfect — sunny and cool.

The general, smiling and waving, wore his familiar crushed officer's cap with its "scrambled eggs" visor and a long army overcoat. Seated beside him was Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri in a blue topcoat and a gray homburg hat.

Also in the car were Grover A. Whalen, the city's "official greeter," and Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, the general's aide.

A throng gathered outside the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel burst into cheering when the general's automobile appeared from the hotel's underground garage.

Shouts of "Hi, General," could be heard.

The wives of the general and the mayor rode in a second car. The general's 13-year-old son, Arthur, rode with his mother.

50 Cars in Motorcade

Headed by 86 motorcycle police, the 50-car motorcade turned north on Park avenue for Central Park where thousands of school children were waiting to shriek a welcome.

Torn paper showered from buildings along the normally-staid upper East Side district between the hotel and the park.

"Come on, MacArthur, save America," shouted one spectator whose strong voice echoed above the roars of the crowd.

Sidewalks along Park Avenue were packed seven and eight deep.

The general, seated in the right rear seat, waved a gloved hand at the noisy acclaim.

Police had difficulty holding the crowds back at some points.

"Hey general, hey general," shouted excited youngsters.

MacArthur arose at 7:30 a. m. (EST), and 40 minutes later, breakfast was sent to his 10-room suite on the 37th floor of the Waldorf Towers.

Flamethrowers Used by Americans in Clearing Path for Tanks

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—Stubborn rearguard Communists today hurled two counterattacks against allied units closing on Chorwon, presumed Red base.

An unestimated number of Reds attacked American troops eight miles southeast of Chorwon. The fight raged into late afternoon.

About 200 Reds hit allied lines in the same area Friday morning but were dispersed by artillery within 15 minutes.

Allied patrols were reported fighting strong Red units Friday night at several other points north of the front.

Doughboys wielding flamethrowers against Red outposts burned a path for tanks which moved up within gun range of Chorwon.

A United Nations tank-infantry column captured a hill one mile north of Hwachon reservoir's east tip after a four-hour fire fight with 300 Reds.

Pocket Is Hit

The allied column hit the stubborn pocket of Red Koreans Friday morning. Heavy air and artillery attacks softened the Communists just before the column rushed the hill.

Patrols easily dispersed a Red force northeast of Yanggu.

Artillery killed an estimated 50 Communists grouped near the reservoir's north bank.

U. S. Fifth Air Force fighters and light bombers, flying through an overcast, hurled 552 sorties at Chinese and North Korean frontline positions and other targets.

They attacked one concentration of 100 enemy vehicles and hit 26 towns.

Jet pilots reported they damaged three Red tanks and five other vehicles near Sinmak on the main Pyongyang-Seoul road.

600,000 Are Massed

Allied authorities estimated some 600,000 Red troops were massed north of Chorwon for an expected all-out spring assault. Chorwon is 18 miles inside North Korea.

There was little ground activity elsewhere Friday morning along the 140-mile front.

Allied troops continued to follow up Communist withdrawals.

Allied warships Friday pounded rubbled Wonsan on the east coast for the 62nd straight day. Farther north, naval shells screamed into Songjin port for the 43rd straight day.

With allied troops well north of the Red Korea border, the feeling

Underworld Boss Is Found Slain

New York, April 20 (AP)—The body of Philip Mangano, 50, high-ranking underworld boss, was found yesterday in a Brooklyn swamp in what police said may be the first in a series of killings of crime syndicate informers.

A high-ranking police official, who asked that his name be withheld, recalled Mangano held several conferences with the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigation Committee and FBI agents here.

The partly-stripped body of Mangano, Mafia and underworld chieftain, an associate of racketeers Joe Adonis and Albert Anastasia, was discovered lying on a long coil of rope, indicating he may have been killed elsewhere and dragged into the swamp grass. He had been shot three times in the head. On one finger was a costly diamond ring which, police thought, ruled out robbery as a motive.

City Will Remove Private Rubbish

Extra Men, Trucks to Go Around Next Week; Cooperation Asked

Extra men and trucks will be added to city forces for clean-up week in the city starting Monday, Ernest A Steuding, public works superintendent, said today.

All rubbish placed between curbs and sidewalks during the week will be picked up, he said, but he stressed that leaves and similar refuse must be in containers. Brush should be stacked.

Everything should be placed for convient handling, Steuding stressed, because the men will not have time to go into yards. Rubbish collections will continue through Friday.

Fire Chief's Caution

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, a staunch backer of clean-up week, requests all local residents to get rid of fire hazards as "a patriotic duty."

Needless fires, he said, are actually detrimental to national security at a time when "we are involved in hostilities in Korea."

A good job of house cleaning should be done in homes, offices, stores and industrial plants, he urged. Repair of buildings damaged by fires, he said, would curtail the limited supplies available for other than military purposes.

Face Rising Costs

Those who must repair fire-damaged structures, also face rising costs, and "viewed solely from the standpoint of personal interest we simply cannot afford to harbor common hazards which are known to cause nine out of every ten fires," he stressed.

It takes only a spark, a carelessly discarded cigarette or a match to set a pile of newspapers and rags ablaze, he said, and he urged everyone to clear away rubbish which has been allowed to accumulate during the winter. This eliminates the possibility of such a fire.

Loughran Is Reelected

Non-Red Newspapers Agree Communism Is Global Menace; Some See Long Controversy

London, April 20 (AP)—Non-Communist newspapers in western Europe said today Gen. MacArthur's speech before the U. S. Congress gave the world a dramatic example of the difference between democracy and Red dictatorship.

There was agreement with MacArthur that communism is a global menace and it is impossible to fight it in one place alone.

West Berlin's Der Tag commented that "yesterday Gen. MacArthur was able freely to present his opinions, which as everyone knows, disagree with that of the President and his secretary of state. This is a proof of democracy's strength. In Moscow, a stubborn general would have been silenced. In Washington he was called on to speak.

Der Tag added that "one may be of divided opinion over MacArthur's conception and his tactics up to now. But on one point he is incontrovertible: Communism threatens the whole world. Therefore, one cannot oppose it merely in one place alone."

Rome's Il Tempo, an independent newspaper, emphasized MacArthur's statement that communism is a global menace and suggested that after honors are rendered to the general it may be possible to modify present administration policy.

White House Approves Statement Chiefs Were for Dismissal

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's claim that the joint chiefs of staff once shared his views on Korean war strategy fired demands in Congress today for a policy showdown with the military high command.

The 71-year-old general of the army had gone on to New York, there to receive the nation's biggest welcome home, but he left behind him a capital torn with the bitterest controversy of a decade.

From Democrat as well as Republican lawmakers came demands that the joint chiefs of staff answer quickly whether they agree —from a military standpoint— with a four-point win-the-war program the deposed Pacific commander laid before a cheering Congress yesterday.

The Truman administration replied immediately to MacArthur's statement that he believed his strategy views had been shared in the past by most military men, "including our own joint chiefs of staff."

Declaration Not Refuted

The reply did not directly refute that declaration. Clayton Fritchey, chief public relations man of the Defense Department, said he had been authorized by the White House to say President Truman's action in firing MacArthur "was based upon the unanimous recommendations of the President's principal civilian and military advisers including the joint chiefs of staff."

The statement also referred to the reasons for MacArthur's ouster—Mr. Truman's expressed belief that the five-star general was unable to give his "whole-hearted support" to administration Far Eastern policy.

MacArthur's program for prosecution of the Korean war was in effect a protest against the administration's efforts to limit it strictly to the embattled Korean peninsula.

"Why, my soldiers asked of me surrender military advantages to an enemy in the field?" he said, "I could not answer."

Involves Three Factors

The MacArthur program involved (1) intensification of the economic blockade against the Chinese Reds, (2) naval blockade of the China coast, (3) authority for allied airpower to operate over Manchuria, and (4) logistical (supply) support of the Chinese Nationalists for "effective operation against the Chinese mainland."

Lawmakers rose and cheered as

7 Years Ago General Gave Views on Men Who Hang On

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—It was nearly seven years ago. New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey had just won the Republican nomination for president.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur sat in his headquarters at Brisbane, Australia, mulling over the portents of the American political campaign. Once he had hoped for the nomination Dewey got that day.

How to Pet a Porcupine

Loa, Utah, (AP)—Even porcupines can be friendly, but you must know which way to rub 'em. Perry L. Jackson, tourists' guide, found a porcupine asleep. Worthen Jackson, soothed the homely bark eater, stroked him and even picked him up.

Bradley Regards MacArthur Matter One for Politicians

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 20 (AP)—General Omar Bradley says General Douglas MacArthur's dismissal is a political question. And as a military man, he refuses to be drawn into a discussion on it.

However Bradley, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did comment here yesterday on a military aspect of the dismissal. During a question and answer period following a speech at the University of North Carolina, he was asked to say something on MacArthur's statement that he understood the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff shared MacArthur's view on the Korean situation from a military standpoint. Bradley's reply:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff by law are military advisers to the president. We rendered our advice to him on a military point of view. If we are going to be of use to the president, we feel our advice should be confidential. We would be destroying our usefulness if it was public."

Objective in Asia

Bradley used these words in answering a question on United States Far Eastern policy and aims in Asia:

"Our present objective in Asia is to stop the Communists—to kill as many as we can at the least possible cost to ourselves. Our aim is to try to arrive at a situation that will permit a settlement sometime and to get out of Korea."

Bradley answered another question by saying he thought MacArthur's speech to Congress yesterday was "very good" but it would not be proper for him to discuss it specifically. Before his speech Bradley referred newsmen to his remarks last week when he said "enlargement of the Korean war would jeopardize world peace and thus would threaten American security."

Bradley's speech to the Carolina Forum, a non-partisan student organization, was on the North Atlantic Pact. He said the choice "between Soviet domination and national political independence" is essentially responsible for the coalition of 12 nations into the North Atlantic Pact.

The word "and" is used 5513 times in the Old Testament of the Bible.

MacArthur Speech Praised by Dewey

Albany, N. Y., April 19 (AP)—Governor Dewey said yesterday that General MacArthur's speech to Congress showed the need of maintaining "our defenses and essential interests in the Pacific."

The governor telephoned his statement from Bermuda, where he is recuperating from a virus infection. He heard MacArthur's address on the radio.

The governor's statement:

"It was a direct and magnificent statement of the vital importance of success in Korea and of maintaining our defenses and essential interests in the Pacific."

Sam Rosoff Leaves Sum to Orphanage

New York, April 20 (AP)—Samuel R. Rosoff, subway builder, left the bulk of his as yet unestimated estate to his two sons, it was disclosed yesterday with filing of his will in Surrogate's Court.

Rosoff, who lived at 112 Central Park South, died April 12 in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. He was 68 years old.

The estate was valued for probate purposes only at "more than $20,000" and attorneys said they could not presently estimate its full extent.

In his will, dated August 19, 1950, Rosoff left one-half of his residuary estate outright to his son, Nathaniel B. Rosoff, of 50 Park avenue, whom he also named an executor.

The remaining half of the residuary estate Rosoff left in trust for his son, Stanley P. Rosoff, of Stevenson, Md., who will receive the income for life. On his death the money will go to his two children.

To his widow, Mrs. Rose Price Rosoff, the builder left a trust fund of $100,000 from which she will receive the income for life. On her death or remarriage the principal will revert to Nathaniel Rosoff.

Rosoff left $10,000 to the Daughters of Jacob Home and Hospital, the Bronx, and $5,000 to the Sacred Heart Orphan Asylum, West Park.

Sam Rosoff Leaves Sum to Orphanage

New York, April 20 (AP)—Samuel R. Rosoff, subway builder, left the bulk of his as yet unestimated estate to his two sons, it was disclosed yesterday with filing of his will in Surrogate's Court.

Rosoff, who lived at 112 Central Park South, died April 12 in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. He was 68 years old.

The estate was valued for probate purposes only at "more than $20,000" and attorneys said they could not presently estimate its full extent.

In his will, dated August 19, 1950, Rosoff left one-half of his residuary estate outright to his son, Nathaniel B. Rosoff, of 50 Park avenue, whom he also named an executor.

The remaining half of the residuary estate Rosoff left in trust for his son, Stanley P. Rosoff, of Stevenson, Md., who will receive the income for life. On his death the money will go to his two children.

To his widow, Mrs. Rose Price Rosoff, the builder left a trust fund of $100,000 from which she will receive the income for life. On her death or remarriage the principal will revert to Nathaniel Rosoff.

Rosoff left $10,000 to the Daughters of Jacob Home and Hospital, the Bronx, and $5,000 to the Sacred Heart Orphan Asylum, West Park.

Red Lay Mines

Taipeh, Formosa, April 20 (AP)—Chinese Nationalist Intelligence said today Russians were directing the laying of mines off Red China's eastern and southern coasts. Particularly heavy mine-laying was said to be in progress around the ports of Swatow and Amoy and off the Luichow peninsula, presumably as a safeguard against a Nationalist invasion.

Bradley Regards MacArthur Matter One for Politicians

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 20 (AP)—General Omar Bradley says General Douglas MacArthur's dismissal is a political question. And as a military man, he refuses to be drawn into a discussion on it.

However Bradley, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did comment here yesterday on a military aspect of the dismissal. During a question and answer period following a speech at the University of North Carolina, he was asked to say something on MacArthur's statement that he understood the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff shared MacArthur's view on the Korean situation from a military standpoint. Bradley's reply:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff by law are military advisers to the president. We rendered our advice to him on a military point of view. If we are going to be of use to the president, we feel our advice should be confidential. We would be destroying our usefulness if it was public."

Objective in Asia

Bradley used these words in answering a question on United States Far Eastern policy and aims in Asia:

"Our present objective in Asia is to stop the Communists—to kill as many as we can at the least possible cost to ourselves. Our aim is to try to arrive at a situation that will permit a settlement sometime and to get out of Korea."

Bradley answered another question by saying he thought MacArthur's speech to Congress yesterday was "very good" but it would not be proper for him to discuss it specifically. Before his speech Bradley referred newsmen to his remarks last week when he said "enlargement of the Korean war would jeopardize world peace and thus would threaten American security."

Bradley's speech to the Carolina Forum, a non-partisan student organization, was on the North Atlantic Pact. He said the choice "between Soviet domination and national political independence" is essentially responsible for the coalition of 12 nations into the North Atlantic Pact.

The word "and" is used 5513 times in the Old Testament of the Bible.

MacArthur Speech Praised by Dewey

Albany, N. Y., April 19 (AP)—Governor Dewey said yesterday that General MacArthur's speech to Congress showed the need of maintaining "our defenses and essential interests in the Pacific."

The governor telephoned his statement from Bermuda, where he is recuperating from a virus infection. He heard MacArthur's address on the radio.

The governor's statement:

"It was a direct and magnificent statement of the vital importance of success in Korea and of maintaining our defenses and essential interests in the Pacific."

STATESMAN AND PATRIOT

The death of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan is a great loss to the public service.

Though otherwise an undeviating Republican, Senator Vandenberg has been above party on all matters of foreign policy. His hearty support of the charter of the United Nations helped, in 1945, to persuade the Senate to accept it with only two dissenting votes, proving that American approval of the new organization was general and ungrudging.

Not the least remarkable fact about Vandenberg was his mental growth. Many persons in middle life are fixed in their viewpoints, incapable of changing their opinions though the world changes around them. Vandenberg was in his late fifties when he grew from his original isolationism to a recognition of the intimate connection between the United States and other nations.

That development of the last decade, the bipartisan foreign policy, had Senator Vandenberg for its mainspring. He was able in the main to restrain those who were willing to risk sacrificing the national future for present-day political capital. In this capacity he has no visible successor.

MEAT AS A LUXURY

Members of the staff of experts of the House-Senate Economic Committee evidently are not concerned with making themselves popular. They suggested, in a report on combatting inflation, that meat might well be taxed as a luxury, since it is, they said, in reality a luxury food.

Admittedly there are times when we get the idea that meat is in the luxury price class. But the average American has been fed to maturity on a diet which includes meat at least as regularly as any other kind of food; it is an accepted necessity. The fact that meat is a rare treat in the diets of peoples in many other lands does not alter the American's attitude toward it.

We do not want to adopt other people's ideas of luxury; it is much better for us and for the world to try to spread abroad our own standards of ordinary living. In certain lands, it might be remembered, the simple privilege of keeping one's head on his shoulders is regarded as a luxury.

AUTOGRAPH COLLECTING

The eager young things who collect autographs from the celebrities with whom they come into contact may be having fun, but they are not laying up an investment for future spending as some may suppose. While autographs of noted persons at times are salable, sometimes for good sums, there is a catch in it, pointed out by R. W. G. Vail, director of the New York Historical Society. Addressing a New York group of collectors, he said that a mere autograph, unconnected with any letter or document, is likely to be valueless. The real money goes for a signed letter, especially if it has some significance. A mere acceptance of a dinner invitation, from someone otherwise unknown to fame, is not interesting and not valuable.

Despite all this, our youth will probably still continue to collect autographs.

NATIONAL TOLL ROADS

Senator Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia has introduced a bill to create a federal corporation to build and operate a national system of toll superhighways. His suggestion is so revolutionary, besides coming at a time when the government faces the need to retrench, that it probably will get little serious attention. But so much of highway traffic these days is interstate that it seems reasonable that the federal government should own some main highways outright, in addition to helping with the building and upkeep of others. This idea may be worth putting on the back of the stove to cook.

When President Vincent Auriol of France, visiting New York City, kissed the American Vincent, Mayor Impelliteri, he exhibited a French practice which Americans have never understood. A salute on the cheek is regulation in France for men receiving an honor, as a soldier getting a medal. An American recipient of the Distinguished Service Cross would probably faint dead away if his commanding officer took the occasion to kiss him.

Earning a million dollars is tough enough, but collecting it with Uncle Sam's competition is quite another matter.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

IT'S HARD TO DECIDE

Every editor, columnist and radio commentator receives an enormous mail which establishes without doubt the existence of a terrifying confusion in the minds of our people. Only 20 odd years ago, most Americans were certain of their beliefs and goals; they were certain that they knew what the American way of life meant. They had faith in their country and its national ideals.

Then all of a sudden their world collapsed about them and they became a frightened and confused people. During the past 20 years, every kind of idea, solution, panacea, leadership has been hammered into them by men and women, good and bad, selfish and unselfish, politicians and propagandists. Many European countries have taken advantage of our confusions to project their own ideas and purposes, only to add to our problems by the conflicts among them.

Karl Pearson, way back in 1892, in his "The Grammar of Science," wrote:

"It is little wonder that we have hitherto made small way towards a common estimate of what our time is really contributing to the history of human progress. The one man finds in our time a restlessness, a distrust of authority, a questioning of the basis of all social institutions and long-established methods—characteristics which mark for him a decadence of social unity, a collapse of the only principles which he conceives capable of guiding conduct. The other with a different temperament pictures for us a golden age in the near future, when the new knowledge shall be diffused through the people, and when the new view of human relations, which he finds everywhere taking root, shall finally have supplanted worn-out customs."

Professor Robert A. Millikan in 1931 could say this:

"In my judgment war is now in process of being abolished chiefly by this relentless advance of science, its most powerful enemy. It has existed in spite of religion, and in spite of philosophy, and in spite of social ethics, and in spite of humanitarianism and the golden rule, since the days of the cave-man because, in accordance with the evolutionary philosophy of modern science, and simply because, it has had survival value. It will disappear like the dinosaur when and only when, the conditions which have given it its survival value have disappeared, and those conditions are disappearing now primarily because of the changes in world conditions being brought about by the growth of modern science."

Karl Pearson wrote before the Bolshevik revolution in Russia, which occurred in 1917; Robert A. Millikan after that event. Here are two really profound thinkers gazing at the impact of ideas upon the minds of men. Karl Pearson lived at a moment when Europe was moving toward the Twentieth Century; Professor Millikan, after it had moved into its third decade and had passed through the morally devastating World War I.

Our confusions are a product of a retreat from morality. The last war was a competition in falsehood. It would seem that all sides lied and the lies were accepted as truth. Therefore, what is eternally and universally true had to be rejected. When the amenities and proprieties to which a people are accustomed disappear from their lives, the markers for right living are darkened.

I was thinking about that recently in connection with the use of the phrase which the President employed to describe Drew Pearson and which Senator McCarthy is reported to have employed to describe the President. None of this is pleasant; but worse than that, it gives high official sanction to vulgarities. There was a time when mothers washed out their sons' mouths with brown soap for such language—and it was a much more decent world then.

My point is that our confusions increase not because of politics and wars but because unless a people live within the margins of their own traditions, they do not know how to live at all. Anything goes only with those who have nowhere to go. Hit and miss private living produces hit and miss public life. Those funny shirts President Truman likes to wear in Florida look all right on everybody except Harry Truman. They give him a posture that cheapens the office which he holds, just as his language often produces disrespect not only for him but for the government which he heads.

This discussion may not solve any problems, but it is designed to stir a discussion on fundamentals.

That Body of Yours

A NEW DRUG FOR COLITIS

There are two types of colitis. Simple, or mucous, colitis is practically chronic diarrhea, with sometimes a spasm which causes a partial closure or tightness of the colon, causing constipation. Simple colitis is believed to be caused in the majority of cases by nervousness and emotional disturbances. In some cases rough or coarse foods appear to be the cause. By avoiding emotional disturbances and eating mild or soft foods, most cases of mucous colitis get along fairly well and it never causes death.

However, the second type, ulcerative colitis, is a serious condition. There is a mass of ulcers present with formation of pus, both blood and pus being found in the stools. Ulcerative colitis is also considered to be caused in its early stages by emotional disturbances.

For many years the most successful treatment of ulcerative colitis was the surgical removal of a portion of the bowel. However, when the sulfa drugs came along and, a little later, penicillin, these drugs, called antibiotics as they kill harmful organisms, were found fairly effective. Less surgery is now used.

In The New York State Journal of Medicine, Dr. Z. T. Bercovitz reports his treatment of 24 patients with chronic ulcerative colitis by use of chloromycetin, another new wonder drug. Three grams daily were observed to be the most effective dosage. Thirteen patients showed pronounced improvement during the first month of observation. There was a prompt and dramatic decrease in the number of bowel movements, stools were normal, no blood or mucous, no night movements, and no discomfort in abdomen. These 13 patients became normal as far as the colon or bowel was concerned.

Three patients were moderately improved. Eight patients showed no change whatever, although there appeared to be a slight improvement early in the treatment.

Chloromycetin prevented relapses and the patients continued to improve even after the drug was discontinued.

Dr. Bercovitz states that the real value of chloromycetin can be estimated only after five years of careful following of these cases.

In the meantime, many patients will be spared the suffering of this distressing and disabling disease.

Diet Suggestions in Mucous Colitis

Many ailments such as mucous colitis require that we obtain a calm outlook on life. "Diet Suggestions in Mucous Colitis," a leaflet issued by Dr. Barton, may help many. The Road Back

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—At an explosive Republican senatorial strategy meeting this week, the big GOP guns warned against tieing the Republican Party too closely to MacArthur's kite.

One of those who led the warning was Senator Taft, whose friends have been worried that MacArthur might crowd him as the GOP presidential candidate in 1952.

"We don't know what MacArthur is going to say when he gets here," Taft told the strategy meeting. "As a political party we should keep out of this."

Senator Millikin of Colorado chimed in that occasionally past "conquering heroes" had come home and put their foot in their mouths. He recalled that Admiral Dewey, the conqueror of Manila, got a hero's reception and was presented with a free house, then transferred the house to his wife. Millikin also cited Charles Lindbergh, who came home to a hero's welcome and later made some remarks that offended religious groups.

However, the sharpest Republican fire was concentrated on Senator Cain of Washington for putting the Republican Party on the spot with his resolution declaring war on China. His colleagues agreed it was politically ill-advised, and ripped into him unmercifully.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, who has been Secretary of State Acheson's bitter foe, actually snorted: "As far as the Cain resolution is concerned, I am on Acheson's side."

Senator Young of North Dakota warned that declaring war on China would do "more damage than anything that has happened in the Republican Party in five years."

Senator Aiken of Vermont pointed out a "slight technical" obstacle. He brought out that "we can't declare war against a government that we have refused to recognize."

Cain Argues

However, Cain tried to defend his position by arguing that his real purpose was to "pin this war on Truman as Truman's war."

He pointed out that the President in his April 11 speech mentioned war 21 times. However, Cain's colleagues failed to follow his reasoning.

In the end, Cain insisted that he had promised to introduce the resolution and intended to go through with it. However, he agreed to make a statement that his only purpose was to focus attention on the China issue, since Truman had already got the country into war.

The most explosive outburst of the closed-door meeting came from Indiana's wild senator Jenner. He was spurred out of his seat by a remark from Senator Taft that "no responsible Republican senator would advocate impeachment."

To this Jenner shouted angrily: "I may not be part of the responsible Republican leadership, but I have my own opinion."

He demanded immediate impeachment of President Truman and used considerable profanity in demanding it.

Senator Ecton of Montana tried to soothe Jenner by explaining it was up to the House to bring impeachment proceedings and the Senate was supposed to act as a jury. Ecton cautioned that it would be improper for a senator who was supposed to sit on the jury to express advance opinions about impeachment.

In response to a suggestion that the Republicans appoint a welcoming committee, Milliken declared, "MacArthur must be left in the hands of the public. It shouldn't look like the Republicans are sponsoring him."

Beating Enlisted Men

It has been hushed up by the navy, but the Norfolk, Va., shore patrol has been officially accused of kicking and beating servicemen and throwing them into the brig without their shoes.

These shocking reports were made in a confidential report by Rear Adm. F. N. Kivette, who was skipper of the aircraft carrier Midway until his promotion to admiral last month.

Kivette ordered his own investigation of the Norfolk shore patrol and sent a sharp report to the navy, charging that the Norfolk SP's were "arrogant, dictatorial, arbitrary, sometimes abusive and occasionally brutal."

Kivette's investigation was conducted by Ensign Robert E. Kenyon. Here are excerpts from the officer's report:

Telling of an air force enlisted man, R. T. Cullen, who was hauled in by the shore patrol for alleged drunkenness, the report charges: "Two SP's and a chief petty officer held Cullen on the deck, and a person or persons slapped him a few times. He was then restored to his feet where he was held while the CPO hit him. Cullen then lost consciousness and recovered to find himself on the floor again. The chief petty officer kicked him in the chest and two shore patrolmen picked him up and threw him in a cell. Cullen further states that his cell was void of furnishings of any sort, and that he was deprived of his shoes during his confinement."

Later, Cullen's friends called at SP headquarters to find out what charges had been brought against him. The report declares that one of these friends, Apprentice Seaman Charles Passwater, "was told to take everything out of his clothes. As Passwater started to comply, the CPO hit him more than once. When told by the CPO to remove a small crucifix and chain about his neck, Passwater attempted to comply but before he could do so, the CPO seized it and broke the chain. Passwater was then deprived of his shoes and placed in confinement."

Commenting upon his subordinate's report, Admiral Kivette declared: "I believe these to be true and not isolated cases."

The admiral also added: "The very few but brief reports I have had concerning the condition of the shore patrol brig are calculated to induce nausea without a visual inspection."

Another "typical" case, submitted by Kivette, was that of Olen L. Pearson, an enlisted man, who was arrested for reckless driving.

"The shore patrol refused to discuss the matter, took Pearson's automobile keys and put him in the patrol truck. No effort was made to permit Pearson to lock his automobile or to see to the protection of his lady friend," Kivette reported.

"A camera, a suit of clothes, a raincoat and a pair of shoes were stolen from Pearson's automobile before he could return to get them."

Congress Was Impressed Greatly by General MacArthur's Speech at Capitol

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 20 — They came, they saw and they heard. They—the Congress of the United States—went away profoundly impressed that here was no ordinary man, no ordinary soldier, no ordinary general. For here was a statesman speaking, a man from the pages of history whose dramatic appeal to his countrymen for courage against defeatism, for boldness and resoluteness against softness and appeasement will be recorded for all time as the appeal magnificent. Here was Douglas MacArthur closing 52 years of military service to his country.

Those partisans who came expecting a political dynamic or a petty complaint against the fate that deprived him of his command in such humilating manner found an entirely different spokesman. His speech was the voice of the soldier caught in a trap in Korea but serving his flag and not asking the reason why. His speech was the voice of the America of yesteryears when Americans did not prate of defeat and speak with fear and trembling to the enemy that had despoiled a weaker nation and tortured or killed prisoners.

Members of the Senate and House—Republicans and Democrats—listened as if transfixed. They heard a man of deep conviction, talking with an emotion restrained with difficulty as he told of Asia—the far-off continent where revolutionary changes are in progress. He told of Japan, beaten six years ago, but now on the way to democracy. He spoke feelingly of the desperate effort of the Korean people to save their independence. He spoke sympathetically of the slow but sure evolution of government in the Philippines.

But the speech was not one of mere sentiment. It was the well-mobilized argument of a man who for a quarter of a century or more has studied the Far East—its culture and its aspirations against colonialism. He spoke as a liberal about the hopes of peoples as against tyrants. He did not fail to speak also of the great hopes of the world for peace by means of collective security.

All the ideals of America General MacArthur articulated with the measured phrases of a statesman. All the hopes of the world for an end to war as a means of settling disputes he championed with wholehearted devotion. But, he warned, once a nation enters a war, there is no time for retreat or appeasement, no time for compromise. He said with an emphasis that shook the chamber with applause: "There is no substitute for victory."

The general built up point by point the case for a defense line in the Far Pacific—Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. He said if that line was broken, our own Pacific coast would not be safe. And then he emphasized why it was important to hold Formosa.

The statement that came as the biggest surprise was his flat declaration that the U. S. joint chiefs of staff in the past had agreed with this military strategy.

There will, of course, be controversy over various points in the speech. It will be debated and perhaps investigating committees of Congress will ask for the documents and evidence relating to it.

The general has notified Senator Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, that, while he does not want to get into a controversy or pursue these matters, he will willingly cooperate with the committee should it desire him to amplify his views. So Senator Russell plans next week to fix a time, possibly for the following week, when the Armed Services Committee will go into details, with General MacArthur as a witness.

Meanwhile, the national capital still is shocked by the whole affair. The reception given General MacArthur was so striking that it could not but overwhelm for the time being almost every other activity of the government. The welcome to the general was, of course, a tribute to a great soldier as well as to a soldier-statesman.

But it was also a human reaction to the summary way in which a great general had been instantly relieved of his command without even being given the opportunity to say farewell to his troops. No similar case is on record in all the history of the United States. Generals have been ordered to relinquish their commands but on none has such a sentence been imposed—without trial—with so abrupt a detachment from his command without a real word of explanation of what orders or instructions he had violated, if any. The conclusion is inescapable—General MacArthur was made the victim of the petty political spirit of our times.

The stature of General MacArthur, after his address to Congress, looms larger and makes an even deeper imprint on the pages of history. He was magnificent in his words of farewell. It was an hour of triumph in which the people, in effect, repudiated the sad implications of government by petty politics and raised their eyes with hope as they heard the first words of real leadership that have come from the national capital in many a long year.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Kingstonians may tire hearing about the "Ulster County Gazette" of 1800 but newspapers all over the country do not tire giving it space. For instance I just received from Myron S. Teller, a page from "The Sacramento Union" a morning newspaper of Sacramento, California, dated February 26, 1951. They gave it some 15 inches of space with large headlines. It reads in part: "Ancient paper reports burial of Washington. It was found in Del Paso Heights. Owner of the ancient copy is O. D. Broughton, Del Paso Heights printer. He found it tucked away in an old book." So it goes in all the states, someone finds a copy somewhere and brings it to their local newspaper.

The Sacramento News copied the following interesting items from it and give their own comments which may interest local folks: "The yellowed pages reveal that in spite of Washington's advice to 'avoid all foreign entanglements?' the nation was even then watching with anxiety the war situation in Europe and was debating the question of maintaining the armed forces."

A report from the Senate to President John Adams, contains the following statement: "When we reflect upon the late uncertainly of the results of the late mission to France; and upon the uncommon nature, extent, and aspect of the war now raging in Europe, which affects materially our relations with the powers at war, and which has changed the condition of those colonies our neighborhood; we are of the opinion with you, that it would be neither wise or safe to relax our measures of defense or to lessen any of our preparations to repel aggression..."

This was evidently in reference to the Napoleonic Wars then beginning in Europe. News items labeled "Latest Foreign Reports" carry the date line, October, 1779, three months previous to publication, illustrating the slowness of communications in that line.

Reference also is made of internal strife in an item which reads: "...the acts and calumnies of factions and designing men have excited open rebellion a second time in Pennsylvania and thereby compelled the employment of a military force to aid the civil authorities in the execution of the laws....The promptitude and zeal displayed by the troops called to suppress this insurrection deserves our highest commendation and praise, and affords a pleasing proof of the spirit and alacrity with which our fellow citizens are ready to maintain the authority of our excellent government."

Installment plan buying was popular even in 1800 as illustrated by one advertisement listing property for sale. It reads: "A reasonable time of payment will be given by owner." Another item reads: "Writing, wrapping and bonnet paper are for sale at the printing office."

Someone in the "Sacramento Union" newspaper office certainly went over our Kingston "Ulster County Gazette" with a magnifying glass. I own two copies recently reprinted in Azusa, California, for their anniversary.

STATESMAN AND PATRIOT

The death of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan is a great loss to the public service.

Though otherwise an undeviating Republican, Senator Vandenberg has been above party on all matters of foreign policy. His hearty support of the charter of the United Nations helped, in 1945, to persuade the Senate to accept it with only two dissenting votes, proving that American approval of the new organization was general and ungrudging.

Not the least remarkable fact about Vandenberg was his mental growth. Many persons in middle life are fixed in their viewpoints, incapable of changing their opinions though the world changes around them. Vandenberg was in his late fifties when he grew from his original isolationism to a recognition of the intimate connection between the United States and other nations.

That development of the last decade, the bipartisan foreign policy, had Senator Vandenberg for its mainspring. He was able in the main to restrain those who were willing to risk sacrificing the national future for present-day political capital. In this capacity he has no visible successor.

MEAT AS A LUXURY

Members of the staff of experts of the House-Senate Economic Committee evidently are not concerned with making themselves popular. They suggested, in a report on combatting inflation, that meat might well be taxed as a luxury, since it is, they said, in reality a luxury food.

Admittedly there are times when we get the idea that meat is in the luxury price class. But the average American has been fed to maturity on a diet which includes meat at least as regularly as any other kind of food; it is an accepted necessity. The fact that meat is a rare treat in the diets of peoples in many other lands does not alter the American's attitude toward it.

We do not want to adopt other people's ideas of luxury; it is much better for us and for the world to try to spread abroad our own standards of ordinary living. In certain lands, it might be remembered, the simple privilege of keeping one's head on his shoulders is regarded as a luxury.

AUTOGRAPH COLLECTING

The eager young things who collect autographs from the celebrities with whom they come into contact may be having fun, but they are not laying up an investment for future spending as some may suppose. While autographs of noted persons at times are salable, sometimes for good sums, there is a catch in it, pointed out by R. W. G. Vail, director of the New York Historical Society. Addressing a New York group of collectors, he said that a mere autograph, unconnected with any letter or document, is likely to be valueless. The real money goes for a signed letter, especially if it has some significance. A mere acceptance of a dinner invitation, from someone otherwise unknown to fame, is not interesting and not valuable.

Despite all this, our youth will probably still continue to collect autographs.

NATIONAL TOLL ROADS

Senator Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia has introduced a bill to create a federal corporation to build and operate a national system of toll superhighways. His suggestion is so revolutionary, besides coming at a time when the government faces the need to retrench, that it probably will get little serious attention. But so much of highway traffic these days is interstate that it seems reasonable that the federal government should own some main highways outright, in addition to helping with the building and upkeep of others. This idea may be worth putting on the back of the stove to cook.

When President Vincent Auriol of France, visiting New York City, kissed the American Vincent, Mayor Impelliteri, he exhibited a French practice which Americans have never understood. A salute on the cheek is regulation in France for men receiving an honor, as a soldier getting a medal. An American recipient of the Distinguished Service Cross would probably faint dead away if his commanding officer took the occasion to kiss him.

Earning a million dollars is tough enough, but collecting it with Uncle Sam's competition is quite another matter.

'These Days'

IT'S HARD TO DECIDE

Every editor, columnist and radio commentator receives an enormous mail which establishes without doubt the existence of a terrifying confusion in the minds of our people. Only 20 odd years ago, most Americans were certain of their beliefs and goals; they were certain that they knew what the American way of life meant. They had faith in their country and its national ideals.

Then all of a sudden their world collapsed about them and they became a frightened and confused people. During the past 20 years, every kind of idea, solution, panacea, leadership has been hammered into them by men and women, good and bad, selfish and unselfish, politicians and propagandists. Many European countries have taken advantage of our confusions to project their own ideas and purposes, only to add to our problems by the conflicts among them.

Karl Pearson, way back in 1892, in his "The Grammar of Science," wrote:

"It is little wonder that we have hitherto made small way towards a common estimate of what our time is really contributing to the history of human progress. The one man finds in our time a restlessness, a distrust of authority, a questioning of the basis of all social institutions and long-established methods—characteristics which mark for him a decadence of social unity, a collapse of the only principles which he conceives capable of guiding conduct. The other with a different temperament pictures for us a golden age in the near future, when the new knowledge shall be diffused through the people, and when the new view of human relations, which he finds everywhere taking root, shall finally have supplanted worn-out customs."

Professor Robert A. Millikan in 1931 could say this:

"In my judgment war is now in process of being abolished chiefly by this relentless advance of science, its most powerful enemy. It has existed in spite of religion, and in spite of philosophy, and in spite of social ethics, and in spite of humanitarianism and the golden rule, since the days of the cave-man because, in accordance with the evolutionary philosophy of modern science, and simply because, it has had survival value. It will disappear like the dinosaur when and only when, the conditions which have given it its survival value have disappeared, and those conditions are disappearing now primarily because of the changes in world conditions being brought about by the growth of modern science."

Karl Pearson wrote before the Bolshevik revolution in Russia, which occurred in 1917; Robert A. Millikan after that event. Here are two really profound thinkers gazing at the impact of ideas upon the minds of men. Karl Pearson lived at a moment when Europe was moving toward the Twentieth Century; Professor Millikan, after it had moved into its third decade and had passed through the morally devastating World War I.

Our confusions are a product of a retreat from morality. The last war was a competition in falsehood. It would seem that all sides lied and the lies were accepted as truth. Therefore, what is eternally and universally true had to be rejected. When the amenities and proprieties to which a people are accustomed disappear from their lives, the markers for right living are darkened.

I was thinking about that recently in connection with the use of the phrase which the President employed to describe Drew Pearson and which Senator McCarthy is reported to have employed to describe the President. None of this is pleasant; but worse than that, it gives high official sanction to vulgarities. There was a time when mothers washed out their sons' mouths with brown soap for such language—and it was a much more decent world then.

My point is that our confusions increase not because of politics and wars but because unless a people live within the margins of their own traditions, they do not know how to live at all. Anything goes only with those who have nowhere to go. Hit and miss private living produces hit and miss public life. Those funny shirts President Truman likes to wear in Florida look all right on everybody except Harry Truman. They give him a posture that cheapens the office which he holds, just as his language often produces disrespect not only for him but for the government which he heads.

This discussion may not solve any problems, but it is designed to stir a discussion on fundamentals.

That Body of Yours

A NEW DRUG FOR COLITIS

There are two types of colitis. Simple, or mucous, colitis is practically chronic diarrhea, with sometimes a spasm which causes a partial closure or tightness of the colon, causing constipation. Simple colitis is believed to be caused in the majority of cases by nervousness and emotional disturbances. In some cases rough or coarse foods appear to be the cause. By avoiding emotional disturbances and eating mild or soft foods, most cases of mucous colitis get along fairly well and it never causes death.

However, the second type, ulcerative colitis, is a serious condition. There is a mass of ulcers present with formation of pus, both blood and pus being found in the stools. Ulcerative colitis is also considered to be caused in its early stages by emotional disturbances.

For many years the most successful treatment of ulcerative colitis was the surgical removal of a portion of the bowel. However, when the sulfa drugs came along and, a little later, penicillin, these drugs, called antibiotics as they kill harmful organisms, were found fairly effective. Less surgery is now used.

In The New York State Journal of Medicine, Dr. Z. T. Bercovitz reports his treatment of 24 patients with chronic ulcerative colitis by use of chloromycetin, another new wonder drug. Three grams daily were observed to be the most effective dosage. Thirteen patients showed pronounced improvement during the first month of observation. There was a prompt and dramatic decrease in the number of bowel movements, stools were normal, no blood or mucous, no night movements, and no discomfort in abdomen. These 13 patients became normal as far as the colon or bowel was concerned.

Three patients were moderately improved. Eight patients showed no change whatever, although there appeared to be a slight improvement early in the treatment.

Chloromycetin prevented relapses and the patients continued to improve even after the drug was discontinued.

Dr. Bercovitz states that the real value of chloromycetin can be estimated only after five years of careful following of these cases.

In the meantime, many patients will be spared the suffering of this distressing and disabling disease.

The Road Back

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—At an explosive Republican senatorial strategy meeting this week, the big GOP guns warned against tieing the Republican Party too closely to MacArthur's kite.

One of those who led the warning was Senator Taft, whose friends have been worried that MacArthur might crowd him as the GOP presidential candidate in 1952.

"We don't know what MacArthur is going to say when he gets here," Taft told the strategy meeting. "As a political party we should keep out of this."

Senator Millikin of Colorado chimed in that occasionally past "conquering heroes" had come home and put their foot in their mouths. He recalled that Admiral Dewey, the conqueror of Manila, got a hero's reception and was presented with a free house, then transferred the house to his wife. Millikin also cited Charles Lindbergh, who came home to a hero's welcome and later made some remarks that offended religious groups.

However, the sharpest Republican fire was concentrated on Senator Cain of Washington for putting the Republican Party on the spot with his resolution declaring war on China. His colleagues agreed it was politically ill-advised, and ripped into him unmercifully.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, who has been Secretary of State Acheson's bitter foe, actually snorted: "As far as the Cain resolution is concerned, I am on Acheson's side."

Senator Young of North Dakota warned that declaring war on China would do "more damage than anything that has happened in the Republican Party in five years."

Senator Aiken of Vermont pointed out a "slight technical" obstacle. He brought out that "we can't declare war against a government that we have refused to recognize."

Cain Argues

However, Cain tried to defend his position by arguing that his real purpose was to "pin this war on Truman as Truman's war."

He pointed out that the President in his April 11 speech mentioned war 21 times. However, Cain's colleagues failed to follow his reasoning.

In the end, Cain insisted that he had promised to introduce the resolution and intended to go through with it. However, he agreed to make a statement that his only purpose was to focus attention on the China issue, since Truman had already got the country into war.

The most explosive outburst of the closed-door meeting came from Indiana's wild senator Jenner. He was spurred out of his seat by a remark from Senator Taft that "no responsible Republican senator would advocate impeachment."

To this Jenner shouted angrily: "I may not be part of the responsible Republican leadership, but I have my own opinion."

He demanded immediate impeachment of President Truman and used considerable profanity in demanding it.

Senator Ecton of Montana tried to soothe Jenner by explaining it was up to the House to bring impeachment proceedings and the Senate was supposed to act as a jury. Ecton cautioned that it would be improper for a senator who was supposed to sit on the jury to express advance opinions about impeachment.

In response to a suggestion that the Republicans appoint a welcoming committee, Milliken declared, "MacArthur must be left in the hands of the public. It shouldn't look like the Republicans are sponsoring him."

Beating Enlisted Men

It has been hushed up by the navy, but the Norfolk, Va., shore patrol has been officially accused of kicking and beating servicemen and throwing them into the brig without their shoes.

These shocking reports were made in a confidential report by Rear Adm. F. N. Kivette, who was skipper of the aircraft carrier Midway until his promotion to admiral last month.

Kivette ordered his own investigation of the Norfolk shore patrol and sent a sharp report to the navy, charging that the Norfolk SP's were "arrogant, dictatorial, arbitrary, sometimes abusive and occasionally brutal."

Kivette's investigation was conducted by Ensign Robert E. Kenyon. Here are excerpts from the officer's report:

Telling of an air force enlisted man, R. T. Cullen, who was hauled in by the shore patrol for alleged drunkenness, the report charges: "Two SP's and a chief petty officer held Cullen on the deck, and a person or persons slapped him a few times. He was then restored to his feet where he was held while the CPO hit him. Cullen then lost consciousness and recovered to find himself on the floor again. The chief petty officer kicked him in the chest and two shore patrolmen picked him up and threw him in a cell. Cullen further states that his cell was void of furnishings of any sort, and that he was deprived of his shoes during his confinement."

Later, Cullen's friends called at SP headquarters to find out what charges had been brought against him. The report declares that one of these friends, Apprentice Seaman Charles Passwater, "was told to take everything out of his clothes. As Passwater started to comply, the CPO hit him more than once. When told by the CPO to remove a small crucifix and chain about his neck, Passwater attempted to comply but before he could do so, the CPO seized it and broke the chain. Passwater was then deprived of his shoes and placed in confinement."

Commenting upon his subordinate's report, Admiral Kivette declared: "I believe these to be true and not isolated cases."

The admiral also added: "The very few but brief reports I have had concerning the condition of the shore patrol brig are calculated to induce nausea without a visual inspection."

Another "typical" case, submitted by Kivette, was that of Olen L. Pearson, an enlisted man, who was arrested for reckless driving.

"The shore patrol refused to discuss the matter, took Pearson's automobile keys and put him in the patrol truck. No effort was made to permit Pearson to lock his automobile or to see to the protection of his lady friend," Kivette reported.

"A camera, a suit of clothes, a raincoat and a pair of shoes were stolen from Pearson's automobile before he could return to get them."

Congress Was Impressed Greatly by General MacArthur's Speech at Capitol

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 20 — They came, they saw and they heard. They—the Congress of the United States—went away profoundly impressed that here was no ordinary man, no ordinary soldier, no ordinary general. For here was a statesman speaking, a man from the pages of history whose dramatic appeal to his countrymen for courage against defeatism, for boldness and resoluteness against softness and appeasement will be recorded for all time as the appeal magnificent. Here was Douglas MacArthur closing 52 years of military service to his country.

Those partisans who came expecting a political dynamic or a petty complaint against the fate that deprived him of his command in such humilating manner found an entirely different spokesman. His speech was the voice of the soldier caught in a trap in Korea but serving his flag and not asking the reason why. His speech was the voice of the America of yesteryears when Americans did not prate of defeat and speak with fear and trembling to the enemy that had despoiled a weaker nation and tortured or killed prisoners.

Members of the Senate and House—Republicans and Democrats—listened as if transfixed. They heard a man of deep conviction, talking with an emotion restrained with difficulty as he told of Asia—the far-off continent where revolutionary changes are in progress. He told of Japan, beaten six years ago, but now on the way to democracy. He spoke feelingly of the desperate effort of the Korean people to save their independence. He spoke sympathetically of the slow but sure evolution of government in the Philippines.

But the speech was not one of mere sentiment. It was the well-mobilized argument of a man who for a quarter of a century or more has studied the Far East—its culture and its aspirations against colonialism. He spoke as a liberal about the hopes of peoples as against tyrants. He did not fail to speak also of the great hopes of the world for peace by means of collective security.

All the ideals of America General MacArthur articulated with the measured phrases of a statesman. All the hopes of the world for an end to war as a means of settling disputes he championed with wholehearted devotion. But, he warned, once a nation enters a war, there is no time for retreat or appeasement, no time for compromise. He said with an emphasis that shook the chamber with applause: "There is no substitute for victory."

The general built up point by point the case for a defense line in the Far Pacific—Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. He said if that line was broken, our own Pacific coast would not be safe. And then he emphasized why it was important to hold Formosa.

The statement that came as the biggest surprise was his flat declaration that the U. S. joint chiefs of staff in the past had agreed with this military strategy.

There will, of course, be controversy over various points in the speech. It will be debated and perhaps investigating committees of Congress will ask for the documents and evidence relating to it.

The general has notified Senator Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, that, while he does not want to get into a controversy or pursue these matters, he will willingly cooperate with the committee should it desire him to amplify his views. So Senator Russell plans next week to fix a time, possibly for the following week, when the Armed Services Committee will go into details, with General MacArthur as a witness.

Meanwhile, the national capital still is shocked by the whole affair. The reception given General MacArthur was so striking that it could not but overwhelm for the time being almost every other activity of the government. The welcome to the general was, of course, a tribute to a great soldier as well as to a soldier-statesman.

But it was also a human reaction to the summary way in which a great general had been instantly relieved of his command without even being given the opportunity to say farewell to his troops. No similar case is on record in all the history of the United States. Generals have been ordered to relinquish their commands but on none has such a sentence been imposed—without trial—with so abrupt a detachment from his command without a real word of explanation of what orders or instructions he had violated, if any. The conclusion is inescapable—General MacArthur was made the victim of the petty political spirit of our times.

The stature of General MacArthur, after his address to Congress, looms larger and makes an even deeper imprint on the pages of history. He was magnificent in his words of farewell. It was an hour of triumph in which the people, in effect, repudiated the sad implications of government by petty politics and raised their eyes with hope as they heard the first words of real leadership that have come from the national capital in many a long year.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Kingstonians may tire hearing about the "Ulster County Gazette" of 1800 but newspapers all over the country do not tire giving it space. For instance I just received from Myron S. Teller, a page from "The Sacramento Union" a morning newspaper of Sacramento, California, dated February 26, 1951. They gave it some 15 inches of space with large headlines. It reads in part: "Ancient paper reports burial of Washington. It was found in Del Paso Heights, Owner of the ancient copy is O. D. Broughton, Del Paso Heights printer. He found it tucked away in an old book." So it goes in all the states, someone finds a copy somewhere and brings it to their local newspaper.

The Sacramento News copied the following interesting items from it and give their own comments which may interest local folks: "The yellowed pages reveal that in spite of Washington's advice to 'avoid all foreign entanglements?' the nation was even then watching with anxiety the war situation in Europe and was debating the question of maintaining the armed forces."

A report from the Senate to President John Adams, contains the following statement: "When we reflect upon the late uncertainly of the results of the late mission to France; and upon the uncommon nature, extent, and aspect of the war now raging in Europe, which affects materially our relations with the powers at war, and which has changed the condition of those colonies our neighborhood; we are of the opinion with you, that it would be neither wise or safe to relax our measures of defense or to lessen any of our preparations to repel aggression..."

This was evidently in reference to the Napoleonic Wars then beginning in Europe. News items labeled "Latest Foreign Reports" carry the date line, October, 1779, three months previous to publication, illustrating the slowness of communications in that line.

Reference also is made of internal strife in an item which reads: "...the acts and calumnies of factions and designing men have excited open rebellion a second time in Pennsylvania and thereby compelled the employment of a military force to aid the civil authorities in the execution of the laws....The promptitude and zeal displayed by the troops called to suppress this insurrection deserves our highest commendation and praise, and affords a pleasing proof of the spirit and alacrity with which our fellow citizens are ready to maintain the authority of our excellent government."

Installment plan buying was popular even in 1800 as illustrated by one advertisement listing property for sale. It reads: "A reasonable time of payment will be given by owner." Another item reads: "Writing, wrapping and bonnet paper are for sale at the printing office."

Someone in the "Sacramento Union" newspaper office certainly went over our Kingston "Ulster County Gazette" with a magnifying glass. I own two copies recently reprinted in Azusa, California, for their anniversary.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 20, 1951

STATESMAN AND PATRIOT

The death of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan is a great loss to the public service.

Though otherwise an undeviating Republican, Senator Vandenberg has been above party on all matters of foreign policy. His hearty support of the charter of the United Nations helped, in 1945, to persuade the Senate to accept it with only two dissenting votes, proving that American approval of the new organization was general and ungrudging.

Not the least remarkable fact about Vandenberg was his mental growth. Many persons in middle life are fixed in their viewpoints, incapable of changing their opinions though the world changes around them. Vandenberg was in his late fifties when he grew from his original isolationism to a recognition of the intimate connection between the United States and other nations.

That development of the last decade, the bipartisan foreign policy, had Senator Vandenberg for its mainspring. He was able in the main to restrain those who were willing to risk sacrificing the national future for present-day political capital. In this capacity he has no visible successor.

MEAT AS A LUXURY

Members of the staff of experts of the House-Senate Economic Committee evidently are not concerned with making themselves popular. They suggested, in a report on combatting inflation, that meat might well be taxed as a luxury, since it is, they said, in reality a luxury food.

Admittedly there are times when we get the idea that meat is in the luxury price class. But the average American has been fed to maturity on a diet which includes meat at least as regularly as any other kind of food; it is an accepted necessity. The fact that meat is a rare treat in the diets of peoples in many other lands does not alter the American's attitude toward it.

We do not want to adopt other people's ideas of luxury; it is much better for us and for the world to try to spread abroad our own standards of ordinary living. In certain lands, it might be remembered, the simple privilege of keeping one's head on his shoulders is regarded as a luxury.

AUTOGRAPH COLLECTING

The eager young things who collect autographs from the celebrities with whom they come into contact may be having fun, but they are not laying up an investment for future spending as some may suppose. While autographs of noted persons at times are salable, sometimes for good sums, there is a catch in it, pointed out by R. W. G. Vail, director of the New York Historical Society. Addressing a New York group of collectors, he said that a mere autograph, unconnected with any letter or document, is likely to be valueless. The real money goes for a signed letter, especially if it has some significance. A mere acceptance of a dinner invitation, from someone otherwise unknown to fame, is not interesting and not valuable.

Despite all this, our youth will probably still continue to collect autographs.

NATIONAL TOLL ROADS

Senator Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia has introduced a bill to create a federal corporation to build and operate a national system of toll superhighways. His suggestion is so revolutionary, besides coming at a time when the government faces the need to retrench, that it probably will get little serious attention. But so much of highway traffic these days is interstate that it seems reasonable that the federal government should own some main highways outright, in addition to helping with the building and upkeep of others. This idea may be worth putting on the back of the stove to cook.

When President Vincent Auriol of France, visiting New York City, kissed the American Vincent, Mayor Impelliteri, he exhibited a French practice which Americans have never understood. A salute on the cheek is regulation in France for men receiving an honor, as a soldier getting a medal. An American recipient of the Distinguished Service Cross would probably faint dead away if his commanding officer took the occasion to kiss him.

Earning a million dollars is tough enough, but collecting it with Uncle Sam's competition is quite another matter.

'These Days'

IT'S HARD TO DECIDE

Every editor, columnist and radio commentator receives an enormous mail which establishes without doubt the existence of a terrifying confusion in the minds of our people. Only 20 odd years ago, most Americans were certain of their beliefs and goals; they were certain that they knew what the American way of life meant. They had faith in their country and its national ideals.

Then all of a sudden their world collapsed about them and they became a frightened and confused people. During the past 20 years, every kind of idea, solution, panacea, leadership has been hammered into them by men and women, good and bad, selfish and unselfish, politicians and propagandists. Many European countries have taken advantage of our confusions to project their own ideas and purposes, only to add to our problems by the conflicts among them.

Karl Pearson, way back in 1892, in his "The Grammar of Science," wrote:

"It is little wonder that we have hitherto made small way towards a common estimate of what our time is really contributing to the history of human progress. The one man finds in our time a restlessness, a distrust of authority, a questioning of the basis of all social institutions and long-established methods—characteristics which mark for him a decadence of social unity, a collapse of the only principles which he conceives capable of guiding conduct. The other with a different temperament pictures for us a golden age in the near future, when the new knowledge shall be diffused through the people, and when the new view of human relations, which he finds everywhere taking root, shall finally have supplanted worn-out customs."

Professor Robert A. Millikan in 1931 could say this:

"In my judgment war is now in process of being abolished chiefly by this relentless advance of science, its most powerful enemy. It has existed in spite of religion, and in spite of philosophy, and in spite of social ethics, and in spite of humanitarianism and the golden rule, since the days of the cave-man because, in accordance with the evolutionary philosophy of modern science, and simply because, it has had survival value. It will disappear like the dinosaur when and only when, the conditions which have given it its survival value have disappeared, and those conditions are disappearing now primarily because of the changes in world conditions being brought about by the growth of modern science."

Karl Pearson wrote before the Bolshevik revolution in Russia, which occurred in 1917; Robert A. Millikan after that event. Here are two really profound thinkers gazing at the impact of ideas upon the minds of men. Karl Pearson lived at a moment when Europe was moving toward the Twentieth Century; Professor Millikan, after it had moved into its third decade and had passed through the morally devastating World War I.

Our confusions are a product of a retreat from morality. The last war was a competition in falsehood. It would seem that all sides lied and the lies were accepted as truth. Therefore, what is eternally and universally true had to be rejected. When the amenities and proprieties to which a people are accustomed disappear from their lives, the markers for right living are darkened.

I was thinking about that recently in connection with the use of the phrase which the President employed to describe Drew Pearson and which Senator McCarthy is reported to have employed to describe the President. None of this is pleasant; but worse than that, it gives high official sanction to vulgarities. There was a time when mothers washed out their sons' mouths with brown soap for such language—and it was a much more decent world then.

My point is that our confusions increase not because of politics and wars but because unless a people live within the margins of their own traditions, they do not know how to live at all. Anything goes only with those who have nowhere to go. Hit and miss private living produces hit and miss public life. Those funny shirts President Truman likes to wear in Florida look all right on everybody except Harry Truman. They give him a posture that cheapens the office which he holds, just as his language often produces disrespect not only for him but for the government which he heads.

This discussion may not solve any problems, but it is designed to stir a discussion on fundamentals.

A NEW DRUG FOR COLITIS

There are two types of colitis. Simple, or mucous, colitis is practically chronic diarrhea, with sometimes a spasm which causes a partial closure or tightness of the colon, causing constipation. Simple colitis is believed to be caused in the majority of cases by nervousness and emotional disturbances. In some cases rough or coarse foods appear to be the cause. By avoiding emotional disturbances and eating mild or soft foods, most cases of mucous colitis get along fairly well and it never causes death.

However, the second type, ulcerative colitis, is a serious condition. There is a mass of ulcers present with formation of pus, both blood and pus being found in the stools. Ulcerative colitis is also considered to be caused in its early stages by emotional disturbances.

For many years the most successful treatment of ulcerative colitis was the surgical removal of a portion of the bowel. However, when the sulfa drugs came along and, a little later, penicillin, these drugs, called antibiotics as they kill harmful organisms, were found fairly effective. Less surgery is now used.

In The New York State Journal of Medicine, Dr. Z. T. Bercovitz reports his treatment of 24 patients with chronic ulcerative colitis by use of chloromycetin, another new wonder drug. Three grams daily were observed to be the most effective dosage. Thirteen patients showed pronounced improvement during the first month of observation. There was a prompt and dramatic decrease in the number of bowel movements, stools were normal, no blood or mucous, no night movements, and no discomfort in abdomen. These 13 patients became normal as far as the colon or bowel was concerned.

Three patients were moderately improved. Eight patients showed no change whatever, although there appeared to be a slight improvement early in the treatment.

Chloromycetin prevented relapses and the patients continued to improve even after the drug was discontinued.

Dr. Bercovitz states that the real value of chloromycetin can be estimated only after five years of careful following of these cases.

In the meantime, many patients will be spared the suffering of this distressing and disabling disease.

The Road Back

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—At an explosive Republican senatorial strategy meeting this week, the big GOP guns warned against tieing the Republican Party too closely to MacArthur's kite.

One of those who led the warning was Senator Taft, whose friends have been worried that MacArthur might crowd him as the GOP presidential candidate in 1952.

"We don't know what MacArthur is going to say when he gets here," Taft told the strategy meeting. "As a political party we should keep out of this."

Senator Millikin of Colorado chimed in that occasionally past "conquering heroes" had come home and put their foot in their mouths. He recalled that Admiral Dewey, the conqueror of Manila, got a hero's reception and was presented with a free house, then transferred the house to his wife. Millikin also cited Charles Lindbergh, who came home to a hero's welcome and later made some remarks that offended religious groups.

However, the sharpest Republican fire was concentrated on Senator Cain of Washington for putting the Republican Party on the spot with his resolution declaring war on China. His colleagues agreed it was politically ill-advised, and ripped into him unmercifully.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, who has been Secretary of State Acheson's bitter foe, actually snorted: "As far as the Cain resolution is concerned, I am on Acheson's side."

Senator Young of North Dakota warned that declaring war on China would do "more damage than anything that has happened in the Republican Party in five years."

Senator Aiken of Vermont pointed out a "slight technical" obstacle. He brought out that "we can't declare war against a government that we have refused to recognize."

Cain Argues

However, Cain tried to defend his position by arguing that his real purpose was to "pin this war on Truman as Truman's war."

He pointed out that the President in his April 11 speech mentioned war 21 times. However, Cain's colleagues failed to follow his reasoning.

In the end, Cain insisted that he had promised to introduce the resolution and intended to go through with it. However, he agreed to make a statement that his only purpose was to focus attention on the China issue, since Truman had already got the country into war.

The most explosive outburst of the closed-door meeting came from Indiana's wild senator Jenner. He was spurred out of his seat by a remark from Senator Taft that "no responsible Republican senator would advocate impeachment."

To this Jenner shouted angrily: "I may not be part of the responsible Republican leadership, but I have my own opinion."

He demanded immediate impeachment of President Truman and used considerable profanity in demanding it.

Senator Ecton of Montana tried to soothe Jenner by explaining it was up to the House to bring impeachment proceedings and the Senate was supposed to act as a jury. Ecton cautioned that it would be improper for a senator who was supposed to sit on the jury to express advance opinions about impeachment.

In response to a suggestion that the Republicans appoint a welcoming committee, Milliken declared, "MacArthur must be left in the hands of the public. It shouldn't look like the Republicans are sponsoring him."

Beating Enlisted Men

It has been hushed up by the navy, but the Norfolk, Va., shore patrol has been officially accused of kicking and beating servicemen and throwing them into the brig without their shoes.

These shocking reports were made in a confidential report by Rear Adm. F. N. Kivette, who was skipper of the aircraft carrier Midway until his promotion to admiral last month.

Kivette ordered his own investigation of the Norfolk shore patrol and sent a sharp report to the navy, charging that the Norfolk SP's were "arrogant, dictatorial, arbitrary, sometimes abusive and occasionally brutal."

Kivette's investigation was conducted by Ensign Robert E. Kenyon. Here are excerpts from the officer's report:

Telling of an air force enlisted man, R. T. Cullen, who was hauled in by the shore patrol for alleged drunkenness, the report charges: "Two SP's and a chief petty officer held Cullen on the deck, and a person or persons slapped him a few times. He was then restored to his feet where he was held while the CPO hit him. Cullen then lost consciousness and recovered to find himself on the floor again. The chief petty officer kicked him in the chest and two shore patrolmen picked him up and threw him in a cell. Cullen further states that his cell was void of furnishings of any sort, and that he was deprived of his shoes during his confinement."

Later, Cullen's friends called at SP headquarters to find out what charges had been brought against him. The report declares that one of these friends, Apprentice Seaman Charles Passwater, "was told to take everything out of his clothes. As Passwater started to comply, the CPO hit him more than once. When told by the CPO to remove a small crucifix and chain about his neck, Passwater attempted to comply but before he could do so, the CPO seized it and broke the chain. Passwater was then deprived of his shoes and placed in confinement."

Commenting upon his subordinate's report, Admiral Kivette declared: "I believe these to be true and not isolated cases."

The admiral also added: "The very few but brief reports I have had concerning the condition of the shore patrol brig are calculated to induce nausea without a visual inspection."

Another "typical" case, submitted by Kivette, was that of Olen L. Pearson, an enlisted man, who was arrested for reckless driving.

"The shore patrol refused to discuss the matter, took Pearson's automobile keys and put him in the patrol truck. No effort was made to permit Pearson to lock his automobile or to see to the protection of his lady friend," Kivette reported.

"A camera, a suit of clothes, a raincoat and a pair of shoes were stolen from Pearson's automobile before he could return to get them."

He found it tucked away in an old book." So it goes in all the states, someone finds a copy somewhere and brings it to their local newspaper.

The Sacramento News copied the following interesting items from it and give their own comments which may interest local folks: "The yellowed pages reveal that in spite of Washington's advice to 'avoid all foreign entanglements?' the nation was even then watching with anxiety the war situation in Europe and was debating the question of maintaining the armed forces."

A report from the Senate to President John Adams, contains the following statement: "When we reflect upon the late uncertainly of the results of the late mission to France; and upon the uncommon nature, extent, and aspect of the war now raging in Europe, which affects materially our relations with the powers at war, and which has changed the condition of those colonies our neighborhood; we are of the opinion with you, that it would be neither wise or safe to relax our measures of defense or to lessen any of our preparations to repel aggression..."

This was evidently in reference to the Napoleonic Wars then beginning in Europe. News items labeled "Latest Foreign Reports" carry the date line, October, 1779, three months previous to publication, illustrating the slowness of communications in that line.

Reference also is made of internal strife in an item which reads: "...the acts and calumnies of factions and designing men have excited open rebellion a second time in Pennsylvania and thereby compelled the employment of a military force to aid the civil authorities in the execution of the laws....The promptitude and zeal displayed by the troops called to suppress this insurrection deserves our highest commendation and praise, and affords a pleasing proof of the spirit and alacrity with which our fellow citizens are ready to maintain the authority of our excellent government."

Installment plan buying was popular even in 1800 as illustrated by one advertisement listing property for sale. It reads: "A reasonable time of payment will be given by owner." Another item reads: "Writing, wrapping and bonnet paper are for sale at the printing office."

Someone in the "Sacramento Union" newspaper office certainly went over our Kingston "Ulster County Gazette" with a magnifying glass. I own two copies recently reprinted in Azusa, California, for their anniversary.

Geraniums Make Comeback This Year

These old-fashioned garden flowers are undergoing a rebirth of popularity.

Geraniums make excellent garden plants when grown in full sun, and in rich soil with good drainage. They may be used in beds and in borders, in front of foundation plantings or in pots and window boxes. Any of these locations will provide you with good foliage and excellent colors.

The flowers range from white through pink to bright shades of red and the foliage itself is attractive in form, with some varieties having multicolored markings, producing an interesting pattern in the garden.

The plant is frequently trained onto standards or small trees and as such makes wonderful accent notes in the garden or on the terrace. When the plants are grown in pots they will benefit from light feedings throughout the flowering season. Many gardeners are now collecting and treasuring the old-fashioned varieties of geraniums for their gardens.

Officers Get Job Of Clearing Base

Albany, Ga., April 20 (AP)—Officers regardless of rank were put to work cleaning up the grounds at the Turner Air Force Base here.

An order issued Sunday gave the brass the job assigned traditionally to enlisted men—picking up cigarette butts, scraps of paper and other debris, and trimming the grass.

Astonished enlisted men mixed amazement with amusement when they saw officers at the menial chore.

Col. Eugene H. Snavely, base commander, was reported off the base and unavailable for comment, but it was learned that officers had been lax in carrying out previous orders to have the base policed.

Several officers seen policing the base wore combat medals for service in the last war.

Said one officer: "It was the most insulting experience I have ever had in the service."

The base's public information officer, Capt. Bud Adams, said he didn't want to talk about the affair until he had conferred with Colonel Snavely.

Wins Central Hudson R.P.I. Scholarship

Julian Robert Smetana, a senior student at Arlington High School, was announced today as winner of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's four-year engineering scholarship to Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Smetana, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smetana of Overlook Road, Poughkeepsie, will enter R.P.I. in the fall term. He is the third recipient of the scholarship. William E. VanWagenen, former Poughkeepsie High School student now completing his first year at R.P.I., was last year's winner.

In competition for the scholarship 29 junior students took a three-week indoctrination course last summer covering all phases of Central Hudson's operations.

The award to Mr. Smetana was based on academic standing, personality and leadership qualities, and probable aptitude for public utility engineering work.

A similar indoctrination course for all high schools in the Central Hudson franchise area will be conducted this summer. Principals of the various schools are now choosing outstanding juniors for this year's competition. Candidates selected must have a minimum average of 75 per cent, have had at least one year of general science and two years of mathematics, and will agree to study physics during the senior year if they have not already taken the course.

House Vote to Come

Washington, April 20 (AP)—The way apparently has been cleared for a House vote next week on the administration's proposal to provide wheat for India. Members of the House Rules Committee, which had held up the $190,000,000 measure aimed at helping stave off an Indian famine threat, yesterday worked out a compromise. Members agreed, at the suggestion of House leaders, to approve a rewritten measure providing for a loan from Marshall Plan funds rather than an outright gift. India would be asked to negotiate for repayment either in money or strategic materials.

Exempted From Controls

Washington, April 20 (AP)—The government today exempted from price control articles carrying the Boy Scout or Girl Scout insignia and retail sales by the Future Farmers of America. The Office of Price Stabilization said these are sales by non-profit organizations. Since such sales generally are below the prevailing market for similar merchandise, regulatory ceilings would not aid general price stabilization and would impose an unnecessary burden on sellers and on OPS, the order said. It is effective April 25.

All Feared Lost On Oil Tanker

New Orleans, April 20 (AP)—Two Standard Oil tankers collided in the Gulf of Mexico early today. Both remained afloat but one was blazing so fiercely that the coast guard said it believed "no one aboard is alive."

The ship engulfed in fire was identified by the coast guard as the Esso Greensboro, a type T-2 ship which normally carries a crew of 40 men.

The other vessel, also reported afire, was named as the Esso Suez, a new super-tanker of 26,500 tons capable of carrying 9,000,000 gallons of oil.

First reports said the first mate of the Esso Suez—a man named Brehm—was killed and several crewmen badly burned. She was said to be under way at about three knot speed.

The Esso Greensboro was sighted by a coast guard plane 15 miles north of the Esso Suez in a sea of flame which made it unapproachable. The Esso New York, which found the vessel five hours after the collision, radioed: "No one believed alive on board."

A coast guard plane reported the Esso Suez still had its lifeboats in their davits and that crewmen could be seen on its deck.

The collision occurred about 5 a. m. (CST) some 200 miles south of Morgan City, La., a small fishing village about halfway between New Orleans and Lake Charles.

The coast guard said their first report came from the Esso Suez which radioed "struck tanker and apparently all hands were lost."

MacArthurs Get Waldorf Suite at $130 Day Charge

New York, April 20 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his family are staying in an historic hotel suite here.

A silver plaque in the 10-room presidential suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Towers records that the Council of Foreign Ministers met there from Nov. 4 to Dec. 12, 1946, to agree on a treaty with Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

Hotel employes remember that the Soviet delegates had a special phone installed in a closet so that they could telephone their superiors at the United Nations periodically for instructions.

The luxurious suite is located on the 37th floor. It takes up an entire wing of the hotel and has windows that look out north, south, east and west. It has only one entrance, which makes it easy for guards to keep out inquisitive persons.

The suite normally rents for $130 a day, although hotel officials declined comment, it was reported that MacArthur had reserved it for three weeks and that he would pay the bill.

Girl, 16, Is Raped; Attackers Sought

A 16-year-old girl, forced against her will into an automobile by two unidentified men, was driven to a secluded spot along a back road at West Park, where, she told troopers, one of the men raped her about 10 p. m. Thursday.

The girl, her clothes disarrayed, was left standing along the road when the men sped away. She made her way to a nearby house and persons there notified state police at the Highland substation.

The girl, whose home is in Beacon, said the men forced her into their automobile in Newburgh, then drove her to West Park.

State police in the area were alerted but up to noon today had no success in tracking down the two abductors. Investigation is continuing, and troopers revealed they have several leads on which to work.

Jews to Celebrate Passover Tonight

Jerusalem, April 20 (AP)—Passover—ancient Jewish festival recalling the exodus of the children of Israel from Egypt 3,500 years ago—is being celebrated by some 1,300,000 Jews in the Holy Land tonight amid a new migration.

This time it is the Jews from Iraq—biblical land of Babylon—who are coming home to the promised land on the river Jordan.

It took 40 years for the followers of Moses—"about 600,000 on foot that were men, besides children"—to wander across the desert sands from the kingdom of the pharaohs on the banks of the Nile to Palestine by the Jordan.

The 100,000 Jews coming from the Iraqi capital of Baghdad on the banks of the Tigris are covering double that distance in six hours. They are migrating by plane.

The first Passover, according to tradition, was preordained by Moses at God's command. The Israelites were commanded on the eve of that day to kill a male lamb and sprinkle its blood on their thresholds so the Lord would "pass over" them when he went forth to slay the first-born of the Egyptians. Then the Israelites were ordered to eat the lamb as they girded themselves for their exodus.

Most to Drink Wine

Tonight's traditional Passover meal, "Seder," includes "mazzoth"—unleavened bread symbolizing the bread prepared in haste when the Jews fled from Egypt in the dark of night.

Throughout Israel most Jews will drink the traditional four glasses of wine to hail the Passover.

Some 300 workers in the coastal region wine cellars of Rishon-Le-Zion and Zichron Yaacov have been working double shifts to supply the 1,300,000 bottles needed for the ceremony.

This year there will be enough Passover eggs on the Seder tables also, the government's food ration distributor announced. Six eggs will be supplied to everyone during the coming week, he said.

There also will be about seven ounces of fish allotted to each person and about six and one-half ounces of frozen meat—except in Jerusalem, where the inhabitants will receive 300 grams (about 10½ ounces) each.

The food control official explained that during the past week Jerusalemites received no meat ration.

Weinberg, rabbi—Passover, the festival commemorating the exodus of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage unto freedom, will begin at sunset tonight, and ends after sundown Saturday, April 28. Chimney Fire Reported floor except the general's military aides and those with official passes.

A chimney fire in a house owned by James Carchidi, 40 Pettit avenue, this morning blistered paint and damaged drapes. The blaze spread in siding back of the kitchen stove. Firemen were called at 11:25 a. m., and chemicals and a hydrant stream were used. Another call at 11:47 a. m., was for a grass fire near 206 North street.

Switchboard operators at the hotel said that in eight hours after midnight they took 1,200 telephone calls from persons wanting to talk to MacArthur.

Most of the callers wanted to congratulate him on his speech in Congress yesterday, and wish him well, the operators said. The calls came from all sections of the country.

The operators said they declined to put the calls through to the general's suite, but said that as far as possible they tried to make a note of the messages to pass on to him.

MacArthur had orange juice, a grapefruit, three soft-boiled eggs and hot tea for breakfast, his usual fare.

At 9 a. m., the morning newspapers were sent to his suite.

Outside, early arrivals took up vantage spots in Times Square, and along Fifth avenue and lower Broadway.

Police Discourage Group

A half dozen persons in Times Square sought to distribute "peace" pamphlets, but police hustled them out of the area. The pamphlets, urged President Truman to "bring our boys home" from Korea.

Countless store windows displayed large pictures of MacArthur.

From the Empire State Building the world's tallest structure, an enormous flag, 25 by 15 feet in size, rippled over Fifth avenue. It was flanked by two smaller flags.

Mobile television units took up places along the route.

Mrs. MacArthur wore a maroon woolen dress with a matching small-brimmed hat, a short black sealskin jacket, and black suede gloves. Her costume was set off by small pearl and diamond earrings, and a corsage of two white orchids.

Mrs. Impellitteri wore a mink coat, with a purple orchid on the left shoulder.

Sitting between the two women was the MacArthurs' son, Arthur, 13. He was happy with a football and a Joe DiMaggio type baseball glove presented by the Impellitteris when they arrived at the hotel just before the parade.

During a momentary halt in the procession just after the cars emerged from the hotel, reporters crowded about the lead automobiles.

Mrs. MacArthur appeared rested from her busy schedule yesterday in Washington and was smiling.

"Will you be glad when all of this is over?" a reporter asked.

"Oh, no, it's nice," Mrs. MacArthur said. "I'm enjoying it."

She waved a dainty white handkerchief toward the crowd. She said she planned a shopping tour when "I get my breath."

500 Patrol Park

About 500 policemen patroled Central Park, whose streets were barred to vehicle traffic.

A contingent of 300 patrolmen, special fire-fighting equipment, a first-aid unit and three ambulances were assigned to the City Hall Plaza, parade termination point.

Overhead, a navy blimp and two Police Department planes circled.

The voices of 10,000 school children were raised in a mighty shout as the general's car rolled along Central Park's east drive, at 70th street.

Repeatedly, before the car actually came in sight, false shouts of "here he comes" had caused an outburst of yells. But these outbursts were mild compared to the terrific din when the car actually got there.

A school board official estimated that there were 200,000 children in the park to see the general.

Again and again, the general smiled and waved a gloved hand.

the unanimous recommendations of the President's principal civilian and military advisers including the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The reasons for General MacArthur's relief have been stated previously by the President."

At the time of MacArthur's dismissal last week the White House released a series of orders and other communications between Washington and General MacArthur designed to show that he did not follow directions when told not to make statements on policy not first cleared with Washington.

This fine group of singers has appeared on most of the major networks and has sung in many of the largest churches throughout the East. A southern fried chicken dinner will be served in the dining room of the church from 1 to 6 p. m. The public is invited.

Budget Cut Made

Washington, April 20 (AP)—A seven per cent cut in the Interior Department's budget for the fiscal year 1952 was recommended today by the House Appropriations Committee. It was the largest percentage cut recommended in the three departmental bills for fiscal 1952 sent to the House floor so far this year.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, April 20 (AP)—The position of the Treasury April 18: Net budget receipts, $63,280,444.65; budget expenditures, $161,443,693.66; cash balance, $7,453,657,020.09; customs receipts for month, $33,880,600.62; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $37,026,510,459.28; budget expenditures fiscal year, $32,584,606,754.26; budget surplus, $4,441,903,705.02; total debt, $254,684,196,657.96; decrease under previous day, $1,930,710.94; gold assets, $21,806,702,078.64.

Government Lifts Ban on Aluminum

Washington, April 20 (AP)—The government today lifted its May 1 ban on using aluminum in making more than 200 civilian products. It ordered instead a 50 per cent cut in use of the metal during May and June.

In another order, the National Production Authority (NPA) put plastic type nylon under allocation beginning June 1.

This does not apply to textile nylon from which nylon hose and other wearing apparel are manufactured, but does apply to the nylon used in making paint brushes, lenses and various industrial parts.

cluded that we must choose one of the two."

The Chicago Tribune said MacArthur showed Congress its duty "to abandon the U.N. program of drift and delay, the Acheson program of bestowing a loving embrace, of consigning Americans to the meatgrinder of a never-ending war, the British program of using the United Nations and our own State Department to hold the arms of the American fighting man while the Reds slug him."

'No Traitors or Devils'

General MacArthur demonstrated, The New York Herald Tirbune said, that there are "no traitors or devils" in the debate over United States policy, "but only sincere men who may have different views as the method but are at one in their loyalty to the ideal of freedom."

The Rocky Mountain News, of Denver, Colo., declared: "Here was a man fit to stand with Lincoln."

The Minneapolis Tribune commented that the nation "is indebted to MacArthur for a vigorous statement of conviction, but yet to be presented with proof that he is right."

"It was one of the best reasoned, most forceful, most cogent speeches ever delivered in the United States Capitol," said Los Angles Times.

The Newark, (N.J.) Star-Ledger said, "We should now turn to the great question raised by MacArthur and establish the true facts."

For 'Calmer Assessment'

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat asserted that "when the aura of adulation and semi-hysteria abates, we should expect a more reasoned presentation of the MacArthur policies and a calmer assessment of military-foreign policy decisions."

Kansas City Star: "It was a magnificient presentation of the arguments for a policy * * * it may reasonably be asked of MacArthur on what evidence he founds his assumption that, in case we blockade Red China and bomb her shore bases, the Soviet Union will refuse to honor her explicit treaty obligation to come to the defense of the Chinese Communist. * * * here, then, is the great dilemma which confronts the American people. Both the Asiatic policy advocated by MacArthur and the ambiguous policy now being pursued by our government entail a gamble."

political effect in the United States, it will not furnish ammunition to the Communist enemy, as did his statements in Japan.

The Times of London predicted that MacArthur's speech "will cause the administration a lot of trouble in the next few weeks." It reiterated its view that Mr. Truman had no other choice but to dismiss MacArthur, then lauded MacArthur's address as "strong, never falling below dignified utterance and uncompromising." The Times also viewed the speech as showing the world how democracy operates in contrast with totalitarianism.

Both the conservative Daily Graphic and the liberal News Chronicle predicted the speech will open a long controversy in the U. S. over what course to follow in the Far East.

Mr. Truman wrote Dr. Buckley he wanted his committee available to provide "independent advice on scientific matters especially as regards the objectives and interrelations of the several federal agencies engaged in research of defense significance, including relevant foreign relations and intelligence matters" as well as on:

1. Progress being made on current research problems of defense significance.

2. Plans and methods "for the implementation of scientific effort for defense."

3. The views of the country's scientific community on research of defense significance.

The President said the existing government setup does not now provide "adequate liaison among the agencies" on scientific developments or between the agencies and Wilson's office.

Red Rear Guard

was growing at the front that the U.N. troops had pushed as far north intended at present.

Any large scale advance north from the present 140-mile line would force the allies to man a 240-mile line.

CAP Correspondent Jim Becker reported from the front that there are two schools of thought in Korea on the next phase of the fighting. One holds that an undeclared truce is near, with the Chinese pulling out of the war informally because of heavy casualties. The other school expects a powerful new Red offensive with air and artillery support.

Speech Leaves . . .

MacArthur said it was his understanding that, from a military standpoint, these views had been shared in the past by the joint chiefs of staff.

"Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the top military policy group, had no direct comment, but he told reporters after a speech at Chapel Hill, N. C., that as advisers to Mr. Truman the joint chiefs "render our advice to him on a military point of view."

"If we are going to be of use to the President, we feel our advice should be confidential," Bradley added. "We would be destroying our usefulness if it was public."

'Political One'

Bradley also said—and declined to amplify—that "the question of General MacArthur's relief is primarily a political one." He added, "I am a military man."

Of MacArthur's statement he thought the joint chiefs had seen eye to eye with him, Senator Kerr (D.-Okla.) said "I do not believe that statement." appearing last night on a radio forum ("Reporter's Roundup," MBS), Kerr said the general should explain why, if he believes that, the joint chiefs recommended his removal.

Senators Long (D.-La.) and Hunt (D.-Wyo.) said the joint chiefs' position must be cleared up immediately. Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) indicated it would be investigated when a delayed inquiry begins into Far Eastern military and foreign policies.

Rep. Mahon (D.-Tex.), chairman of the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee, challenged MacArthur's contention that the joint chiefs agree with the five-star general's views.

Says He Is Wrong

"He is in error," Mahon said. "The joint chiefs repeatedly have said before my committee that they do not agree that we should bomb Manchurian air bases and support Chiang Kai-shek in an invasion of China.

"They have admitted, however, that they'll have to consider such action if Red China air force comes in strength into the fight."

Senators Maybank (D.-S.C.) and Duff (R.-Pa.) called on the chiefs of staff to speak up.

In three public appearances here yesterday the ousted Pacific commander blasted not only at what he called actions to appease Red China and Russia, but at "the internal subversion and corruption and detailed regimentation" he said are threatening American life.

It was an all-out attack on the Truman administration's home and foreign policies by the five-star general who said he was ready to "close my career and just fade away—an old soldier who tried to do his duty as God gave him the light to see that duty."

MacArthur's Washington homecoming—he served as army chief of staff before going to the Far East—outdid its descriptive superlatives.

Surpasses Anything

Lawmakers said his dramatic appearance at the joint meeting of Congress surpassed anything that has happened there since the early days of Franklin D. Roosevelt's tenure as president.

His speech, delivered in a resonant voice, was likened by Rep. Rivers (D.-S.C.) to Winston Churchill's best. Many listeners agreed the general was "better than Roosevelt" at drawing crowd response.

Reaction to his congressional speech was predominantly favorable for MacArthur's foreign and military views. A cross-section check showed 51 Republicans supporting him, two non-commital and one critical. Democrats split evenly, 21 for the 21 against his views, with 19 non-commital.

Japanese Paper Praises Speech

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—The Japanese-owned Nippon Times, English language daily, devotes a full column Saturday to an editorial praising General MacArthur for his speech to Congress. It says in part:

"The free peoples of Asia are definitely honored that General MacArthur . . . so clearly presented the true picture of Asia today. Free Asia is grateful that the general has emphasized its importance as a bastion of democracy equal to the position of western Europe to the free world."

Street editions of Asahi and Homuri carried no editorial comment. Tokyo Shimbun, the largest afternoon daily and noted for its strong anti-Red tone, said:

". . . Honestly we people of a small nation in the Far East are inclined to give all-out support to MacArthur's assertion that the Red menace is on a worldwide scale, that Asia is facing new reform and that it is wrong to underestimate Asia. It is also plainly known that Formosa in Red hands will have grave influence in the Pacific. . .

"But we are not in a position to comment whether his point four formula is right or not. We might, however, assert that perfect concurrence of policy and strategy as well as recognition of circumstances peculiar to Asia are necessary for opposing communism in Asia."

MacArthur Sidelights

New York, April 20 (AP)—Some 2,000,000 privately-employed New Yorkers received time off to see the MacArthur parade today.

The stock, curb and cotton exchanges shut down during the festivities.

The general's parting words to Congress — "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away" —were echoed musically to him when he arrived at Idlewild Airport here last night. An army band played the old barracks room ballad as he reviewed the honor guard.

Official New York city greeter Grover A. Whalen says MacArthur won't get "roughed up, mauled and pushed around" during the parade here as he was in San Francisco and Washington.

Whalen said it won't happen here if New York's Finest have their way, and added, "They (the police) know how, and the job will be done."

Today's parade means heavy duty for the city's clean-up squads. A force of 1,000 "white wings," plus 150 supervising officers, stood ready to mop up the tons of paper, confetti and ticker-tape. Aiding the men were 50 flushing machines and 15 mechanical sweepers.

The holes in Queens Boulevard, long a bane to motorists, got fixed in a hurry—thanks to Gen. MacArthur. The boulevard was part of the general's motorcade route from the airport. Yesterday, 10 truck and scores of laborers filled every traffic cavity.

In Manhattan, as the motorcade passed one point, a resident said, "I never saw such a crowd on 57th street."

Another resident replied, "Well, there never was such a man passed by here."

The MacArthur party doesn't travel light. Taken from the general's plane were an assortment of small luggage pieces, packages, books, and several heavy trunks and packing cases. These were loaded onto an army truck for transportation to the general's hotel.

MacArthur's plane, the Bataan, behaved well all through the 7,000-mile run from Tokyo to New York, said Co-Pilot Maj. William Gregg of Columbus, Ohio.

The flight from Washington, Gregg said, was "a good one, made without any navigational delays at an altitude of 2,000 feet in about 55 minutes."

After proceeding at a snail's pace from airport to Waldorf-Astoria, so crowds could get a look at him, MacArthur made a lightning entrance into his hotel. As the rest of the motorcade went on down Park avenue, the general's car, followed by those of his party, made a swift turn into East 50th street and darted into the underground basement entrance.

MacArthur Is Heard By Public in Japan

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—Thousands of officers and men who served under General MacArthur today heard his voice for the first time.

The former commander who never made a speech and seldom appeared publicly in Japan was on the radio twice today. A transcript of his congressional speech was broadcast and then repeated throughout Japan and the Korean war zone. It was to be repeated again tonight.

MacArthur held one news conference, in March of 1947, for foreign newsmen. Otherwise, his public expressions during the past five and a half years were limited to one speech in Manila and two in Seoul.

In visits to the battle area and on appearances to greet dignitaries arriving at Tokyo's airport, MacArthur's remarks were audible only to those close to him.

He remained silent even on his departure Monday.

Ex-Premier Dies

Rome, April 20 (AP)—Ivanoe Bonomi, 77, president of the Italian Senate and former premier, died today. Bonomi's death closed a career in Italian politics which began before the close of the last century. He had served his country as premier both before and after Mussolini's Fascist era. Bonomi had been ill for several months.

Gen. MacArthur's Message Heard by Many in Kingston

General Douglas MacArthur had a large listening audience in Kingston, as in other communities of the nation, when he made his address to Congress Thursday afternoon.

The Kingston Kiwanis Club, which meets regularly Thursday noontimes, postponed its previously scheduled program and arranged to have the general's speech broadcast during the club's meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A large attendance was present. Following General MacArthur's talk, Mrs. Anne Cragin, Red Cross area representative, told Kiwanis members of the work of the Red Cross in rehabilitating families that suffered loss in the flood in this area on March 31.

Lodge and clubrooms were the scenes of other gatherings to hear the radio broadcast, and in many cases the television presentation of the talk.

Telephones Are Quiet

At the sheriff's office, where the speech was also heard on radio, it was reported that not a single telephone call was received during the time the general was talking, indicating that most persons were "glued to their radios."

In some cases, office workers here parked their automobiles near the office doors and heard the talk on the car radios.

THE BIBLE IS A CATHOLIC BOOK

People differ radically in what they think about the Bible.

Some seem to think it was handed down from Heaven written in English and bound in morocco. Many accept it as the inspired Word of God without knowing why they are justified in doing so. And others say that the Bible is full of contradictions and must be taken "with a grain of salt."

A proper understanding of the Scriptures can exert a tremendous influence for good in your personal life. You should, therefore, know where we get the Bible . . . what it means . . . why you can believe its every word.

Nowhere in the Bible text will you find a list of the 73 inspired books of which it is composed. This list was given to the world by the Catholic Church almost three full centuries after the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. Between the time of the Crucifixion and the time that the Scriptures were gathered into a single Book, millions had received and accepted the teachings of Christ . . . and had died without ever seeing the complete Bible.

Established by Christ Himself and rapidly spread among the nations of the world, the Catholic Church was carrying on Christ's work for the salvation of men some 60 years before the Apostle John wrote his book of the New Testament.

For more than a thousand years afterward, the Scriptures were preserved and circulated by Catholic monks and scholars who laboriously copied the sacred text by hand. And the Bible authorized by the Catholic Church was the first book produced by Gutenberg upon the invention of printing.

Yes, the Bible is truly a Catholic book. They were members of the Catholic Church who, under God's inspiration, wrote the New Testament in its entirety.

It was the Catholic Church which treasured it and gave it to the world in its original and unaltered form. It is the infallible authority of the Catholic Church that always has been the only sure guarantee of its inspiration.

There are obscure and difficult passages in the Bible, some of which may seem confusing. But with the complete revealed truth of God, delivered to her from the beginning, the Catholic Church has faithfully unfolded the meaning of the written Word of God to past generations of mankind—and does so today.

Those who are familiar with the Bible, as well as those who are reading it for the first time, will find many important questions concerning it clearly answered in a free booklet which we shall send you on request. Ask for Pamphlet No. 3-N.

Clocks will be turned ahead one hour at 2 a. m., EST, on that date, and "fast" time will remain in effect five months. The "lost hour" will be regained when the clocks are turned back one hour to Standard Time Sunday, Sept. 30.

All Feared Lost On Oil Tanker

New Orleans, April 20 (AP)—Two Standard Oil tankers collided in the Gulf of Mexico early today. Both remained afloat but one was blazing so fiercely that the coast guard said it believed "no one aboard is alive."

The ship engulfed in fire was identified by the coast guard as the Esso Greensboro, a type T-2 ship which normally carries a crew of 40 men.

The other vessel, also reported afire, was named as the Esso Suez, a new super-tanker of 26,500 tons capable of carrying 9,000,000 gallons of oil.

First reports said the first mate of the Esso Suez—a man named Brehm—was killed and several crewmen badly burned. She was said to be under way at about three knot speed.

The Esso Greensboro was sighted by a coast guard plane 15 miles north of the Esso Suez in a sea of flame which made it unapproachable. The Esso New York, which found the vessel five hours after the collision, radioed: "No one believed alive on board."

A coast guard plane reported the Esso Suez still had its lifeboats in their davits and that crewmen could be seen on its deck.

The collision occurred about 5 a. m. (CST) some 200 miles south of Morgan City, La., a small fishing village about halfway between New Orleans and Lake Charles.

The coast guard said their first report came from the Esso Suez which radioed "struck tanker and apparently all hands were lost."

MacArthurs Get Waldorf Suite at $130 Day Charge

New York, April 20 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his family are staying in an historic hotel suite here.

A silver plaque in the 10-room presidential suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Towers records that the Council of Foreign Ministers met there from Nov. 4 to Dec. 12, 1946, to agree on a treaty with Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

Hotel employes remember that the Soviet delegates had a special phone installed in a closet so that they could telephone their superiors at the United Nations periodically for instructions.

The luxurious suite is located on the 37th floor. It takes up an entire wing of the hotel and has windows that look out north, south, east and west. It has only one entrance, which makes it easy for guards to keep out inquisitive persons.

The suite normally rents for $130 a day, although hotel officials declined comment, it was reported that MacArthur had reserved it for three weeks and that he would pay the bill.

Girl, 16, Is Raped; Attackers Sought

A 16-year-old girl, forced against her will into an automobile by two unidentified men, was driven to a secluded spot along a back road at West Park, where, she told troopers, one of the men raped her about 10 p. m. Thursday.

The girl, her clothes disarrayed, was left standing along the road when the men sped away. She made her way to a nearby house and persons there notified state police at the Highland substation.

The girl, whose home is in Beacon, said the men forced her into their automobile in Newburgh, then drove her to West Park.

State police in the area were alerted but up to noon today had no success in tracking down the two abductors. Investigation is continuing, and troopers revealed they have several leads on which to work.

Jews to Celebrate Passover Tonight

Jerusalem, April 20 (AP)—Passover—ancient Jewish festival recalling the exodus of the children of Israel from Egypt 3,500 years ago—is being celebrated by some 1,300,000 Jews in the Holy Land tonight amid a new migration.

This time it is the Jews from Iraq—biblical land of Babylon—who are coming home to the promised land on the river Jordan.

It took 40 years for the followers of Moses—"about 600,000 on foot that were men, besides children"—to wander across the desert sands from the kingdom of the pharaohs on the banks of the Nile to Palestine by the Jordan.

The 100,000 Jews coming from the Iraqi capital of Baghdad on the banks of the Tigris are covering double that distance in six hours. They are migrating by plane.

The first Passover, according to tradition, was preordained by Moses at God's command. The Israelites were commanded on the eve of that day to kill a male lamb and sprinkle its blood on their thresholds so the Lord would "pass over" them when he went forth to slay the first-born of the Egyptians. Then the Israelites were ordered to eat the lamb as they girded themselves for their exodus.

Most to Drink Wine

Tonight's traditional Passover meal, "Seder," includes "mazzoth"—unleavened bread symbolizing the bread prepared in haste when the Jews fled from Egypt in the dark of night.

Throughout Israel most Jews will drink the traditional four glasses of wine to hail the Passover.

Some 300 workers in the coastal region wine cellars of Rishon-LeZion and Zichron Yaacov have been working double shifts to supply the 1,300,000 bottles needed for the ceremony.

This year there will be enough Passover eggs on the Seder tables also, the government's food ration distributor announced. Six eggs will be supplied to everyone during the coming week, he said.

There also will be about seven ounces of fish allotted to each person and about six and one-half ounces of frozen meat—except in Jerusalem, where the inhabitants will receive 300 grams (about 10½ ounces) each.

The food control official explained that during the past week Jerusalemites received no meat ration.

Congregation Ahavath Israel, 72 Wurts street, Dr. Philip H. Weinberg, rabbi—Passover, the festival commemorating the exodus of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage unto freedom, will begin at sunset tonight, and ends after sundown Saturday, April 28. Passover services tonight start at 6 o'clock with Mincha and at 6:30 with Maariv.

Chimney Fire Reported

A chimney fire in a house owned by James Carchidi, 40 Pettit avenue, this morning blistered paint and damaged drapes. The blaze spread in siding back of the kitchen stove. Firemen were called at 11:25 a. m., and chemicals and a hydrant stream were used. Another call at 11:47 a. m., was for a grass fire near 206 North street.

floor except the general's military aides and those with official passes.

Switchboard operators at the hotel said that in eight hours after midnight they took 1,200 telephone calls from persons wanting to talk to MacArthur.

Most of the callers wanted to congratulate him on his speech in Congress yesterday, and wish him well, the operators said. The calls came from all sections of the country.

The operators said they declined to put the calls through to the general's suite, but said that as far as possible they tried to make a note of the messages to pass on to him.

MacArthur had orange juice, a grapefruit, three soft-boiled eggs and hot tea for breakfast, his usual fare.

At 9 a. m., the morning newspapers were sent to his suite.

Police Discourage Group

A half dozen persons in Times Square sought to distribute "peace" pamphlets, but police hustled them out of the area. The pamphlets, urged President Truman to "bring our boys home" from Korea.

Countless store windows displayed large pictures of MacArthur.

From the Empire State Building the world's tallest structure, an enormous flag, 25 by 15 feet in size, rippled over Fifth avenue. It was flanked by two smaller flags.

Mobile television units took up places along the route.

Mrs. MacArthur wore a maroon woolen dress with a matching small-brimmed hat, a short black sealskin jacket, and black suede gloves. Her costume was set off by small pearl and diamond earrings, and a corsage of two white orchids.

Mrs. Impellitteri wore a mink coat, with a purple orchid on the left shoulder.

Sitting between the two women was the MacArthurs' son, Arthur, 13. He was happy with a football and a Joe DiMaggio type baseball glove presented by the Impellitteris when they arrived at the hotel just before the parade.

During a momentary halt in the procession just after the cars emerged from the hotel, reporters crowded about the lead automobiles.

Mrs. MacArthur appeared rested from her busy schedule yesterday in Washington and was smiling.

"Will you be glad when all of this is over?" a reporter asked.

"Oh, no, it's nice," Mrs. MacArthur said. "I'm enjoying it."

She waved a dainty white handkerchief toward the crowd. She said she planned a shopping tour when "I get my breath."

500 Patrol Park

About 500 policemen patroled Central Park, whose streets were barred to vehicle traffic.

A contingent of 300 patrolmen, special fire-fighting equipment, a first-aid unit and three ambulances were assigned to the City Hall Plaza, parade termination point.

Overhead, a navy blimp and two Police Department planes circled.

The voices of 10,000 school children were raised in a mighty shout as the general's car rolled along Central Park's east drive, at 70th street.

Repeatedly, before the car actually came in sight, false shouts of "here he comes" had caused an outburst of yells. But these outbursts were mild compared to the terrific din when the car actually got there.

A school board official estimated that there were 200,000 children in the park to see the general.

Again and again, the general smiled and waved a gloved hand.

the unanimous recommendations of the President's principal civilian and military advisers including the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The reasons for General MacArthur's relief have been stated previously by the President."

At the time of MacArthur's dismissal last week the White House released a series of orders and other communications between Washington and General MacArthur designed to show that he did not follow directions when told not to make statements on policy not first cleared with Washington.

St. Mark's A. M. E. Church will present the Bronx Good Will Singers of New York, a group of 17-male voices Sunday at 3 p. m. under the direction of Mrs. Allie Hart, in a concert of old and new songs. This fine group of singers has appeared on most of the major networks and has sung in many of the largest churches throughout the East. A southern fried chicken dinner will be served in the dining room of the church from 1 to 6 p. m. The public is invited.

Budget Cut Made

Washington, April 20 (AP)—A seven per cent cut in the Interior Department's budget for the fiscal year 1952 was recommended today by the House Appropriations Committee. It was the largest percentage cut recommended in the three departmental bills for fiscal 1952 sent to the House floor so far this year.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, April 20 (AP)—The position of the Treasury April 18: Net budget receipts, $63,280,444.65; budget expenditures, $161,443,693.66; cash balance, $7,453,657,020.09; customs receipts for month, $33,880,600.62; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $37,026,510,459.28; budget expenditures fiscal year, $32,584,606,754.26; budget surplus, $4,441,903,705.02; total debt, $254,684,196,657.96; decrease under previous day, $1,930,710.94; gold assets, $21,806,702,078.64.

Government Lifts Ban on Aluminum

Washington, April 20 (AP)—The government today lifted its May 1 ban on using aluminum in making more than 200 civilian products. It ordered instead a 50 per cent cut in use of the metal during May and June.

In another order, the National Production Authority (NPA) put plastic type nylon under allocation beginning June 1.

This does not apply to textile nylon from which nylon hose and other wearing apparel are manufactured, but does apply to the nylon used in making paint brushes, lenses and various industrial parts.

cluded that we must choose one of the two."

The Chicago Tribune said MacArthur showed Congress its duty "to abandon the U.N. program of drift and delay, the Acheson program of bestowing a loving embrace, of consigning Americans to the meatgrinder of a never-ending war, the British program of using the United Nations and our own State Department to hold the arms of the American fighting man while the Reds slug him."

'No Traitors or Devils'

General MacArthur demonstrated, The New York Herald Tirbune said, that there are "no traitors or devils" in the debate over United States policy, "but only sincere men who may have different views as the method but are at one in their loyalty to the ideal of freedom."

The Rocky Mountain News, of Denver, Colo., declared: "Here was a man fit to stand with Lincoln."

The Minneapolis Tribune commented that the nation "is indebted to MacArthur for a vigorous statement of conviction, but yet to be presented with proof that he is right."

"It was one of the best reasoned, most forceful, most cogent speeches ever delivered in the United States Capitol," said Los Angles Times.

The Newark, (N.J.) Star-Ledger said, "We should now turn to the great question raised by MacArthur and establish the true facts."

For 'Calmer Assessment'

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat asserted that "when the aura of adulation and semi-hysteria abates, we should expect a more reasoned presentation of the MacArthur policies and a calmer assessment of military-foreign policy decisions."

Kansas City Star: "It was a magnificient presentation of the arguments for a policy * * * it may reasonably be asked of MacArthur on what evidence he founds his assumption that, in case we blockade Red China and bomb her shore bases, the Soviet Union will refuse to honor her explicit treaty obligation to come to the defense of the Chinese Communist. * * * here, then, is the great dilemma which confronts the American people. Both the Asiatic policy advocated by MacArthur and the ambiguous policy now being pursued by our government entail a gamble."

political effect in the United States, it will not furnish ammunition to the Communist enemy, as did his statements in Japan.

The Times of London predicted that MacArthur's speech "will cause the administration a lot of trouble in the next few weeks." It reiterated its view that Mr. Truman had no other choice but to dismiss MacArthur, then lauded MacArthur's address as "strong, never falling below dignified utterance and uncompromising." The Times also viewed the speech as showing the world how democracy operates in contrast with totalitarianism.

Both the conservative Daily Graphic and the liberal News Chronicle predicted the speech will open a long controversy in the U. S. over what course to follow in the Far East.

Mr. Truman wrote Dr. Buckley he wanted his committee available to provide "independent advice on scientific matters especially as regards the objectives and interrelations of the several federal agencies engaged in research of defense significance, including relevant foreign relations and intelligence matters" as well as on:

1. Progress being made on current research problems of defense significance.

2. Plans and methods "for the implementation of scientific effort for defense."

3. The views of the country's scientific community on research of defense significance.

The President said the existing government setup does not now provide "adequate liaison among the agencies" on scientific developments or between the agencies and Wilson's office.

Red Rear Guard

was growing at the front that the U.N. troops had pushed as far north intended at present.

Any large scale advance north from the present 140-mile line would force the allies to man a 240-mile line.

CAP Correspondent Jim Becker reported from the front that there are two schools of thought in Korea on the next phase of the fighting. One holds that an undeclared truce is near, with the Chinese pulling out of the war informally because of heavy casualties. The other school expects a powerful new Red offensive with air and artillery support.

Speech Leaves . . .

MacArthur said it was his understanding that, from a military standpoint, these views had been shared in the past by the joint chiefs of staff.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the top military policy group, had no direct comment, but he told reporters after a speech at Chapel Hill, N. C., that as advisers to Mr. Truman the joint chiefs "render our advice to him on a military point of view."

"If we are going to be of use to the President, we feel our advice should be confidential," Bradley added. "We would be destroying our usefulness if it was public."

'Political One'

Bradley also said—and declined to amplify—that "the question of General MacArthur's relief is primarily a political one." He added, "I am a military man."

Of MacArthur's statement he thought the joint chiefs had seen eye to eye with him, Senator Kerr (D.-Okla.) said "I do not believe that statement," appearing last night on a radio forum ("Reporter's Roundup," MBS), Kerr said the general should explain why, if he believes that, the joint chiefs recommended his removal.

Senators Long (D.-La.) and Hunt (D.-Wyo.) said the joint chiefs' position must be cleared up immediately. Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) indicated it would be investigated when a delayed inquiry begins into Far Eastern military and foreign policies.

Rep. Mahon (D.-Tex.), chairman of the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee, challenged MacArthur's contention that the joint chiefs agree with the five-star general's views.

Says He Is Wrong

"He is in error," Mahon said. "The joint chiefs repeatedly have said before my committee that they do not agree that we should bomb Manchurian air bases and support Chiang Kai-shek in an invasion of China.

"They have admitted, however, that they'll have to consider such action if Red China air force comes in strength into the fight."

Senators Maybank (D.-S.C.) and Duff (R.-Pa.) called on the chiefs of staff to speak up.

In three public appearances here yesterday the ousted Pacific commander blasted not only at what he called actions to appease Red China and Russia but at "the internal subversion and corruption and detailed regimentation" he said are threatening American life.

It was an all-out attack on the Truman administration's home and foreign policies by the five-star general who said he was ready to "close my career and just fade away—an old soldier who tried to do his duty as God gave him the light to see that duty."

MacArthur's Washington homecoming—he served as army chief of staff before going to the Far East—outdid its descriptive superlatives.

Surpasses Anything

Lawmakers said his dramatic appearance at the joint meeting of Congress surpassed anything that has happened there since the early days of Franklin D. Roosevelt's tenure as president.

His speech, delivered in a resonant voice, was likened by Rep. Rivers (D.-S.C.) to Winston Churchill's best. Many listeners agreed the general was "better than Roosevelt" at drawing crowd response.

Reaction to his congressional speech was predominantly favorable for MacArthur's foreign and military views. A cross-section check showed 51 Republicans supporting him, two non-commital and one critical. Democrats split evenly, 21 for the 21 against his views, with 19 non-commital.

Japanese Paper Praises Speech

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—The Japanese-owned Nippon Times, English language daily, devotes a full column Saturday to an editorial praising General MacArthur for his speech to Congress. It says in part:

"The free peoples of Asia are definitely honored that General MacArthur . . . so clearly presented the true picture of Asia today. Free Asia is grateful that the general has emphasized its importance as a bastion of democracy equal to the position of western Europe to the free world."

Street editions of Asahi and Homuri carried no editorial comment. Tokyo Shimbun, the largest afternoon daily and noted for its strong anti-Red tone, said:

". . . Honestly we people of a small nation in the Far East are inclined to give all-out support to MacArthur's assertion that the Red menace is on a worldwide scale, that Asia is facing new reform and that it is wrong to underestimate Asia. It is also plainly known that Formosa in Red hands will have grave influence in the Pacific. . .

"But we are not in a position to comment whether his point four formula is right or not. We might, however, assert that perfect concurrence of policy and strategy as well as recognition of circumstances peculiar to Asia are necessary for opposing communism in Asia."

MacArthur Sidelights

New York, April 20 (AP)—Some 2,000,000 privately-employed New Yorkers received time off to see the MacArthur parade today.

The stock, curb and cotton exchanges shut down during the festivities.

The general's parting words to Congress — "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away" —were echoed musically to him when he arrived at Idlewild Airport here last night. An army band played the old barracks room ballad as he reviewed the honor guard.

Official New York city greeter Grover A. Whalen says MacArthur won't get "roughed up, mauled and pushed around" during the parade here as he was in San Francisco and Washington.

Whalen said it won't happen here if New York's Finest have their way, and added, "They (the police) know how, and the job will be done."

Today's parade means heavy duty for the city's clean-up squads. A force of 1,000 "white wings," plus 150 supervising officers, stood ready to mop up the tons of paper, confetti and ticker-tape. Aiding the men were 50 flushing machines and 15 mechanical sweepers.

The holes in Queens Boulevard, long a bane to motorists, got fixed in a hurry—thanks to Gen. MacArthur. The boulevard was part of the general's motorcade route from the airport. Yesterday, 10 truck and scores of laborers filled every traffic cavity.

In Manhattan, as the motorcade passed one point, a resident said, "I never saw such a crowd on 57th street."

Another resident replied, "Well, there never was such a man passed by here."

The MacArthur party doesn't travel light. Taken from the general's plane were an assortment of small luggage pieces, packages, books, and several heavy trunks and packing cases. These were loaded onto an army truck for transportation to the general's hotel.

MacArthur's plane, the Bataan, behaved well all through the 7,000-mile run from Tokyo to New York, said Co-Pilot Maj. William Gregg of Columbus, Ohio.

The flight from Washington, Gregg said, was "a good one, made without any navigational delays at an altitude of 2,000 feet in about 55 minutes."

After proceeding at a snail's pace from airport to Waldorf-Astoria, so crowds could get a look at him, MacArthur made a lightning entrance into his hotel. As the rest of the motorcade went on down Park avenue, the general's car, followed by those of his party, made a swift turn into East 50th street and darted into the underground basement entrance.

MacArthur Is Heard By Public in Japan

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—Thousands of officers and men who served under General MacArthur today heard his voice for the first time.

The former commander who never made a speech and seldom appeared publicly in Japan was on the radio twice today. A transcript of his congressional speech was broadcast and then repeated throughout Japan and the Korean war zone. It was to be repeated again tonight.

MacArthur held one news conference, in March of 1947, for foreign newsmen. Otherwise, his public expressions during the past five and a half years were limited to one speech in Manila and two in Seoul.

In visits to the battle area and on appearances to greet dignitaries arriving at Tokyo's airport, MacArthur's remarks were audible only to those close to him.

He remained silent even on his departure Monday.

Ex-Premier Dies

Rome, April 20 (AP)—Ivanoe Bonomi, 77, president of the Italian Senate and former premier, died today. Bonomi's death closed a career in Italian politics which began before the close of the last century. He had served his country as premier both before and after Mussolini's Fascist era. Bonomi had been ill for several months.

Gen. MacArthur's Message Heard by Many in Kingston

General Douglas MacArthur had a large listening audience in Kingston, as in other communities of the nation, when he made his address to Congress Thursday afternoon.

The Kingston Kiwanis Club, which meets regularly Thursday noontimes, postponed its previously scheduled program and arranged to have the general's speech broadcast during the club's meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A large attendance was present. Following General MacArthur's talk, Mrs. Anne Cragin, Red Cross area representative, told Kiwanis members of the work of the Red Cross in rehabilitating families that suffered loss in the flood in this area on March 31.

Lodge and clubrooms were the scenes of other gatherings to hear the radio broadcast, and in many cases the television presentation of the talk.

Telephones Are Quiet

At the sheriff's office, where the speech was also heard on radio, it was reported that not a single telephone call was received during the time the general was talking, indicating that most persons were "glued to their radios."

In some cases, office workers here parked their automobiles near the office doors and heard the talk on the car radios.

THE BIBLE IS A CATHOLIC BOOK

People differ radically in what they think about the Bible.

Some seem to think it was handed down from Heaven written in English and bound in morocco. Many accept it as the inspired Word of God without knowing why they are justified in doing so. And others say that the Bible is full of contradictions and must be taken "with a grain of salt."

A proper understanding of the Scriptures can exert a tremendous influence for good in your personal life. You should, therefore, know where we get the Bible . . . what it means . . . why you can believe its every word.

Nowhere in the Bible text will you find a list of the 73 inspired books of which it is composed. This list was given to the world by the Catholic Church almost three full centuries after the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. Between the time of the Crucifixion and the time that the Scriptures were gathered into a single Book, millions had received and accepted the teachings of Christ . . . and had died without ever seeing the complete Bible.

Established by Christ Himself and rapidly spread among the nations of the world, the Catholic Church was carrying on Christ's work for the salvation of men some 60 years before the Apostle John wrote his book of the New Testament.

For more than a thousand years afterward, the Scriptures were preserved and circulated by Catholic monks and scholars who laboriously copied the sacred text by hand. And the Bible authorized by the Catholic Church was the first book produced by Gutenberg upon the invention of printing.

Yes, the Bible is truly a Catholic book. They were members of the Catholic Church who, under God's inspiration, wrote the New Testament in its entirety.

It was the Catholic Church which treasured it and gave it to the world in its original and unaltered form. It is the infallible authority of the Catholic Church that always has been the only sure guarantee of its inspiration.

There are obscure and difficult passages in the Bible, some of which may seem confusing. But with the complete revealed truth of God, delivered to her from the beginning, the Catholic Church has faithfully unfolded the meaning of the written Word of God to past generations of mankind—and does so today.

Those who are familiar with the Bible, as well as those who are reading it for the first time, will find many important questions concerning it clearly answered in a free booklet which we shall send you on request. Ask for Pamphlet No. 3-N.

All Feared Lost On Oil Tanker

New Orleans, April 20 (AP)—Two Standard Oil tankers collided in the Gulf of Mexico early today. Both remained afloat but one was blazing so fiercely that the coast guard said it believed "no one aboard is alive."

The ship engulfed in fire was identified by the coast guard as the Esso Greensboro, a type T-2 ship which normally carries a crew of 40 men.

The other vessel, also reported afire, was named as the Esso Suez, a new super-tanker of 26,500 tons capable of carrying 9,000,000 gallons of oil.

First reports said the first mate of the Esso Suez—a man named Brehm—was killed and several crewmen badly burned. She was said to be under way at about three knot speed.

The Esso Greensboro was sighted by a coast guard plane 15 miles north of the Esso Suez in a sea of flame which made it unapproachable. The Esso New York, which found the vessel five hours after the collision, radioed: "No one believed alive on board."

A coast guard plane reported the Esso Suez still had its lifeboats in their davits and that crewmen could be seen on its deck.

The collision occurred about 5 a. m. (CST) some 200 miles south of Morgan City, La., a small fishing village about halfway between New Orleans and Lake Charles.

The coast guard said their first report came from the Esso Suez which radioed "struck tanker and apparently all hands were lost."

MacArthurs Get Waldorf Suite at $130 Day Charge

New York, April 20 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his family are staying in an historic hotel suite here.

A silver plaque in the 10-room presidential suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Towers records that the Council of Foreign Ministers met there from Nov. 4 to Dec. 12, 1946, to agree on a treaty with Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

Hotel employes remember that the Soviet delegates had a special phone installed in a closet so that they could telephone their superiors at the United Nations periodically for instructions.

The luxurious suite is located on the 37th floor. It takes up an entire wing of the hotel and has windows that look out north, south, east and west. It has only one entrance, which makes it easy for guards to keep out inquisitive persons.

The suite normally rents for $130 a day, although hotel officials declined comment, it was reported that MacArthur had reserved it for three weeks and that he would pay the bill.

Girl, 16, Is Raped; Attackers Sought

A 16-year-old girl, forced against her will into an automobile by two unidentified men, was driven to a secluded spot along a back road at West Park, where, she told troopers, one of the men raped her about 10 p. m. Thursday.

The girl, her clothes disarrayed, was left standing along the road when the men sped away. She made her way to a nearby house and persons there notified state police at the Highland substation.

The girl, whose home is in Beacon, said the men forced her into their automobile in Newburgh, then drove her to West Park.

State police in the area were alerted but up to noon today had no success in tracking down the two abductors. Investigation is continuing, and troopers revealed they have several leads on which to work.

Jews to Celebrate Passover Tonight

Jerusalem, April 20 (AP)—Passover—ancient Jewish festival recalling the exodus of the children of Israel from Egypt 3,500 years ago—is being celebrated by some 1,300,000 Jews in the Holy Land tonight amid a new migration.

This time it is the Jews from Iraq—biblical land of Babylon—who are coming home to the promised land on the river Jordan.

It took 40 years for the followers of Moses—"about 600,000 on foot that were men, besides children"—to wander across the desert sands from the kingdom of the pharaohs on the banks of the Nile to Palestine by the Jordan.

The 100,000 Jews coming from the Iraqi capital of Baghdad on the banks of the Tigris are covering double that distance in six hours. They are migrating by plane.

The first Passover, according to tradition, was preordained by Moses at God's command. The Israelites were commanded on the eve of that day to kill a male lamb and sprinkle its blood on their thresholds so the Lord would "pass over" them when he went forth to slay the first-born of the Egyptians. Then the Israelites were ordered to eat the lamb as they girded themselves for their exodus.

Most to Drink Wine

Tonight's traditional Passover meal, "Seder," includes "mazzoth"—unleavened bread symbolizing the bread prepared in haste when the Jews fled from Egypt in the dark of night.

Throughout Israel most Jews will drink the traditional four glasses of wine to hail the Passover.

Some 300 workers in the coastal region wine cellars of Rishon-Le-Zion and Zichron Yaacov have been working double shifts to supply the 1,300,000 bottles needed for the ceremony.

This year there will be enough Passover eggs on the Seder tables also, the government's food ration distributor announced. Six eggs will be supplied to everyone during the coming week, he said.

There also will be about seven ounces of fish allotted to each person and about six and one-half ounces of frozen meat—except in Jerusalem, where the inhabitants will receive 300 grams (about 10½ ounces) each.

The food control official explained that during the past week Jerusalemites received no meat ration.

Weinberg, rabbi—Passover, the festival commemorating the exodus of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage unto freedom, will begin at sunset tonight, and ends after sundown Saturday, April 28. Passover services tonight start at 6 o'clock with Mincha and at 6:30 with Maariv.

Chimney Fire Reported

A chimney fire in a house owned by James Carchidi, 40 Pettit avenue, this morning blistered paint and damaged drapes. The blaze spread in siding back of the kitchen stove. Firemen were called at 11:25 a. m., and chemicals and a hydrant stream were used. Another call at 11:47 a. m., was for a grass fire near 206 North street.

floor except the general's military aides and those with official passes.

Switchboard operators at the hotel said that in eight hours after midnight they took 1,200 telephone calls from persons wanting to talk to MacArthur.

Most of the callers wanted to congratulate him on his speech in Congress yesterday, and wish him well, the operators said. The calls came from all sections of the country.

The operators said they declined to put the calls through to the general's suite, but said that as far as possible they tried to make a note of the messages to pass on to him.

MacArthur had orange juice, a grapefruit, three soft-boiled eggs and hot tea for breakfast, his usual fare.

At 9 a. m., the morning newspapers were sent to his suite.

Police Discourage Group

A half dozen persons in Times Square sought to distribute "peace" pamphlets, but police hustled them out of the area. The pamphlets, urged President Truman to "bring our boys home" from Korea.

Countless store windows displayed large pictures of MacArthur.

From the Empire State Building the world's tallest structure, an enormous flag, 25 by 15 feet in size, rippled over Fifth avenue. It was flanked by two smaller flags.

Mobile television units took up places along the route.

Mrs. MacArthur wore a maroon woolen dress with a matching small-brimmed hat, a short black sealskin jacket, and black suede gloves. Her costume was set off by small pearl and diamond earrings, and a corsage of two white orchids.

Mrs. Impellitteri wore a mink coat, with a purple orchid on the left shoulder.

Sitting between the two women was the MacArthurs' son, Arthur, 13. He was happy with a football and a Joe DiMaggio type baseball glove presented by the Impellitteris when they arrived at the hotel just before the parade.

During a momentary halt in the procession just after the cars emerged from the hotel, reporters crowded about the lead automobiles.

Mrs. MacArthur appeared rested from her busy schedule yesterday in Washington and was smiling.

"Will you be glad when all of this is over?" a reporter asked.

"Oh, no, it's nice," Mrs. MacArthur said. "I'm enjoying it."

She waved a dainty white handkerchief toward the crowd. She said she planned a shopping tour when "I get my breath."

500 Patrol Park

About 500 policemen patroled Central Park, whose streets were barred to vehicle traffic.

A contingent of 300 patrolmen, special fire-fighting equipment, a first-aid unit and three ambulances were assigned to the City Hall Plaza, parade termination point.

Overhead, a navy blimp and two Police Department planes circled.

The voices of 10,000 school children were raised in a mighty shout as the general's car rolled along Central Park's east drive, at 70th street.

Repeatedly, before the car actually came in sight, false shouts of "here he comes" had caused an outburst of yells. But these outbursts were mild compared to the terrific din when the car actually got there.

A school board official estimated that there were 200,000 children in the park to see the general.

Again and again, the general smiled and waved a gloved hand.

the unanimous recommendations of the President's principal civilian and military advisers including the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The reasons for General MacArthur's relief have been stated previously by the President."

At the time of MacArthur's dismissal last week the White House released a series of orders and other communications between Washington and General MacArthur designed to show that he did not follow directions when told not to make statements on policy not first cleared with Washington.

A southern fried chicken dinner will be served in the dining room of the church from 1 to 6 p. m. The public is invited.

Budget Cut Made

Washington, April 20 (AP)—A seven per cent cut in the Interior Department's budget for the fiscal year 1952 was recommended today by the House Appropriations Committee. It was the largest percentage cut recommended in the three departmental bills for fiscal 1952 sent to the House floor so far this year.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, April 20 (AP)—The position of the Treasury April 18: Net budget receipts, $63,280,444.65; budget expenditures, $161,443,693.66; cash balance, $7,453,657,020.09; customs receipts for month, $33,880,600.62; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $37,026,510,459.28; budget expenditures fiscal year, $32,584,606,754.26; budget surplus, $4,441,903,705.02; total debt, $254,684,196,657.96; decrease under previous day, $1,930,710.94; gold assets, $21,806,702,078.64.

Government Lifts Ban on Aluminum

Washington, April 20 (AP)—The government today lifted its May 1 ban on using aluminum in making more than 200 civilian products. It ordered instead a 50 per cent cut in use of the metal during May and June.

In another order, the National Production Authority (NPA) put plastic type nylon under allocation beginning June 1.

This does not apply to textile nylon from which nylon hose and other wearing apparel are manufactured, but does apply to the nylon used in making paint brushes, lenses and various industrial parts.

cluded that we must choose one of the two."

The Chicago Tribune said MacArthur showed Congress its duty "to abandon the U.N. program of drift and delay, the Acheson program of bestowing a loving embrace, of consigning Americans to the meatgrinder of a never-ending war, the British program of using the United Nations and our own State Department to hold the arms of the American fighting man while the Reds slug him."

'No Traitors or Devils'

General MacArthur demonstrated, The New York Herald Tirbune said, that there are "no traitors or devils" in the debate over United States policy, "but only sincere men who may have different views as the method but are at one in their loyalty to the ideal of freedom,"

The Rocky Mountain News, of Denver, Colo., declared: "Here was a man fit to stand with Lincoln."

The Minneapolis Tribune commented that the nation "is indebted to MacArthur for a vigorous statement of conviction, but yet to be presented with proof that he is right."

"It was one of the best reasoned, most forceful, most cogent speeches ever delivered in the United States Capitol," said Los Angles Times.

The Newark, (N.J.) Star-Ledger said, "We should now turn to the great question raised by MacArthur and establish the true facts."

For 'Calmer Assessment'

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat asserted that "when the aura of adulation and semi-hysteria abates, we should expect a more reasoned presentation of the MacArthur policies and a calmer assessment of military-foreign policy decisions."

Kansas City Star: "It was a magnificient presentation of the arguments for a policy * * * it may reasonably be asked of MacArthur on what evidence he founds his assumption that, in case we blockade Red China and bomb her shore bases, the Soviet Union will refuse to honor her explicit treaty obligation to come to the defense of the Chinese Communist. * * * here, then, is the great dilemma which confronts the American people. Both the Asiatic policy advocated by MacArthur and the ambiguous policy now being pursued by our government entail a gamble."

political effect in the United States, it will not furnish ammunition to the Communist enemy, as did his statements in Japan.

The Times of London predicted that MacArthur's speech "will cause the administration a lot of trouble in the next few weeks." It reiterated its view that Mr. Truman had no other choice but to dismiss MacArthur, then lauded MacArthur's address as "strong, never falling below dignified utterance and uncompromising." The Times also viewed the speech as showing the world how democracy operates in contrast with totalitarianism.

Both the conservative Daily Graphic and the liberal News Chronicle predicted the speech will open a long controversy in the U. S. over what course to follow in the Far East.

Dr. Charles A. Thomas, executive vice president of the Monsanto Chemical Company.

Mr. Truman wrote Dr. Buckley he wanted his committee available to provide "independent advice on scientific matters especially as regards the objectives and interrelations of the several federal agencies engaged in research of defense significance, including relevant foreign relations and intelligence matters" as well as on:

1. Progress being made on current research problems of defense significance.

2. Plans and methods "for the implementation of scientific effort for defense."

3. The views of the country's scientific community on research of defense significance.

The President said the existing government setup does not now provide "adequate liaison among the agencies" on scientific developments or between the agencies and Wilson's office.

Red Rear Guard

was growing at the front that the U.N. troops had pushed as far north intended at present.

Any large scale advance north from the present 140-mile line would force the allies to man a 240-mile line.

CAP Correspondent Jim Becker reported from the front that there are two schools of thought in Korea on the next phase of the fighting. One holds that an undeclared truce is near, with the Chinese pulling out of the war informally because of heavy casualties. The other school expects a powerful new Red offensive with air and artillery support.

Speech Leaves . . .

MacArthur said it was his understanding that, from a military standpoint, these views had been shared in the past by the joint chiefs of staff.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the top military policy group, had no direct comment, but he told reporters after a speech at Chapel Hill, N. C., that as advisers to Mr. Truman the joint chiefs "render our advice to him on a military point of view."

"If we are going to be of use to the President, we feel our advice should be confidential," Bradley added. "We would be destroying our usefulness if it was public."

'Political One'

Bradley also said—and declined to amplify—that "the question of General MacArthur's relief is primarily a political one." He added, "I am a military man."

Of MacArthur's statement he thought the joint chiefs had seen eye to eye with him, Senator Kerr (D.-Okla.) said "I do not believe that statement." appearing last night on a radio forum ("Reporter's Roundup," MBS), Kerr said the general should explain why, if he believes that, the joint chiefs recommended his removal.

Senators Long (D.-La.) and Hunt (D.-Wyo.) said the joint chiefs' position must be cleared up immediately. Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) indicated it would be investigated when a delayed inquiry begins into Far Eastern military and foreign policies.

Rep. Mahon (D.-Tex.), chairman of the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee, challenged MacArthur's contention that the joint chiefs agree with the five-star general's views.

Says He Is Wrong

"He is in error," Mahon said. "The joint chiefs repeatedly have said before my committee that they do not agree that we should bomb Manchurian air bases and support Chiang Kai-shek in an invasion of China.

"They have admitted, however, that they'll have to consider such action if Red China air force comes in strength into the fight."

Senators Maybank (D.-S.C.) and Duff (R.-Pa.) called on the chiefs of staff to speak up.

In three public appearances here yesterday the ousted Pacific commander blasted not only at what he called actions to appease Red China and Russia but at "the internal subversion and corruption and detailed regimentation" he said are threatening American life.

It was an all-out attack on the Truman administration's home and foreign policies by the five-star general who said he was ready to "close my career and just fade away—an old soldier who tried to do his duty as God gave him the light to see that duty."

MacArthur's Washington homecoming—he served as army chief of staff before going to the Far East—outdid its descriptive superlatives.

Surpasses Anything

Lawmakers said his dramatic appearance at the joint meeting of Congress surpassed anything that has happened there since the early days of Franklin D. Roosevelt's tenure as president.

His speech, delivered in a resonant voice, was likened by Rep. Rivers (D.-S.C.) to Winston Churchill's best. Many listeners agreed the general was "better than Roosevelt" at drawing crowd response.

Reaction to his congressional speech was predominantly favorable for MacArthur's foreign and military views. A cross-section check showed 51 Republicans supporting him, two non-commital and one critical. Democrats split evenly, 21 for the 21 against his views, with 19 non-commital.

Japanese Paper Praises Speech

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—The Japanese-owned Nippon Times, English language daily, devotes a full column Saturday to an editorial praising General MacArthur for his speech to Congress. It says in part:

"The free peoples of Asia are definitely honored that General MacArthur . . . so clearly presented the true picture of Asia today. Free Asia is grateful that the general has emphasized its importance as a bastion of democracy equal to the position of western Europe to the free world."

Street editions of Asahi and Homuri carried no editorial comment. Tokyo Shimbun, the largest afternoon daily and noted for its strong anti-Red tone, said:

". . . Honestly we people of a small nation in the Far East are inclined to give all-out support to MacArthur's assertion that the Red menace is on a worldwide scale, that Asia is facing new reform and that it is wrong to underestimate Asia. It is also plainly known that Formosa in Red hands will have grave influence in the Pacific. . .

"But we are not in a position to comment whether his point four formula is right or not. We might, however, assert that perfect concurrence of policy and strategy as well as recognition of circumstances peculiar to Asia are necessary for opposing communism in Asia."

MacArthur Sidelights

New York, April 20 (AP)—Some 2,000,000 privately-employed New Yorkers received time off to see the MacArthur parade today.

The stock, curb and cotton exchanges shut down during the festivities.

The general's parting words to Congress — "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away" —were echoed musically to him when he arrived at Idlewild Airport here last night. An army band played the old barracks room ballad as he reviewed the honor guard.

Official New York city greeter Grover A. Whalen says MacArthur won't get "roughed up, mauled and pushed around" during the parade here as he was in San Francisco and Washington.

Whalen said it won't happen here if New York's Finest have their way, and added, "They (the police) know how, and the job will be done."

Today's parade means heavy duty for the city's clean-up squads. A force of 1,000 "white wings," plus 150 supervising officers, stood ready to mop up the tons of paper, confetti and ticker-tape. Aiding the men were 50 flushing machines and 15 mechanical sweepers.

The holes in Queens Boulevard, long a bane to motorists, got fixed in a hurry—thanks to Gen. MacArthur. The boulevard was part of the general's motorcade route from the airport. Yesterday, 10 truck and scores of laborers filled every traffic cavity.

In Manhattan, as the motorcade passed one point, a resident said, "I never saw such a crowd on 57th street."

Another resident replied, "Well, there never was such a man passed by here."

The MacArthur party doesn't travel light. Taken from the general's plane were an assortment of small luggage pieces, packages, books, and several heavy trunks and packing cases. These were loaded onto an army truck for transportation to the general's hotel.

MacArthur's plane, the Bataan, behaved well all through the 7,000-mile run from Tokyo to New York, said Co-Pilot Maj. William Gregg of Columbus, Ohio.

The flight from Washington, Gregg said, was "a good one, made without any navigational delays at an altitude of 2,000 feet in about 55 minutes."

After proceeding at a snail's pace from airport to Waldorf-Astoria, so crowds could get a look at him, MacArthur made a lightning entrance into his hotel. As the rest of the motorcade went on down Park avenue, the general's car, followed by those of his party, made a swift turn into East 50th street and darted into the underground basement entrance.

MacArthur Is Heard By Public in Japan

Tokyo, April 20 (AP)—Thousands of officers and men who served under General MacArthur today heard his voice for the first time.

The former commander who never made a speech and seldom appeared publicly in Japan was on the radio twice today. A transcript of his congressional speech was broadcast and then repeated throughout Japan and the Korean war zone. It was to be repeated again tonight.

MacArthur held one news conference, in March of 1947, for foreign newsmen. Otherwise, his public expressions during the past five and a half years were limited to one speech in Manila and two in Seoul.

In visits to the battle area and on appearances to greet dignitaries arriving at Tokyo's airport, MacArthur's remarks were audible only to those close to him.

He remained silent even on his departure Monday.

Ex-Premier Dies

Rome, April 20 (AP)—Ivanoe Bonomi, 77, president of the Italian Senate and former premier, died today. Bonomi's death closed a career in Italian politics which began before the close of the last century. He had served his country as premier both before and after Mussolini's Fascist era. Bonomi had been ill for several months.

Gen. MacArthur's Message Heard by Many in Kingston

General Douglas MacArthur had a large listening audience in Kingston, as in other communities of the nation, when he made his address to Congress Thursday afternoon.

The Kingston Kiwanis Club, which meets regularly Thursday noontimes, postponed its previously scheduled program and arranged to have the general's speech broadcast during the club's meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A large attendance was present. Following General MacArthur's talk, Mrs. Anne Cragin, Red Cross area representative, told Kiwanis members of the work of the Red Cross in rehabilitating families that suffered loss in the flood in this area on March 31.

Lodge and clubrooms were the scenes of other gatherings to hear the radio broadcast, and in many cases the television presentation of the talk.

Telephones Are Quiet

At the sheriff's office, where the speech was also heard on radio, it was reported that not a single telephone call was received during the time the general was talking, indicating that most persons were "glued to their radios."

In some cases, office workers here parked their automobiles near the office doors and heard the talk on the car radios.

THE BIBLE IS A CATHOLIC BOOK

People differ radically in what they think about the Bible.

Some seem to think it was handed down from Heaven written in English and bound in morocco. Many accept it as the inspired Word of God without knowing why they are justified in doing so. And others say that the Bible is full of contradictions and must be taken "with a grain of salt."

A proper understanding of the Scriptures can exert a tremendous influence for good in your personal life. You should, therefore, know where we get the Bible . . . what it means . . . why you can believe its every word.

Nowhere in the Bible text will you find a list of the 73 inspired books of which it is composed. This list was given to the world by the Catholic Church almost three full centuries after the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. Between the time of the Crucifixion and the time that the Scriptures were gathered into a single Book, millions had received and accepted the teachings of Christ . . . and had died without ever seeing the complete Bible.

Established by Christ Himself and rapidly spread among the nations of the world, the Catholic Church was carrying on Christ's work for the salvation of men some 60 years before the Apostle John wrote his book of the New Testament.

For more than a thousand years afterward, the Scriptures were preserved and circulated by Catholic monks and scholars who laboriously copied the sacred text by hand. And the Bible authorized by the Catholic Church was the first book produced by Gutenberg upon the invention of printing.

Yes, the Bible is truly a Catholic book. They were members of the Catholic Church who, under God's inspiration, wrote the New Testament in its entirety.

It was the Catholic Church which treasured it and gave it to the world in its original and unaltered form. It is the infallible authority of the Catholic Church that always has been the only sure guarantee of its inspiration.

There are obscure and difficult passages in the Bible, some of which may seem confusing. But with the complete revealed truth of God, delivered to her from the beginning, the Catholic Church has faithfully unfolded the meaning of the written Word of God to past generations of mankind—and does so today.

Those who are familiar with the Bible, as well as those who are reading it for the first time, will find many important questions concerning it clearly answered in a free booklet which we shall send you on request. Ask for Pamphlet No. 3-N.

When Sam Fry, Jr., and Peter Leventritt won the Eastern States pair championship recently they showed that teaching orthodox bidding methods at the Card School hasn't made them forget how to hornswoggle their opponents with a change of pace.

Sam held the North cards of the hand shown today, and decided to make a psychic bid of one no-trump. Pete's response of two clubs was the Stayman Convention, asking the opening bidder to show a biddable major if he had one.

"Is that Stayman?" asked West. "Yep," said Pete. "Normal no-trumps?" continued West. "Uh-huh," nodded Pete.

Meanwhile, Fry tried not to break out in a cold sweat. Leventritt had no way of knowing that the opening bid was a psychic, so his answers to West's questions were perfectly unsuspecting and honest.

Eventually West passed, and Fry passed with a dead pan. East now realized that there was a strong smell of herring in the air, but he couldn't think of any safe action to take. So he passed also, and Leventritt found himself playing the hand with two little trumps in his own hand and seven solid trumps in the dummy.

The defenders could have taken four tricks in the red suits if they had been quick about it, but they got off to a poor start with a trump lead. This gave Leventritt a chance to draw two rounds of trumps and take the spade finesse. When this finesse held, Leventritt won 10 tricks, for a top score.

I sometimes wonder whether the boys teach all these fancy tricks to their pupils.

SHOKAN

Shokan, April 19—Elder Amasa Slauson of the Olive and Hurley O.S. Baptist Church officiated at the funeral services for Sanford J. Morse who died of a heart attack while driving his car near Kelly Corners. The funeral was held in the Halcottsville Baptist meetinghouse. Mr. Morse, 80, who occasionally attended services at the Shokan church, is survived by his wife, the former Celestia Chapman; a brother, Albert of Margaretville, and a sister, Mrs. Leslie Sanford of Margaretville.

Emery Happy, native of Wittenberg, who has resided in Kingston many years, was a caller here Thursday.

The board of education of the Onteora Central School district has authorized an adult class in Red Cross training with Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey of Mt. Pleasant as instructors. Residents of the district are invited to attend the classes which will be held weekly at a date to be announced later.

Walter Gilsinger of Woodstock and Grant Budd of Poughkeepsie were numbered among callers in the hub of the reservoir country Monday.

Birthdays falling today include that of Justin Bell, well known Old Hurley War 1 veteran. Justin was born and brought up in this section, a son of Nelson and Nancy (Silkworth) Bell...Thursday also marks the 54th wedding anniversary of Frank and Bertha (Every) VanEtten who resided here many years before removing to the Kingston area. Mrs. VanEtten's girlhood home is the present Gabriel Richard place on the old state road.

Echo of waterworks days: April 19, 1915—Dr. George Van Gasbeek, resident of Olive for many years, plans to move from Kingston to Springfield, Mass...Anton Otto Fischer of Bushnellville, files his last citizen papers at Catskill. He is married to Mary Sigsbee, daughter of the admiral who was commander of the Maine in Havana Harbor—The Rev. Fred Foertner while visiting his old home in Hurley set out a number of shrubs and trees on his lot adjoining the schoolhouse.

There were plenty of visiting fishermen at the reservoir dividing weir last week-end.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Ralph Pape returned Monday from Benedictine Hospital, Kingston, following an operation for the removal of a toe.

The Auxiliary to the American Legion is receiving thanks from the local men in service for the home town papers. Mrs. Harry Hovet, Mrs. Ann Mancenelli and charge of that department for the Auxiliary.

In charge of the nursery school during worship service in the Methodist Church Sunday mornings will be Mrs. Gordon Wilcox for April 22; Mrs. Parker Decker, April 29; Mrs. Stanley Jones, May 6. These appointments were made at the meeting of the Ganse Church School Society Thursday night at the home of Miss Ethel Swift. Mrs. Jones led the study from the book, The Mature Mind, and stressed Religious Maturity. The society made a donation to the Heart Fund. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Henry Swift when Mrs. Morris Kirk will lead the study. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Ralph Dirk and Mrs. Jacob Schuhle appeared before the meeting of the Town Board Thursday night as representatives of the mother's committee of the Donald B. DuBois Memorial. They were interested in a permanent memorial for the Town of Lloyd and suggested it be placed on the school grounds also that the expense should come from the public or town budget. No form of memorial was planned and a meeting of town board, school directors and the members of the committee will be held to decide action. It was not thought possible the memorial could contain all the names of men in the service but it should carry names of those who lost their lives. Charles L. DuBois, chairman of the official board of the Methodist Church, said the parking conditions in the Methodist Church yard must be improved or the parking privilege would be withdrawn May 1. He suggested that parking limit be two hours, the grounds cleaned up, no trucks allowed, no right of way to the Alexander property allowed and signs put up with such instructions. The Town Board is to inspect the grounds once a week and accept the recommendations as Mr. DuBois stated. William Robinson and his son, Henry, were present relative to the village dump. Refuse dumped by private individuals that should be given a dirt covering and such matter was not thrown to the back but is left in the foreground. Andrew Messina and his son, Philip, also brought complaints of the water in the cellars of their home on the North road and demanded a remedy by May 1 or they would start suit against the town. Herman Sandy was appointed a committee with Frank Marx, water superintendent, to determine what steps to take. Chlorination of water was discussed but no action taken. Charles Mertes, who serves as policeman at the junction of Main and Church streets for the benefit of school children, asked for more money. This was to be considered. The name of Theodore Schunk was proposed by J. J. Ennist for the office of assessor to fill out the unexpired term of the late Elmer Fisher was nominated by J. J. Ennist while Mr. Sandy nominated Parker Decker. The vote was a tie and Supervisor John Gaffney cast the vote in favor of Mr. Decker. The board has taken an option on the property of Mrs. Harriet Alexander as parking lot for the sum of $10,000.

When Sam Fry, Jr., and Peter Leventritt won the Eastern States pair championship recently they showed that teaching orthodox bidding methods at the Card School hasn't made them forget how to hornswoggle their opponents with a change of pace.

Sam held the North cards of the hand shown today, and decided to make a psychic bid of one no-trump. Pete's response of two clubs was the Stayman Convention, asking the opening bidder to show a biddable major if he had one.

"Is that Stayman?" asked West. "Yep," said Pete. "Normal no-trumps?" continued West. "Uh-huh," nodded Pete.

Meanwhile, Fry tried not to break out in a cold sweat. Leventritt had no way of knowing that the opening bid was a psychic, so his answers to West's questions were perfectly unsuspecting and honest.

Eventually West passed, and Fry passed with a dead pan. East now realized that there was a strong smell of herring in the air, but he couldn't think of any safe action to take. So he passed also, and Leventritt found himself playing the hand with two little trumps in his own hand and seven solid trumps in the dummy.

The defenders could have taken four tricks in the red suits if they had been quick about it, but they got off to a poor start with a trump lead. This gave Leventritt a chance to draw two rounds of trumps and take the spade finesse. When this finesse held, Leventritt won 10 tricks, for a top score.

I sometimes wonder whether the boys teach all these fancy tricks to their pupils.

SHOKAN

Shokan, April 19—Elder Amasa Slauson of the Olive and Hurley O.S. Baptist Church officiated at the funeral services for Sanford J. Mr. Morse, 80, who occasionally attended services at the Shokan church, is survived by his wife, the former Celestia Chapman; a brother, Albert of Margaretville, and a sister, Mrs. Leslie Sanford of Margaretville.

Emery Happy, native of Wittenberg, who has resided in Kingston many years, was a caller here Thursday.

The board of education of the Onteora Central School district has authorized an adult class in Red Cross training with Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey of Mt. Pleasant as instructors. Residents of the district are invited to attend the classes which will be held weekly at a date to be announced later.

Walter Gilsinger of Woodstock and Grant Budd of Poughkeepsie were numbered among callers in the hub of the reservoir country Monday.

Birthdays falling today include that of Justin Bell, well known Old Hurley War 1 veteran. Justin was born and brought up in this section, a son of Nelson and Nancy (Silkworth) Bell...Thursday also marks the 54th wedding anniversary of Frank and Bertha (Every) VanEtten who resided here many years before removing to the Kingston area. Mrs. VanEtten's girlhood home is the present Gabriel Richard place on the old state road.

Echo of waterworks days: April 19, 1915—Dr. George Van Gasbeek, resident of Olive for many years, plans to move from Kingston to Springfield, Mass...Anton Otto Fischer of Bushnellville, files his last citizen papers at Catskill. He is married to Mary Sigsbee, daughter of the admiral who was commander of the Maine in Havana Harbor—The Rev. Fred Foertner while visiting his old home in Hurley set out a number of shrubs and trees on his lot adjoining the schoolhouse.

There were plenty of visiting fishermen at the reservoir dividing weir last week-end.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Ralph Pape returned Monday from Benedictine Hospital, Kingston, following an operation for the removal of a toe.

The Auxiliary to the American Legion is receiving thanks from the local men in service for the home town papers. Mrs. Harry Hovet, Mrs. Ann Mancenelli and charge of that department for the Auxiliary.

In charge of the nursery school during worship service in the Methodist Church Sunday mornings will be Mrs. Gordon Wilcox for April 22; Mrs. Parker Decker, April 29; Mrs. Stanley Jones, May 6. These appointments were made at the meeting of the Ganse Church School Society Thursday night at the home of Miss Ethel Swift. Mrs. Jones led the study from the book, The Mature Mind, and stressed Religious Maturity. The society made a donation to the Heart Fund. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Henry Swift when Mrs. Morris Kirk will lead the study. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Ralph Dirk and Mrs. Jacob Schuhle appeared before the meeting of the Town Board Thursday night as representatives of the mother's committee of the Donald B. DuBois Memorial. They were interested in a permanent memorial for the Town of Lloyd and suggested it be placed on the school grounds also that the expense should come from the public or town budget. No form of memorial was planned and a meeting of town board, school directors and the members of the committee will be held to decide action. It was not thought possible the memorial could contain all the names of men in the service but it should carry names of those who lost their lives. Charles L. DuBois, chairman of the official board of the Methodist Church, said the parking conditions in the Methodist Church yard must be improved or the parking privilege would be withdrawn May 1. He suggested that parking limit be two hours, the grounds cleaned up, no trucks allowed, no right of way to the Alexander property allowed and signs put up with such instructions. The Town Board is to inspect the grounds once a week and accept the recommendations as Mr. DuBois stated. William Robinson and his son, Henry, were present relative to the village dump. Refuse dumped by private individuals that should be given a dirt covering and such matter was not thrown to the back but is left in the foreground. Andrew Messina and his son, Philip, also brought complaints of the water in the cellars of their home on the North road and demanded a remedy by May 1 or they would start suit against the town. Herman Sandy was appointed a committee with Frank Marx, water superintendent, to determine what steps to take. Chlorination of water was discussed but no action taken. Charles Mertes, who serves as policeman at the junction of Main and Church streets for the benefit of school children, asked for more money. This was to be considered. The name of Theodore Schunk was proposed by J. J. Ennist for the office of assessor to fill out the unexpired term of the late Elmer Fisher was nominated by J. J. Ennist while Mr. Sandy nominated Parker Decker. The vote was a tie and Supervisor John Gaffney cast the vote in favor of Mr. Decker. The board has taken an option on the property of Mrs. Harriet Alexander as parking lot for the sum of $10,000.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., April 20—I continue to believe in the Cycle Theory. This means that we will have Peace Scares, War Scares and Labor Scares. But none of us may live to see another 1929-32.

Heretofore the preparation for war has been a haphazard affair. We have frantically prepared for war when we saw it coming. After the war was over, we demobilized and our war preparations were stopped. Hence, each generation saw a sudden radical change from producing peace goods to producing military supplies. Then they later saw an abrupt change back again to peace goods. It may be that this "on-again off-again" process is over. The war industries business may become stable and constant like most other businesses. Let me illustrate:

We could have a constant flow of new tanks, jeeps, airplanes, bombs, etc. each year, whether or not war is expected. Tanks, for instance, have a five year "life," due to obsolescence. Then each year all the tanks over five years old would be ground up for scrap, or else sold to foreign countries in exchange for much needed raw materials. This would always give us a supply of the latest modern tanks, the same as we now have improved automobiles, washing machines and radios each year.

Effect Upon Business

This program could be a great stabilizer for business, employment and investments. It would provide an incentive to colleges to train personnel to run war industries. It would assure permanent jobs for those now in such war industries. The entire present picture would change. Instead of the war industry being wastefully prosperous at one time, and then dead at other times it would always be normally prosperous. Each year we would use new blue prints and old war materials to make a new stock of tanks, guns, jeeps, planes, bombs, etc. Then, at the end of five years, we would break these up for scrap; after which new ones would be built according to new models. After five more years these new models would become obsolete and be reconverted into raw materials, and so on indefinitely.

This probable program is something for every investor to consider. Instead of the steel industry being a feast or famine business, this program could make it fairly stable. It could stabilize railroad stocks, which otherwise will have a big slump when peace comes again. Under this Cycle Theory a railroad, operating between Detroit and Pittsburgh, could have constant loads—hauling the steel to Detroit; then hauling the scrap back to Pittsburgh, and—after it is made into steel—hauling the steel again to Detroit—and so on forever!

I am fearful what labor leaders will do when the next depression comes. Putting the armament business on a permanent basis, however, could postpone a severe labor conflict for many years. The program would keep money flowing into the stores to buy consumer goods and thus help both merchandising and manufacturing stocks and the rails. In fact, such a new industry could prevent a stock market collapse for many years. Earnings could be stabilized and fair dividends assured.

Labor's real gripe is that the Government wants to put a "ceiling" on wages, but not on profits. If investors had a "floor" on profits, the same as union labor and the farmers have a floor on wages, a ceiling on profits would be feasible. But to do so would mean socialism. A far better system would be to insist on the compulsory reconversion of all obsolete machinery into raw materials, according to a prearranged depreciation charge.

Law of Action and Reaction

Such a long era of prosperity would not upset Sir Isaac Newton's Law of Action and Reaction, upon which the famous Babsonchart is based. That great Law simply means that for an era of abnormal prosperity, there must be a corresponding area of abnormal depression. If all obsolete machinery when fully depreciated is "ground up" for reconversion, there need be neither abnormal booms nor abnormal panics,—except from accident or speculation. This is one reason why I advise careers in Accounting.

Nebraska's constitution forbids sectarian schools from receiving public money.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., April 20—I continue to believe in the Cycle Theory. This means that we will have Peace Scares, War Scares and Labor Scares. But none of us may live to see another 1929-32.

Heretofore the preparation for war has been a haphazard affair. We have frantically prepared for war when we saw it coming. After the war was over, we demobilized and our war preparations were stopped. Hence, each generation saw a sudden radical change from producing peace goods to producing military supplies. Then they later saw an abrupt change back again to peace goods. It may be that this "on-again off-again" process is over. The war industries business may become stable and constant like most other businesses. Let me illustrate:

We could have a constant flow of new tanks, jeeps, airplanes, bombs, etc. each year, whether or not war is expected. Tanks, for instance, have a five year "life," due to obsolescence. Then each year all the tanks over five years old would be ground up for scrap, or else sold to foreign countries in exchange for much needed raw materials. This would always give us a supply of the latest modern tanks, the same as we now have improved automobiles, washing machines and radios each yar.

Effect Upon Business

This program could be a great stabilizer for business, employment and investments. It would provide an incentive to colleges to train personnel to run war industries. It would assure permanent jobs for those now in such war industries. The entire present picture would change. Instead of the war industry being wastefully prosperous at one time, and then dead at other times it would always be normally prosperous. Each year we would use new blue prints and old war materials to make a new stock of tanks, guns, jeeps, planes, bombs, etc. Then, at the end of five years, we would break these up for scrap; after which new ones would be built according to new models. After five more years these new models would become obsolete and be converted into raw materials, and so on indefinitely.

This probable program is something for every investor to consider. Instead of the steel industry being a feast or famine business, this program could make it fairly stable. It could stabilize railroad stocks, which otherwise will have a big slump when peace comes again. Under this Cycle Theory a railroad, operating between Detroit and Pittsburgh, could have constant loads—hauling the steel to Detroit; then hauling the scrap back to Pittsburgh, and—after it is made into steel—hauling the steel again to Detroit —and so on forever!

I am fearful what labor leaders will do when the next depression comes. Putting the armament business on a permanent basis, however, could postpone a severe labor conflict for many years. The program would keep money flowing into the stores to buy consumer goods and thus help both merchandising and manufacturing stocks and the rails. In fact, such a new industry could prevent a stock market collapse for many years. Earnings could be stabilized and fair dividends assured.

Labor's real gripe is that the Government wants to put a "ceiling" on wages, but not on profits. If investors had a "floor" on profits, the same as union labor and the farmers have a floor on wages, a ceiling on profits would be feasible. But to do so would mean socialism. A far better system would be to insist on the compulsory reconversion of all obsolete machinery into raw materials, according to a prearranged depreciation charge.

Law of Action and Reaction

Such a long era of prosperity would not upset Sir Isaac Newton's Law of Action and Reaction, upon which the famous Babson-chart is based. That great Law simply means that for an era of abnormal prosperity, there must be a corresponding area of abnormal depression. If all obsolete machinery when fully depreciated is "ground up" for reconversion, there need be neither abnormal booms nor abnormal panics,—except from accident or speculation. This is one reason why I advise careers in Accounting.

Nebraska's constitution forbids sectarian schools from receiving public money.

Enlist for Service

New enlistments for the regular army were announced today by the local army recruiting office.

They included Joseph R. Scott of 9 Meadow street and Walter Kruger, Jr., of Krumville. Scott attended Kingston High School while Kruger graduated from Ellenville High School in June, 1950. Both have been assigned to Fort Devens, Mass., for initial processing.

Recent volunteers for service in the air force include Arthur D. Herzog of D.F.D. 1, Kingston, son of Mrs. Fred Herzog; and Otto Hansen of Modena. Herzog attended Kingston High School. Hansen was born in Denmark and attended primary and secondary schools in that country and later went through the Nazi occupation of that country. His father is still living in Neksoe, Denmark. Both Herzog and Hansen were shipped to the Sampson Air Force Base at Geneva.

Of 885 plaice fish marked and liberated in the North Sea, a total of 21 per cent were recaptured within 12 months.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., April 20—I continue to believe in the Cycle Theory. This means that we will have Peace Scares, War Scares and Labor Scares. But none of us may live to see another 1929-32.

Heretofore the preparation for war has been a haphazard affair. We have frantically prepared for war when we saw it coming. After the war was over, we demobilized and our war preparations were stopped. Hence, each generation saw a sudden radical change from producing peace goods to producing military supplies. Then they later saw an abrupt change back again to peace goods. It may be that this "on-again off-again" process is over. The war industries business may become stable and constant like most other businesses. Let me illustrate:

We could have a constant flow of new tanks, jeeps, airplanes, bombs, etc. each year, whether or not war is expected. Tanks, for instance, have a five year "life," due to obsolescence. Then each year all the tanks over five years old would be ground up for scrap, or else sold to foreign countries in exchange for much needed raw materials. This would always give us a supply of the latest modern tanks, the same as we now have improved automobiles, washing machines and radios each yar.

Effect Upon Business

This program could be a great stabilizer for business, employment and investments. It would provide an incentive to colleges to train personnel to run war industries. It would assure permanent jobs for those now in such war industries. The entire present picture would change. Instead of the war industry being wastefully prosperous at one time, and then dead at other times it would always be normally prosperous. Each year we would use new blue prints and old war materials to make a new stock of tanks, guns, jeeps, plane bombs, etc. Then, at the end of five years, we would break these up for scrap; after which new ones would be built according to new models. After five more years these new models would become obsolete and be reconverted into raw materials, and so on indefinitely.

This probable program is something for every investor to consider. Instead of the steel industry being a feast or famine business, this program could make it fairly stable. It could stabilize railroad stocks, which otherwise will have a big slump when peace comes again. Under this Cycle Theory a railroad, operating between Detroit and Pittsburgh, could have constant loads—hauling the steel to Detroit; then hauling the scrap back to Pittsburgh, and—after it is made into steel—hauling the steel again to Detroit—and so on forever!

I am fearful what labor leaders will do when the next depression comes. Putting the armament business on a permanent basis, however, could postpone a severe labor conflict for many years. The program would keep money flowing into the stores to buy consumer goods and thus help both merchandising and manufacturing stocks and the rails. In fact, such a new industry could prevent a stock market collapse for many years. Earnings could be stabilized and fair dividends assured.

Labor's real gripe is that the Government wants to put a "ceiling" on wages, but not on profits. If investors had a "floor" on profits, the same as union labor and the farmers have a floor on wages, a ceiling on profits would be feasible. But to do so would mean socialism. A far better system would be to insist on the compulsory reconversion of all obsolete machinery into raw materials, according to a prearranged depreciation charge.

Law of Action and Reaction

Such a long era of prosperity would not upset Sir Isaac Newton's Law of Action and Reaction, upon which the famous Babsonchart is based. That great Law simply means that for an era of abnormal prosperity, there must be a corresponding area of abnormal depression. If all obsolete machinery when fully depreciated is "ground up" for reconversion, there need be neither abnormal booms nor abnormal panics,—except from accident or speculation. This is one reason why I advise careers in Accounting.

Nebraska's constitution forbids sectarian schools from receiving public money.

Meeting on Monday Ends '50-'51 Season For Sorosis Group

Sorosis held its final meeting of the '50-'51 season Monday afternoon, highlighted by a dessert and coffee get-together at the First Presbyterian Church hall, arranged by the president, Mrs. William McVey, and her committee.

During the meeting members were introduced to Mrs. Henry Knaust, West Camp, county chairman of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs which met earlier this month in Albany. Delegates attending the third district meeting at that time were Mrs. Grover Lasher, president; Mrs. Edward Rick, and Mrs. Harry P. Van Wagenen, former member of the New York State Federation safety committee. Each attending member spoke on the meeting.

Mrs. Rick told of safety measures now being stressed in factories, homes, and traffic. Mrs. Lasher quoted Mrs. Rowland Davis, state president, who said: "Let us have religion in our homes, and in our clubs." Mrs. Davis also urged respect for the flag, and use of the right history books.

Other important points brought out at the meeting were the need to donate to the Red Cross Blood Bank, and the need to list area senators in the secretary's book for ready reference.

Mrs. Van Wagenen gave excerpts from talks on world affairs, and education, while Mrs. McVey expressed the desire of the district and state group for increased interest in the United Nations.

Sorosis members then discussed the contest, "Build Freedom with Youth," which they voted to enter immediately to meet the May 1 deadline.

During the business meeting annual reports were read by the secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Ward Brigham, chairman of the nominating committee, read the following slate of officers, which was elected for the coming year: Mrs. William Ochs, president; Miss Jessie P. Allan, vice president; Mrs. Grover Lasher, recording secretary; Mrs. G. W. Ross, assistant secretary; Mrs. A. W. Mollott, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Van Wagenen, treasurer; Mrs. McVey, Mrs. Herbert Darrow, executive committee.

Following the election, Mrs. McVey thanked her officers and club members, before turning over the gavel to Mrs. Ochs, and Mrs. Arthur Laidlaw read an original poem in farewell to Mrs. McVey.

The members were then shown a collection of slides by Mrs. Casper Souers taken on a motor trip she and her husband made through the south.

Vassar College Choir To Present Unique Program April 29th

The Vassar College Choir of approximately 100 female voices, led by Prof. E. Harold Geer, head of the college music department, will present a sacred concert April 29 in St. James Methodist Church, this city. A week later the group will give virtually the same program in New York's Town Hall.

Accompanying the choir April 29 will be Professor Geer's well-known 15 madrigal singers, who will give a separate group of songs. During the program, which will be largely a cappella, Donald Pearson of the Vassar music department, will be at the organ.

"The program will be entirely different from anything I have ever known to be given in Kingston," C. Franklin Pierce, organist at St. James explains. "The program will start with music from the mid-fifteenth century, and will end with the work on contemporary composers. Each selection will be sung in its original tongue.

Professor Geer, who is known in musical circles as "a perfectionist, and an orthodox man," has been a member of the Vassar music department for the past 35 years.

The concert, which is being given under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Service at St. James, will be open to the public. No admission will be charged.

Will Live in Arlington, Va.

Miss Marietta Theresa Battaglino Is Wed Saturday to Jerome Donald Carter

St. Mary's Church here set the scene Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Marietta Theresa Battaglino, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Battaglino and the late Mr. Battaglino of 24 Derrenbacher street, to Jerome Donald Carter of Washington, D. C. Mr. Carter is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carter of Durham, N. C.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 1:30 p. m., by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly. Theodore Riccobono was organist, and Angelo J. Carrado, soloist, sang Panis Angelicus by Franck, and Bach's Ave Maria. The church was decorated for the ceremony in green palms and daffodils.

Given in marriage by her brother, John J. Battaglino, the bride was dressed in a traditional white satin gown, cut with an illusion yoke, long sleeves, and a fitted, Bertha type basque bodice. A lace cap secured her veil of English illusion. In lieu of flowers she carried a white prayer book with a white orchid marker, and streamers knotted with sweet peas.

Miss Toni Liquori of Bangor, Pr., was maid of honor. Miss Liquori wore a wild carrot colored off-shoulder gown with a matching cap, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Fannie Battaglino of this city, sister of the bride, and Mrs. George E. Bentley of Alexandria, Va., served as the bride's other attendants. Both were attired in full length yellow gowns, and carried bouquets of talisman roses.

Louis Provenzano of 55 St. James street, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. Michael T. Battaglino of Albany, brother of the bride, and George E. Bentley of Alexandria, ushered.

A reception for 100 guests was held after the ceremony at the Embassy Room.

The couple plan a southern tour for their wedding trip. The bride wore a skipper blue suit for traveling, with a tangerine topcoat, and a natural straw hat. Her costume was completed with an orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Carter will make their home at 4817 South 31 street, Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Carter is a graduate of Saugerties High School, and the Moran-Spencerian School of Business, this city. She is employed as a classification analyst with the army department, Washington.

Mr. Carter, a graduate of Columbia School of Music, Washington, is employed with the Office of Naval Intelligence, and as a "ghost writer." During World War 2 he served with the army in the European Theatre of Operations.

Program to Be Held On Reformed Church Work in Kentucky

The work carried on by the Reformed Church in Kentucky will provide the program Sunday evening during the first of a series of meetings on the denomination's work, sponsored by the youth groups and the Bethany Circle of the Women's Guild of the Old First Reformed Church. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the church.

Mrs. Harry Van Wagenen and Mrs. Florence Campbell, it has been announced, will present a play, The Sun Briar, which illustrates the work done at Annville Institute. There will also be slides of the school.

Annville Institute, a boarding school for children from the Kentucky mountains, was established 50 years ago. There, children from isolated districts, where even today, in an age of improved communications and roads, school buses are unable to penetrate, are given sound academic training. They are also trained in the practical arts which will equip them for some life work, and in the spirit of Christ and Christianity.

It is with understandable satisfaction, as one spokesman pointed out, that the Reformed Church explains that at least one third of the school's graduates, have continued their training into college, or some other institute of higher education. Today three of the school's graduates are ministers, and one occupies a New York pulpit.

Facts like these, it is felt, reflect the ideals of Annville, and assure laymen of the value of their church's work.

All persons interested are urged to attend the meeting Sunday night.

Wolfersteigs Have 64th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolfersteig, 155 Stephan street, who were married in the Flatbush Reformed Church, celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary yesterday. Prior to his retirement, Mr. Wolfersteig was employed at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfersteig have four children: Mrs. Lorenzo Pardee, Mrs. Milford Wendland, Oscar and Clarence Wolfersteig, five grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Committees Named To Select NYU Law Scholarship Holders

New York, April 20 — Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the New York State Court of Appeals, Kingston; Arthur W. Chamberlain, president of the New York State Bar Association, Rochester, and Mrs. Helen Rogers Reid, president of the New York Herald-Tribune, Inc., this city, will interview New York state candidates for the $2,100 per year Root-Tilden scholarships offered by the New York University School of Law, Dean Russell D. Niles announced here last night.

The scholarships, named for two graduates of the school, Elihu Root and Samuel J. Tilden, will be offered each year to enable 20 young men, who show promise of becoming "outstanding lawyers in the grand American tradition," to attend the law school.

Candidates chosen from New York state will be interviewed by a committee for the Second Federal Circuit consisting of Chief Judge Learned Hand, Robert T. Stevens, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, both of New York, and Victor L. Butterfield, president of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

Nominations by State

Under the plan devised by the dean emeritus of the School of Law, Honorable Arthur T. Vanderbilt, now chief justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, the candidates for the new scholarships will be nominated by a committee in each state, with final selections to be made by a regional committee in each of the 10 Federal Judicial Circuits, Dean Niles explained.

"Candidates will compete for the scholarships," Dean Niles continued, "on a rating of one third for potential capacity for unselfish leadership, one third for extra-curricular activities, and one third for scholarship. While the candidates must have good academic records, they must, in addition, exhibit qualities of character and personality which will enable them to become honorable and effective members of the profession in the broadest sense of the term."

When the successful candidates enroll in the School of Law, they will be among the first students to use the beautiful new Law Center building now nearing completion on historic Washington Square, Dean Niles pointed out.

To Get Personal Contacts

"The Root-Tilden" scholars," he said, "will be given personal contacts with outstanding leaders in the fields of industry, finance, law, and public service so that they will be reminded of the fact that they are being prepared not only for personal success but also for unselfish leadership in the area of the United States from which they come.

"Since the object of the scholarships is to train lawyers who are qualified for public leadership, it will be necessary to review the educational background of each scholar and to have each one make up any deficiencies in his general education by taking reading courses, especially in history, the humaities and the social sciences, under the guidance of tutors chosen from leaders among the university faculties."

The Root-Tilden Scholarship program is considered one of many projects that will make the New York University Law Center, when it opens next fall, a focal point for the study and solution of vexing problems of law and its administration. Through publications, seminars, institutes and conferences on various phases of the law an effort will be made to integrate the law into the changing social pattern.

The Root-Tilden scholars will have opportunities of working on a comprehensive publication program, including the New York University Law Review and the Tax Law Review, said to be the most widely read law school publication in the country. They will be in contact with the Inter-American Law Institute where scholars from the western hemisphere make comparative studies of two great systems of jurisprudence: English Common Law, and Roman Civil Law. They will also take part in the program of the Citizenship Clearing House which purports to "encourage young men of character and ability and a sense of public responsibility to take an active interest in politics."

Girl Scouts Begin Preparations to Open Camp Wendy July 1

The "good old summertime" may seem a long way off to many county residents, but for those associated in any way with Girl Scout Camp Wendy in nearby Wallkill, it's practically here. Mrs. Ethel F. Martin, camp director, camp committee members, troop leaders, and Girl Scouts themselves are currently busy planning for the gala opening of camp July 1.

Camp folders, containing registration blanks, will be distributed to every county Girl Scout by the close of next week. To aid worthy county Girl Scouts financially unable to attend Camp Wendy, the executive council is attempting to set up a "Campership Fund," and letters seeking aid have been mailed to civic groups through the county. At a meeting of the camp committee, held last week at the Girl Scouts office, plans were set in motion for two "open weekends" when Girl Scouts and their parents will be invited to visit Camp Wendy and lend a hand in preparations for the camp's opening. May 26-27 and June 9-10 have been designated.

County Girl Scouts will be able to register for camp up until May 15, after which date non-scouts and out-of-county scouts may apply for admission. The three two-week encampments cover the period from July 1 to August 12. The rate for a two-week period at Camp Wendy is $36 for Ulster County Girl Scouts, $40 for others. Camp Wendy is operated according to the standards of the National Girl Scout Camp Division and meets the Red Cross Life Saving requirements on the waterfront. The camp is regularly inspected by the Ulster County Health Department.

Camp committee members who have been working steadily to complete plans for another summer of outdoor fun and instruction for local scouts include: Mrs. William Oakley, chairman; Mrs. John Batten, Mrs. George Brach, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Coty, Harry Eckler, Albert Haessig, Mrs. Charles S. Jones, Jr., Mrs. Theodore Lee, Kenneth Martin, Mrs. Schuyler Millham, William Oakley, Mrs. Edmund Ruffner, Mrs. Gorman Schellhammer, Miss Elsie Brothers, and Mrs. Donald Tinnie.

Coach House Players Face Busy Season

The Coach House Players, with opening night of their latest production, April 26, less than a week away, and preliminary work started on their next full presentation, Strange Bedfellows, already underway, find themselves facing a busy season.

Also on the agenda is a one-act costume play, On the Sunny Side of the Street, written by a member player, Mrs. Carolyn Gross. The one-acter will be presented at the group's May 10 meeting, to which all members, (active, patron, associate) are invited, in conjunction with National Music Week. Due to interest expressed by many musically minded active members, the efforts of member musicians will highlight the program that evening.

Newest find on the set of Thursday night's offering of The Alarm Clock, Players feel, is Earl Gilman, Jr., who as Wills, fills the suave butler bill to perfection. A new Coach House member, he divides his time between studying art, and working with the Players.

Meeting on Monday Ends '50-'51 Season For Sorosis Group

Sorosis held its final meeting of the '50-'51 season Monday afternoon, highlighted by a dessert and coffee get-together at the First Presbyterian Church hall, arranged by the president, Mrs. William McVey, and her committee.

During the meeting members were introduced to Mrs. Henry Knaust, West Camp, county chairman of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs which met earlier this month in Albany. Delegates attending the third district meeting at that time were Mrs. Grover Lasher, president; Mrs. Edward Rick, and Mrs. Harry P. Van Wagenen, former member of the New York State Federation safety committee. Each attending member spoke on the meeting.

Mrs. Rick told of safety measures now being stressed in factories, homes, and traffic. Mrs. Lasher quoted Mrs. Rowland Davis, state president, who said: "Let us have religion in our homes, and in our clubs." Mrs. Davis also urged respect for the flag, and use of the right history books.

Other important points brought out at the meeting were the need to donate to the Red Cross Blood Bank, and the need to list area senators in the secretary's book for ready reference.

Mrs. Van Wagenen gave excerpts from talks on world affairs, and education, while Mrs. McVey expressed the desire of the district and state group for increased interest in the United Nations.

Sorosis members then discussed the contest, "Build Freedom with Youth," which they voted to enter immediately to meet the May 1 deadline.

During the business meeting annual reports were read by the secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Ward Brigham, chairman of the nominating committee, read the following slate of officers, which was elected for the coming year: Mrs. William Ochs, president; Miss Jessie P. Allan, vice president; Mrs. Grover Lasher, recording secretary; Mrs. G. W. Ross, assistant secretary; Mrs. A. W. Mollott, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Van Wagenen, treasurer; Mrs. McVey, Mrs. Herbert Darrow, executive committee.

Following the election, Mrs. McVey thanked her officers and club members, before turning over the gavel to Mrs. Ochs, and Mrs. Arthur Laidlaw read an original poem in farewell to Mrs. McVey.

The members were then shown a collection of slides by Mrs. Casper Souers taken on a motor trip she and her husband made through the south.

Vassar College Choir To Present Unique Program April 29th

The Vassar College Choir of approximately 100 female voices, led by Prof. E. Harold Geer, head of the college music department, will present a sacred concert April 29 in St. James Methodist Church, this city. A week later the group will give virtually the same program in New York's Town Hall.

Accompanying the choir April 29 will be Professor Geer's well-known 15 madrigal singers, who will give a separate group of songs. During the program, which will be largely a cappella, Donald Pearson of the Vassar music department, will be at the organ.

"The program will be entirely different from anything I have ever known to be given in Kingston," C. Franklin Pierce, organist at St. James explains. "The program will start with music from the mid-fifteenth century, and will end with the work on contemporary composers. Each selection will be sung in its original tongue.

Professor Geer, who is known in musical circles as "a perfectionist, and an orthodox man," has been a member of the Vassar music department for the past 35 years.

The concert, which is being given under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Service at St. James, will be open to the public. No admission will be charged.

Will Live in Arlington, Va.

Miss Marietta Theresa Battaglino Is Wed Saturday to Jerome Donald Carter

St. Mary's Church here set the scene Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Marietta Theresa Battaglino, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Battaglino and the late Mr. Battaglino of 24 Derrenbacher street, to Jerome Donald Carter of Washington, D. C. Mr. Carter is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carter of Durham, N. C.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 1:30 p. m., by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly. Theodore Riccobono was organist, and Angelo J. Carrado, soloist, sang Panis Angelicus by Franck, and Bach's Ave Maria. The church was decorated for the ceremony in green palms and daffodils.

Given in marriage by her brother, John J. Battaglino, the bride was dressed in a traditional white satin gown, cut with an illusion yoke, long sleeves, and a fitted, Bertha type basque bodice. A lace cap secured her veil of English illusion. In lieu of flowers she carried a white prayer book with a white orchid marker, and streamers knotted with sweet peas.

Miss Toni Liquori of Bangor, Pr., was maid of honor. Miss Liquori wore a wild carrot colored off-shoulder gown with a matching cap, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Fannie Battaglino of this city, sister of the bride, and Mrs. George E. Bentley of Alexandria, Va., served as the bride's other attendants. Both were attired in full length yellow gowns, and carried bouquets of talisman roses.

Louis Provenzano of 55 St. James street, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. Michael T. Battaglino of Albany, brother of the bride, and George E. Bentley of Alexandria, ushered.

A reception for 100 guests was held after the ceremony at the Embassy Room.

The couple plan a southern tour for their wedding trip. The bride wore a skipper blue suit for traveling, with a tangerine topcoat, and a natural straw hat. Her costume was completed with an orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Carter will make their home at 4817 South 31 street, Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Carter is a graduate of Saugerties High School, and the Moran-Spencerian School of Business, this city. She is employed as a classification analyst with the army department, Washington.

Mr. Carter, a graduate of Columbia School of Music, Washington, is employed with the Office of Naval Intelligence, and as a "ghost writer." During World War 2 he served with the army in the European Theatre of Operations.

Program to Be Held On Reformed Church Work in Kentucky

The work carried on by the Reformed Church in Kentucky will provide the program Sunday evening during the first of a series of meetings on the denomination's work, sponsored by the youth groups and the Bethany Circle of the Women's Guild of the Old First Reformed Church. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the church.

Mrs. Harry Van Wagenen and Mrs. Florence Campbell, it has been announced, will present a play, The Sun Briar, which illustrates the work done at Annville Institute. There will also be slides of the school.

Annville Institute, a boarding school for children from the Kentucky mountains, was established 50 years ago. There, children from isolated districts, where even today, in an age of improved communications and roads, school buses are unable to penetrate, are given sound academic training. They are also trained in the practical arts which will equip them for some life work, and in the spirit of Christ and Christianity.

It is with understandable satisfaction, as one spokesman pointed out, that the Reformed Church explains that at least one third of the school's graduates, have continued their training into college, or some other institute of higher education. Today three of the school's graduates are ministers, and one occupies a New York pulpit.

Facts like these, it is felt, reflect the ideals of Annville, and assure laymen of the value of their church's work.

All persons interested are urged to attend the meeting Sunday night.

Wolfersteigs Have 64th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolfersteig, 155 Stephan street, who were married in the Flatbush Reformed Church, celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary yesterday. Prior to his retirement, Mr. Wolfersteig was employed at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfersteig have four children: Mrs. Lorenzo Pardee, Mrs. Milford Wendland, Oscar and Clarence Wolfersteig, five grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Committees Named To Select NYU Law Scholarship Holders

New York, April 20 — Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the New York State Court of Appeals, Kingston; Arthur W. Chamberlain, president of the New York State Bar Association, Rochester, and Mrs. Helen Rogers Reid, president of the New York Herald-Tribune, Inc., this city, will interview New York state candidates for the $2,100 per year Root-Tilden scholarships offered by the New York University School of Law, Dean Russell D. Niles announced here last night.

The scholarships, named for two graduates of the school, Elihu Root and Samuel J. Tilden, will be offered each year to enable 20 young men, who show promise of becoming "outstanding lawyers in the grand American tradition," to attend the law school.

Candidates chosen from New York state will be interviewed by a committee for the Second Federal Circuit consisting of Chief Judge Learned Hand, Robert T. Stevens, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, both of New York, and Victor L. Butterfield, president of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

Nominations by State

Under the plan devised by the dean emeritus of the School of Law, Honorable Arthur T. Vanderbilt, now chief justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, the candidates for the new scholarships will be nominated by a committee in each state, with final selections to be made by a regional committee in each of the 10 Federal Judicial Circuits, Dean Niles explained.

"Candidates will compete for the scholarships," Dean Niles continued, "on a rating of one third for potential capacity for unselfish leadership, one third for extra-curricular activities, and one third for scholarship. While the candidates must have good academic records, they must, in addition, exhibit qualities of character and personality which will enable them to become honorable and effective members of the profession in the broadest sense of the term."

When the successful candidates enroll in the School of Law, they will be among the first students to use the beautiful new Law Center building now nearing completion on historic Washington Square, Dean Niles pointed out.

To Get Personal Contacts

"The Root-Tilden" scholars," he said, "will be given personal contacts with outstanding leaders in the fields of industry, finance, law, and public service so that they will be reminded of the fact that they are being prepared not only for personal success but also for unselfish leadership in the area of the United States from which they come.

"Since the object of the scholarships is to train lawyers who are qualified for public leadership, it will be necessary to review the educational background of each scholar and to have each one make up any deficiencies in his general education by taking reading courses, especially in history, the humaities and the social sciences, under the guidance of tutors chosen from leaders among the university faculties."

The Root-Tilden Scholarship program is considered one of many projects that will make the New York University Law Center, when it opens next fall, a focal point for the study and solution of vexing problems of law and its administration. Through publications, seminars, institutes and conferences on various phases of the law an effort will be made to integrate the law into the changing social pattern.

The Root-Tilden scholars will have opportunities of working on a comprehensive publication program, including the New York University Law Review and the Tax Law Review, said to be the most widely read law school publication in the country. They will be in contact with the Inter-American Law Institute where scholars from the western hemisphere make comparative studies of two great systems of jurisprudence: English Common Law, and Roman Civil Law. They will also take part in the program of the Citizenship Clearing House which purports to "encourage young men of character and ability and a sense of public responsibility to take an active interest in politics."

Girl Scouts Begin Preparations to Open Camp Wendy July 1

The "good old summertime" may seem a long way off to many county residents, but for those associated in any way with Girl Scout Camp Wendy in nearby Wallkill, it's practically here. Mrs. Ethel F. Martin, camp director, camp committee members, troop leaders, and Girl Scouts themselves are currently busy planning for the gala opening of camp July 1.

Camp folders, containing registration blanks, will be distributed to every county Girl Scout by the close of next week. To aid worthy county Girl Scouts financially unable to attend Camp Wendy, the executive council is attempting to set up a "Campership Fund," and letters seeking aid have been mailed to civic groups through the county. At a meeting of the camp committee, held last week at the Girl Scouts office, plans were set in motion for two "open weekends" when Girl Scouts and their parents will be invited to visit Camp Wendy and lend a hand in preparations for the camp's opening. May 26-27 and June 9-10 have been designated.

County Girl Scouts will be able to register for camp up until May 15, after which date non-scouts and out-of-county scouts may apply for admission. The three two-week encampments cover the period from July 1 to August 12. The rate for a two-week period at Camp Wendy is $36 for Ulster County Girl Scouts, $40 for others. Camp Wendy is operated according to the standards of the National Girl Scout Camp Division and meets the Red Cross Life Saving requirements on the waterfront. The camp is regularly inspected by the Ulster County Health Department.

Camp committee members who have been working steadily to complete plans for another summer of outdoor fun and instruction for local scouts include: Mrs. William Oakley, chairman; Mrs. John Batten, Mrs. George Brach, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Coty, Harry Eckler, Albert Haessig, Mrs. Charles S. Jones, Jr., Mrs. Theodore Lee, Kenneth Martin, Mrs. Schuyler Millham, William Oakley, Mrs. Edmund Ruffner, Mrs. Gorman Schellhammer, Miss Elsie Brothers, and Mrs. Donald Tinnie.

The following guests attended: the Mmes: Leo McAndrew, John Halwick, Addison Haynes, John Osterhoudt, Ben Henry, William Richardson, John Kolts, Millard Davis, Austin Brown, Martin Petersen, Michael Maxson, Walter Thomas, Charles Breevort, Alan Coles, and the Misses Marguerite Meyers and Beverly Osterhoudt.

Coach House Players Face Busy Season

The Coach House Players, with opening night of their latest production, April 26, less than a week away, and preliminary work started on their next full presentation, Strange Bedfellows, already underway, find themselves facing a busy season.

Also on the agenda is a one-act costume play, On the Sunny Side of the Street, written by a member player, Mrs. Carolyn Gross. The one-acter will be presented at the group's May 10 meeting, to which all members, (active, patron, associate) are invited, in conjunction with National Music Week. Due to interest expressed by many musically minded active members, the efforts of member musicians will highlight the program that evening.

Newest find on the set of Thursday night's offering of The Alarm Clock, Players feel, is Earl Gilman, Jr., who as Wills, fills the suave butler bill to perfection. A new Coach House member, he divides his time between studying art, and working with the Players.

Chamberlain, president of the New York State Bar Association, Rochester, and Mrs. Helen Rogers Reid, president of the New York Herald-Tribune, Inc., this city, will interview New York state candidates for the $2,100 per year Root-Tilden scholarships offered by the New York University School of Law, Dean Russell D. Niles announced here last night.

The scholarships, named for two graduates of the school, Elihu Root and Samuel J. Tilden, will be offered each year to enable 20 young men, who show promise of becoming "outstanding lawyers in the grand American tradition," to attend the law school.

Candidates chosen from New York state will be interviewed by a committee for the Second Federal Circuit consisting of Chief Judge Learned Hand, Robert T. Stevens, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, both of New York, and Victor L. Butterfield, president of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

Nominations by State

Under the plan devised by the dean emeritus of the School of Law, Honorable Arthur T. Vanderbilt, now chief justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, the candidates for the new scholarships will be nominated by a committee in each state, with final selections to be made by a regional committee in each of the 10 Federal Judicial Circuits, Dean Niles explained.

"Candidates will compete for the scholarships," Dean Niles continued, "on a rating of one third for potential capacity for unselfish leadership, one third for extra-curricular activities, and one third for scholarship. While the candidates must have good academic records, they must, in addition, exhibit qualities of character and personality which will enable them to become honorable and effective members of the profession in the broadest sense of the term."

When the successful candidates enroll in the School of Law, they will be among the first students to use the beautiful new Law Center building now nearing completion on historic Washington Square, Dean Niles pointed out.

To Get Personal Contacts

"The Root-Tilden" scholars," he said, "will be given personal contacts with outstanding leaders in the fields of industry, finance, law, and public service so that they will be reminded of the fact that they are being prepared not only for personal success but also for unselfish leadership in the area of the United States from which they come.

"Since the object of the scholarships is to train lawyers who are qualified for public leadership, it will be necessary to review the educational background of each scholar and to have each one make up any deficiencies in his general education by taking reading courses, especially in history, the humaities and the social sciences, under the guidance of tutors chosen from leaders among the university faculties."

The Root-Tilden Scholarship program is considered one of many projects that will make the New York University Law Center, when it opens next fall, a focal point for the study and solution of vexing problems of law and its administration. Through publications, seminars, institutes and conferences on various phases of the law an effort will be made to integrate the law into the changing social pattern.

The Root-Tilden scholars will have opportunities of working on a comprehensive publication program, including the New York University Law Review and the Tax Law Review, said to be the most widely read law school publication in the country. They will be in contact with the Inter-American Law Institute where scholars from the western hemisphere make comparative studies of two great systems of jurisprudence: English Common Law, and Roman Civil Law. They will also take part in the program of the Citizenship Clearing House which purports to "encourage young men of character and ability and a sense of public responsibility to take an active interest in politics."

Girl Scouts Begin Preparations to Open Camp Wendy July 1

The "good old summertime" may seem a long way off to many county residents, but for those associated in any way with Girl Scout Camp Wendy in nearby Wallkill, it's practically here. Mrs. Ethel F. Martin, camp director, camp committee members, troop leaders, and Girl Scouts themselves are currently busy planning for the gala opening of camp July 1.

Camp folders, containing registration blanks, will be distributed to every county Girl Scout by the close of next week. To aid worthy county Girl Scouts financially unable to attend Camp Wendy, the executive council is attempting to set up a "Campership Fund," and letters seeking aid have been mailed to civic groups through the county. At a meeting of the camp committee, held last week at the Girl Scouts office, plans were set in motion for two "open weekends" when Girl Scouts and their parents will be invited to visit Camp Wendy and lend a hand in preparations for the camp's opening. May 26-27 and June 9-10 have been designated.

County Girl Scouts will be able to register for camp up until May 15, after which date non-scouts and out-of-county scouts may apply for admission. The three two-week encampments cover the period from July 1 to August 12. The rate for a two-week period at Camp Wendy is $36 for Ulster County Girl Scouts, $40 for others. Camp Wendy is operated according to the standards of the National Girl Scout Camp Division and meets the Red Cross Life Saving requirements on the waterfront. The camp is regularly inspected by the Ulster County Health Department.

Camp committee members who have been working steadily to complete plans for another summer of outdoor fun and instruction for local scouts include: Mrs. William Oakley, chairman; Mrs. John Batten, Mrs. George Brach, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Coty, Harry Eckler, Albert Haessig, Mrs. Charles S. Jones, Jr., Mrs. Theodore Lee, Kenneth Martin, Mrs. Schuyler Millham, William Oakley, Mrs. Edmund Ruffner, Mrs. Gorman Schellhammer, Miss Elsie Brothers, and Mrs. Donald Tinnie.

Coach House Players Face Busy Season

The Coach House Players, with opening night of their latest production, April 26, less than a week away, and preliminary work started on their next full presentation, Strange Bedfellows, already underway, find themselves facing a busy season.

Also on the agenda is a one-act costume play, On the Sunny Side of the Street, written by a member player, Mrs. Carolyn Gross. The one-acter will be presented at the group's May 10 meeting, to which all members, (active, patron, associate) are invited, in conjunction with National Music Week. Due to interest expressed by many musically minded active members, the efforts of member musicians will highlight the program that evening.

Newest find on the set of Thursday night's offering of The Alarm Clock, Players feel, is Earl Gilman, Jr., who as Wills, fills the suave butler bill to perfection. A new Coach House member, he divides his time between studying art, and working with the Players.

Lectures, Movies To Show Role of Dentists in War

In view of the accelerated civil defense program, the Third District Dental Society and the Ulster-Greene Dental Study Club, in cooperation with the New York State Department of Health, will present a series of orientation lectures and sound films for dentists, regarding their role in the event of atomic disaster.

It is essential that every member of the dental profession become familiar with what is involved in the medical aspects of atomic explosion, what injuries are to be expected, and how the dentist can fit himself into the overall picture, spokesmen said today.

All members of the profession in this vicinity are urged to attend this program Wednesday, April 25, at the Airport Inn. Sessions will begin at 2:30 p. m. with dinner at 6 and the meeting will continue at 7:30.

It is requested that all dentists who have not already done so call Dr. H. R. Meinhardt or Dr. R. K. Ploss for dinner reservations before Tuesday, April 24.

307 in Federal Employ in Ulster

New York, April 20 (Special)—How does Ulster county compare with the other counties of the nation in the number of local residents on the federal pay roll?

The matter came up for congressional investigation as part of a study made by the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Federal Expenditures. Figures were gathered on the number of government jobs in each of the 3,070 counties in the United States as of last June.

Their findings show a total of 307 people in the federal employ in Ulster county. On a population basis, this represented 3.3 on the pay roll for every 1,000 residents. Elsewhere in the United States, excluding the District of Columbia, the average was higher—10.9 employed per 1,000 people.

The local rate was also lower than in the state of New York as a whole, where federal employment amounted to 10.8 per 1,000. In the Middle Atlantic States, there were 9.7 jobs for every 1,000 residents.

Most of the 307 employes in Ulster county, 247, are attached to the Post Office Department. Among the other assignments are Treasury Department, 23, Agriculture Department, 12, and Commerce Department, 10.

The joint congressional committee found that by September, 1950, partly due to the defense preparations, federal civilian employment within the United States had reached 1,947,000 and was rising more than 1,000 a day.

The committee recommends "in view of the manpower situation in the current semi-war economy and the continuing resort to deficit financing, that committees of Congress and the executive departments and agencies take all possible action to conserve manpower and exercise constant vigilance against non-essential expenditures for this tremendous cost item."

307 in Federal Employ in Ulster

New York, April 20 (Special)—How does Ulster county compare with the other counties of the nation in the number of local residents on the federal pay roll?

The matter came up for congressional investigation as part of a study made by the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Federal Expenditures. Figures were gathered on the number of government jobs in each of the 3,070 counties in the United States as of last June.

Their findings show a total of 307 people in the federal employ in Ulster county. On a population basis, this represented 3.3 on the pay roll for every 1,000 residents. Elsewhere in the United States, excluding the District of Columbia, the average was higher—10.9 employed per 1,000 people.

The local rate was also lower than in the state of New York as a whole, where federal employment amounted to 10.8 per 1,000. In the Middle Atlantic States, there were 9.7 jobs for every 1,000 residents.

Most of the 307 employes in Ulster county, 247, are attached to the Post Office Department. Among the other assignments are Treasury Department, 23, Agriculture Department, 12, and Commerce Department, 10.

The joint congressional committee found that by September, 1950, partly due to the defense preparations, federal civilian employment within the United States had reached 1,947,000 and was rising more than 1,000 a day.

The committee recommends "in view of the manpower situation in the current semi-war economy and the continuing resort to deficit financing, that committees of Congress and the executive departments and agencies take all possible action to conserve manpower and exercise constant vigilance against non-essential expenditures for this tremendous cost item."

Zarilla's Hitting Gives Chisox Edge in Swap With Boston

Ex-Bosox Fielder Has .445 Average

(By The Associated Press)

Maybe it's only Al Zarilla but the White Sox are hitting like Red Sox now.

Zarilla is making Frank Lane, the Chicago general manager, look like the American League's Branch Rickey. And all because of a deal that looked like a bum move last December.

They laughed when Lane traded Ray Scarborough and Willie Wight to Boston for Zarilla, Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield. "Must be plenty of dough involved," the wise guys said. Lane said "no."

Lane kept insisting it was an "even trade" that would help both clubs. All winter it seemed Boston's Red Sox would be the only club helped. Most experts thought the two regular pitchers assured them the pennant. It may yet, but the first week evidence is against them.

Wight, knocked out by New York opening day, was Boston's first loser. Zarilla, bursting with power, is hitting .445 with two home runs, a double and two singles accounting for seven RBI's in two days.

The Zarilla fever is catching. Or maybe it's the St. Louis Brownie pitching. Chicago has flailed the Brownie staff for a total of 30 runs and 33 hits in two days for a club batting average just under the .400 mark. Naturally they won both games.

1,079 See Game

Zarilla and Eddie Robinson each spanked a three-run homer yesterday in the 13-5 rout of the Browns before only 1,079 fans. Both came off loser Al Widmar.

It's been years since you didn't have to turn the newspaper upside down to find both Chicago teams on top. But look quick, before something happens. Both the White Sox and Cubs are riding high, tied for first place.

Frankie Frisch, Cub manager, got a well-pitched game from Paul Minner, the Dodger refugee, to shut out Cincinnati, 3-0, on seven hits. Willie (the Knuck) Ramsdell was the victim as the Reds lost their third straight. Andy Pafko drove in two of the Cub runs.

Giants in a Marathon

The New York Giants and Boston concluded their opening series all even by splitting a Patriots Day doubleheader after a six-hour 41-minute wrestle. The second game, a 10-inning affair, was played under lights from the third inning on and finished in a drizzle.

Jim Hearn won the opener, 4-2, with steady seven-hit ball.

Earl Torgeson finally broke up the wild second game at 8:10 p. m. by singling off Dave Koslo with the bases loaded for a 13-12 edge. The Giants had scored five in their eighth with the help of a bases-loaded homer by Monte Irvin.

Chet Nichols, a 20-year-old southpaw, won his first big league game.

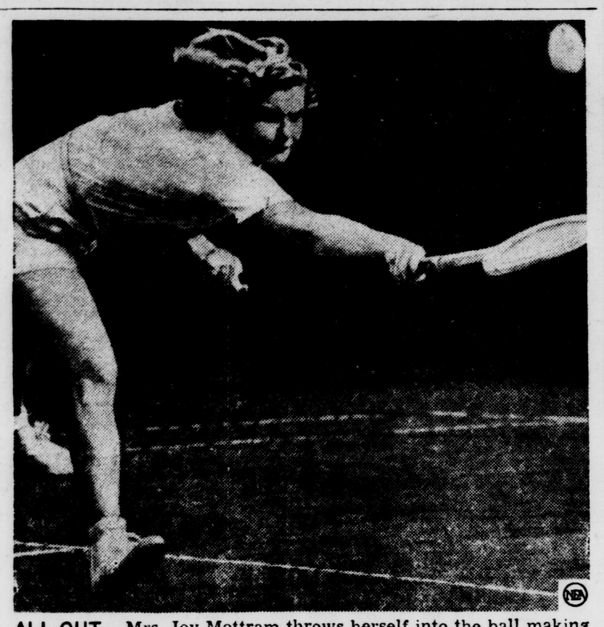
Today the seven big league clubs which haven't played home open their seasons, topped by a day-night doubleheader at Washington between the New York Yankees and the Senators. President Truman will throw out the first ball at the day game.

Philadelphia will play at Boston, St. Louis at Cleveland and Detroit at Chicago for other day games in the American. The National sends Brooklyn to New York and Boston to Philadelphia in the afternoon and Chicago to St. Louis for a night game. Cincinnati, which opened a day early Monday, will be idle along with Pittsburgh.



ALL OUT—Mrs. Joy Mottram throws herself into the ball making a return against Susan Partridge in a Connaught Club singles match at Chingford, Eng. Mrs. Mottram won, 6-2, 0-6, 6-0. (NEA)

Gavilan in Final Test Prior to Title Bout

New York, April 20 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, the flashy Cuban, takes on cagey Aldo Minelli of Italy at St. Nicholas Arena tonight in his final warmup for his May 18 welterweight title bout with Johnny Bratton. The 10 p. m. (EST), bout will be carried on the radio (ABC) and television (NBC).

Bratton, already safely past his final tuneup with a TKO win over Don Williams at Detroit Wednesday, will fight Gavilan for the world title at Madison Square Garden. Although the NBA recognizes Bratton as champ for beating Charlie Fusari, New York state will wait to crown the Bratton-Gavilan survivor.

If Gavilan hopes to maintain the 2 to 1 odds favoring him to beat Bratton, he'd better take care of Minelli early. That may not be easy for the 31-year-old Italian is a seasoned, conditioned cutie.

Bowling

Freeman Champs

Team 2, captained by Frank Bruno, nailed down the 1950-51 championship of the Freeman Bowling League Thursday night at the Bowlatorium by edging out Team 6 in a post-season playoff.

Both clubs finished the regulation season last Thursday with identical records of 50 victories and 34 setbacks.

A difference of eight pins decided the championship with Team 2 holding an 8-pin spread over Team 6 in the final game, 788 to 780.

Team 2 jumped off fast in the first game and won by 744 to 686. Team 6 evened the count in the middle game with a 786 to 769 squeaker win.

Three of Team 6 trundlers hit the 480 bracket with George Kuriger leading the way with 165-154-165 for 484. Jim Howard stacked games of 114-174-194 for 482 and Roland Post anchored with 146-189-145.

The Freeman League will close out the season in traditional style next Saturday night, April 28, with its banquet at Spindler's Resort.

Tommy Amato achieved the hat trick in no uncertain manner Thursday night when he compiled a blazing 670 triple to lead the Bowlodrome Major keglers.

Amato posted scores of 231-213-226 for his 670 blast.

Harold Broskie led the alsorans with 234-235-642; Elwood Robinson another hat trick with 210-210-202 for 622; Larry Weishaupt 221-207-618; John MacLellen 225-207-616; George Robinson 242-202-615; and Ken Joseph 221-211-605.

Also of note were Harry Wilber with 209-594; Ken Williams 247-594; Jack Schatzel 201-594.

M. Greene's 586 triple nosed out Jack Blinder for top honors in the Colonial Men's wheel at the Bowlodrome Thursday night.

Greene rattled the maples for games of 189-200-197, finishing two pins ahead of Blinder who posted 212-584.

Bud Greenburgh smashed 564; B. Lawrence 200-545; E. Koskie 544; Al Heisman 528 and J. Roberts 525.

Miriam Posner was far out ahead in the final pinfall for top honors in the Colonial Women's League this week with a gaudy 570 triple on scores of 194-177-199.

Tied for runnerup honors were Rose Schatzel and Eleanor Singer with 517 triples. Mrs. Schatzel posted 204-167-146 while E. Singer cracked out 154-174-189.

Also in the 500 bracket were Carrie Mohr with 511; Betty Schoonmaker 510; Ada Markle 226-505; and Phyl Gehringer 501.

Near-misses included Charlotte Lapine with 498; Helen Bordenstein 491; Jo Smith 483; Tess Moss 476.

Betty Cadden finished with 476; Mabel Davis 462; Clara Gile 449; Helen Broskie 439; Florence Maley 439; Mary Sharot 436; Shirley Collins 435 and Dot Donnaruma 435.

Dot Flemings turned in the only 500 triple in the Matinee Club firing Thursday afternoon at the Bowlatorium with a 513 effort. Mrs. Flemings shot games of 192-174-147 to lead the pack.

Marge Logan posted 443; Eleanor Singer 438; Rose Rhymer 431; and Evelyn Francis 417.

Sue Heins and Jessie Burnett finished in a flat-footed tie for individual honors in the Central Rec Women's League at the Railroad avenue drives Thursday with 479 triples.

The former shot 141-175-163 while Mrs. Burnett had three neat games of 159 and a pair of 160s.

Marcia Clark hit 428; Janet Hines 416 and Jane Osterhoudt 414.

Firing neat games of 166 and 162 around a weak 110 in her middle effort, E. Kantrowitz paced the pinfall in the Sisterhood circuit at the Bowlatorium Thursday night for a 438 series.

S. Jacobs finished in the No. 2 slot with 425; K. Eckdish rolled 421; Bea Arlensky 408; M. Propp 405; and B. Moak 405 topped the best scores.

Ex-Bosox Fielder Has .445 Average

(By The Associated Press)

Maybe it's only Al Zarilla but the White Sox are hitting like Red Sox now.

Zarilla is making Frank Lane, the Chicago general manager, look like the American League's Branch Rickey. And all because of a deal that looked like a bum move last December.

They laughed when Lane traded Ray Scarborough and Willie Wight to Boston for Zarilla, Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield. "Must be plenty of dough involved," the wise guys said. Lane said "no."

Lane kept insisting it was an "even trade" that would help both clubs. All winter it seemed Boston's Red Sox would be the only club helped. Most experts thought the two regular pitchers assured them the pennant. It may yet, but the first week evidence is against them.

Wight, knocked out by New York opening day, was Boston's first loser. Zarilla, bursting with power, is hitting .445 with two home runs, a double and two singles accounting for seven RBI's in two days.

The Zarilla fever is catching. Or maybe it's the St. Louis Brownie pitching. Chicago has flailed the Brownie staff for a total of 30 runs and 33 hits in two days for a club batting average just under the .400 mark. Naturally they won both games.

1,079 See Game

Zarilla and Eddie Robinson each spanked a three-run homer yesterday in the 13-5 rout of the Browns before only 1,079 fans. Both came off loser Al Widmar.

It's been years since you didn't have to turn the newspaper upside down to find both Chicago teams on top. But look quick, before something happens. Both the White Sox and Cubs are riding high, tied for first place.

Frankie Frisch, Cub manager, got a well-pitched game from Paul Minner, the Dodger refugee, to shut out Cincinnati, 3-0, on seven hits. Willie (the Knuck) Ramsdell was the victim as the Reds lost their third straight. Andy Pafko drove in two of the Cub runs.

Giants in a Marathon

The New York Giants and Boston concluded their opening series all even by splitting a Patriots Day doubleheader after a six-hour 41-minute wrestle. The second game, a 10-inning affair, was played under lights from the third inning on and finished in a drizzle.

Jim Hearn won the opener, 4-2, with steady seven-hit ball.

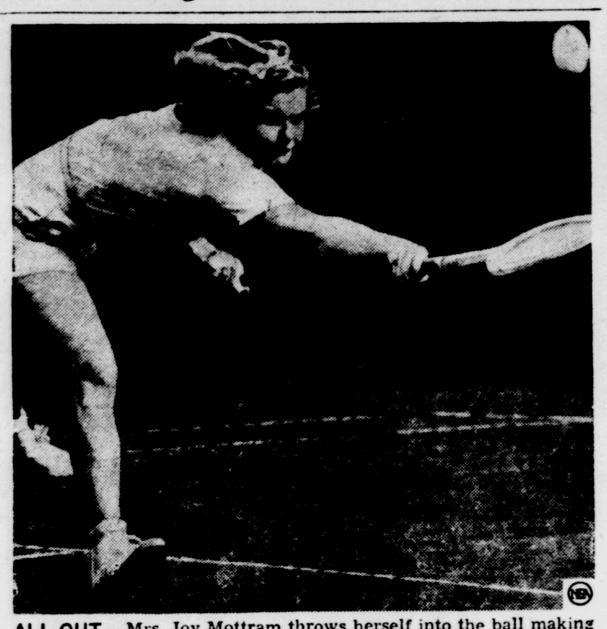
Earl Torgeson finally broke up the wild second game at 8:10 p. m. by singling off Dave Koslo with the bases loaded for a 13-12 edge. The Giants had scored five in their eighth with the help of a bases-loaded homer by Monte Irvin.

Chet Nichols, a 20-year-old southpaw, won his first big league game.

Rain and cold weather polished off the rest of yesterday's program. Philadelphia at Brooklyn in the National and Washington at Philadelphia.

Today the seven big league clubs which haven't played home open their seasons, topped by a day-night doubleheader at Washington between the New York Yankees and the Senators. President Truman will throw out the first ball at the day game.

Philadelphia will play at Boston, St. Louis at Cleveland and Detroit at Chicago for other day games in the American. The National sends Brooklyn to New York and Boston to Philadelphia in the afternoon and Chicago to St. Louis for a night game. Cincinnati, which opened a day early Monday, will be idle along with Pittsburgh.



ALL OUT—Mrs. Joy Mottram throws herself into the ball making a return against Susan Partridge in a Connaught Club singles match at Chingford, Eng. Mrs. Mottram won, 6-2, 0-6, 6-0. (NEA)

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By Hal Sharp

Gavilan in Final Test Prior to Title Bout

New York, April 20 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, the flashy Cuban, takes on cagey Aldo Minelli of Italy at St. Nicholas Arena tonight in his final warmup for his May 18 welterweight title bout with Johnny Bratton. The 10 p. m. (EST), bout will be carried on the radio (ABC) and television (NBC).

Bratton, already safely past his final tuneup with a TKO win over Don Williams at Detroit Wednesday, will fight Gavilan for the world title at Madison Square Garden. Although the NBA recognizes Bratton as champ for beating Charlie Fusari, New York state will wait to crown the Bratton-Gavilan survivor.

If Gavilan hopes to maintain the 2 to 1 odds favoring him to beat Bratton, he'd better take care of Minelli early. That may not be easy for the 31-year-old Italian is a seasoned, conditioned cutie.

SPRING CLEANING—It is still too early for the boating season, but fitting-out preparations are under way. Peter Van Zandt, left, of Scarsdale, N.Y., applies a new coat of paint to Dutch, his family's 210-class sloop. Mrs. Joan Bister of Mamaroneck, N.Y., does the same thing to the inboard craft, Linjim. Zarilla's Hitting Gives Chisox Edge in Swap With Boston

(By The Associated Press)

Maybe it's only Al Zarilla but the White Sox are hitting like Red Sox now.

Zarilla is making Frank Lane, the Chicago general manager, look like the American League's Branch Rickey. And all because of a deal that looked like a bum move last December.

They laughed when Lane traded Ray Scarborough and Willie Wight to Boston for Zarilla, Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield. "Must be plenty of dough involved," the wise guys said. Lane said "no."

Lane kept insisting it was an "even trade" that would help both clubs. All winter it seemed Boston's Red Sox would be the only club helped. Most experts thought the two regular pitchers assured them the pennant. It may yet, but the first week evidence is against them.

Wight, knocked out by New York opening day, was Boston's first loser. Zarilla, bursting with power, is hitting .445 with two home runs, a double and two singles accounting for seven RBI's in two days.

The Zarilla fever is catching. Or maybe it's the St. Louis Brownie pitching. Chicago has flailed the Brownie staff for a total of 30 runs and 33 hits in two days for a club batting average just under the .400 mark. Naturally they won both games.

1,079 See Game

Zarilla and Eddie Robinson each spanked a three-run homer yesterday in the 13-5 rout of the Browns before only 1,079 fans. Both came off loser Al Widmar.

It's been years since you didn't have to turn the newspaper upside down to find both Chicago teams on top. But look quick, before something happens. Both the White Sox and Cubs are riding high, tied for first place.

Frankie Frisch, Cub manager, got a well-pitched game from Paul Minner, the Dodger refugee, to shut out Cincinnati, 3-0, on seven hits. Willie (the Knuck) Ramsdell was the victim as the Reds lost their third straight. Andy Pafko drove in two of the Cub runs.

Giants in a Marathon

The New York Giants and Boston concluded their opening series all even by splitting a Patriots Day doubleheader after a six-hour 41-minute wrestle. The second game, a 10-inning affair, was played under lights from the third inning on and finished in a drizzle.

Jim Hearn won the opener, 4-2, with steady seven-hit ball.

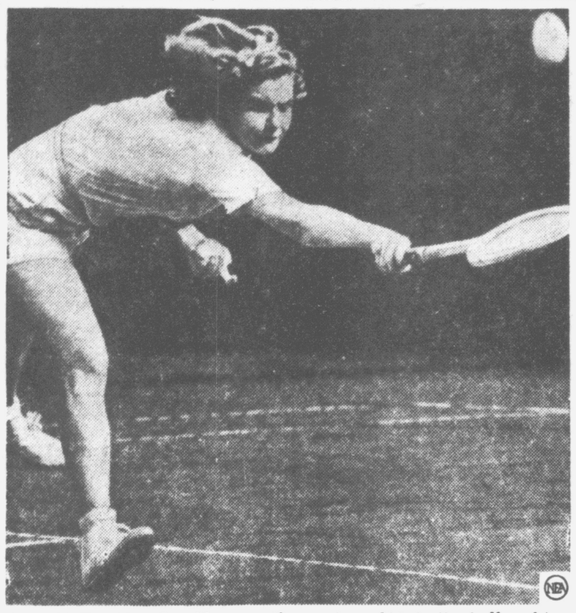
Earl Torgeson finally broke up the wild second game at 8:10 p. m. by singling off Dave Koslo with the bases loaded for a 13-12 edge. The Giants had scored five in their eighth with the help of a bases-loaded homer by Monte Irvin.

Chet Nichols, a 20-year-old southpaw, won his first big league game.

Rain and cold weather polished off the rest of yesterday's program. Philadelphia at Brooklyn in the National and Washington at Philadelphia.

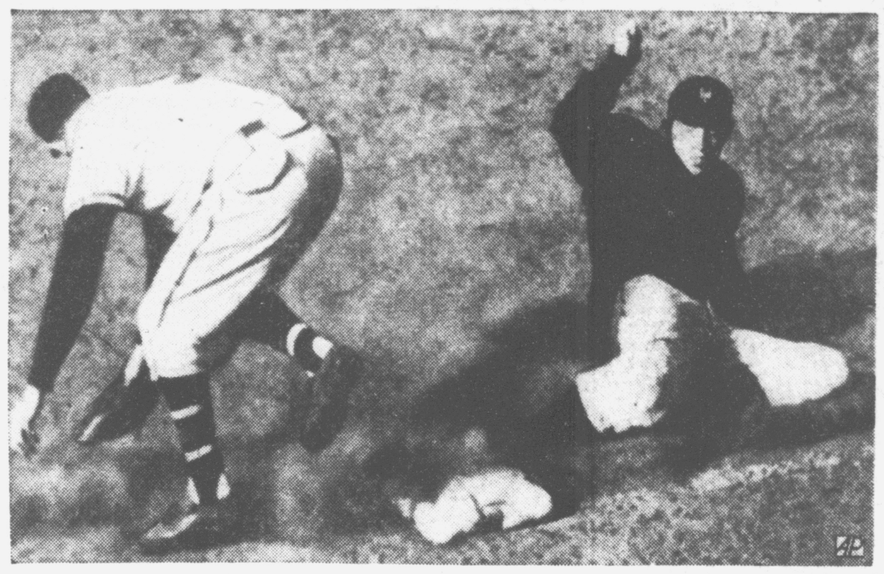
Today the seven big league clubs which haven't played home open their seasons, topped by a day-night doubleheader at Washington between the New York Yankees and the Senators. President Truman will throw out the first ball at the day game.

Philadelphia will play at Boston, St. Louis at Cleveland and Detroit at Chicago for other day games in the American. The National sends Brooklyn to New York and Boston to Philadelphia in the afternoon and Chicago to St. Louis for a night game. Cincinnati, which opened a day early Monday, will be idle along with Pittsburgh.



ALL OUT—Mrs. Joy Mottram throws herself into the ball making a return against Susan Partridge in a Connaught Club singles match at Chingford, Eng. Mrs. Mottram won, 6-2, 0-6, 6-0. (NEA)

PORT OF SAFE RETURN



Jim Hearn, New York Giants pitcher, slides back safely into first base, as Braves first baseman Earl Torgeson removes his foot in the eighth inning of the first game of their doubleheader at Boston's Braves Field. Boston catcher Ebba St. Claire attempted to pick off Hearn after Eddie Stanky struck out. The Giants won this game, 4-2. (AP Wirephoto)

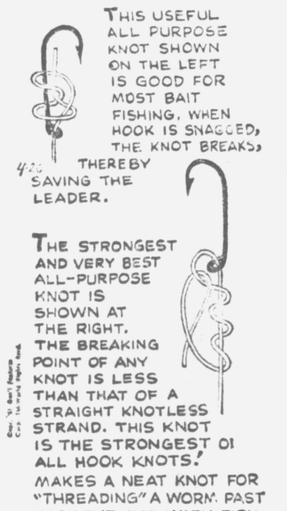
FISH HOOK KNOTS -THE WOOD KNOT-



Gavilan in Final Test Prior to Title Bout

New York, April 20 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, the flashy Cuban, takes on cagey Aldo Minelli of Italy at St. Nicholas Arena tonight in his final warmup for his May 18 welterweight title bout with Johnny Bratton. The 10 p. m. (EST), bout will be carried on the radio (ABC) and television (NBC).

Bratton, already safely past his final tuneup with a TKO win over Don Williams at Detroit Wednesday, will fight Gavilan for the world title at Madison Square Garden. Although the NBA recognizes Bratton as champ for beating Charlie Fusari, New York state will wait to crown the Bratton-Gavilan survivor.

If Gavilan hopes to maintain the 2 to 1 odds favoring him to beat Bratton, he'd better take care of Minelli early. That may not be easy for the 31-year-old Italian is a seasoned, conditioned cutie.

Freeman Champs

Team 2, captained by Frank Bruno, nailed down the 1950-51 championship of the Freeman Bowling League Thursday night at the Bowlatorium by edging out Team 6 in a post-season playoff.

Both clubs finished the regulation season last Thursday with identical records of 50 victories and 34 setbacks.

A difference of eight pins decided the championship with Team 2 holding an 8-pin spread over Team 6 in the final game, 788 to 780.

Team 2 jumped off fast in the first game and won by 744 to 686. Team 6 evened the count in the middle game with a 786 to 769 squeaker win.

Chapman Is Rated As N-S Winner

Pinehurst, N. C., April 20 (AP)—The feeling persists that this—at long last—is Dick Chapman's year to finally win the North and South Amateur Golf tournament.

The 40-year-old 1940 national champion has won all sorts of tournaments in his better than two decades of competition, but this one has always eluded him. As a matter of fact, only in 1934 was he able to so much as gain the finals. Then he lost a 4 and 3 decision to George T. Dunlap, Jr. Chapman lives here more than half the year and would like nothing better than to nail down the title before sailing next week for England and the Walker Cup matches.

Today he moved against Hobard Manley, long hitting Savannah, Ga., youngster, in one of the 36-hole semi-finals.

The other paired another Georgia-North Carolina duo, with colorful Bill (Dynamite) Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga., taking on Billy Joe Patton, Morganton, N. C., lumber dealer.

Crew Heads Home

Cambridge, Mass., April 20 (AP)—The Cambridge University crew headed home for England today with cleancut victories over two old and respected American rowing powers, Yale and Harvard. The Cambridge shell, using what Americans consider the old style of rowing as compared to the prevailing Conibear stroke, was never behind in its two races—the first intercollegiate international rowing competition on this side of the Atlantic.

Battle for Childs Cup

Princeton, N. J., April 20 (AP)—Crews from Columbia, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Rutgers battle tomorrow on Lake Carnegie for the nation's oldest collegiate rowing trophy, the historic Childs Cup. Penn is slightly favored to retain possession of the 72-year-old prize it won last year on the Schuylkill river. The champions Rutgers last week in their opener.

Silver Faith Cops

Yonkers, N. Y., April 20 (AP)—Henry Thomas Drove Silver Faith, the 5-2 favorite, to victory in the featured Hutchinson trot at Yonkers Raceway last night, defeating Clever Boy and Harry Dee in 2:08 2/5. The winner returned $7.50, $4.20 and $3.30. A crowd of 12,653 was present.

Honor Guard Is Posted for Senator

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 20 (AP)—An honor guard stood at the bier of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg today as his home city and world and nation mourned him.

U. S. leaders will be here tomorrow at funeral services for the Michigan Republican who helped establish the United Nations and championed an "unpartisan" foreign policy for this country.

The services are set for 2 p. m. in the new chapel of the Park Congregational Church that Vandenberg helped build.

In Washington, as well as Michigan, flags flew at half staff for the 67-year-old senator. He died Wednesday night after a long illness.

Honor Guard Is Posted for Senator

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 20 (AP)—An honor guard stood at the bier of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg today as his home city and world and nation mourned him.

U. S. leaders will be here tomorrow at funeral services for the Michigan Republican who helped establish the United Nations and championed an "unpartisan" foreign policy for this country.

The services are set for 2 p. m. in the new chapel of the Park Congregational Church that Vandenberg helped build.

In Washington, as well as Michigan, flags flew at half staff for the 67-year-old senator. He died Wednesday night after a long illness.

Honor Guard Is Posted for Senator

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 20 (AP)—An honor guard stood at the bier of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg today as his home city and world and nation mourned him.

U. S. leaders will be here tomorrow at funeral services for the Michigan Republican who helped establish the United Nations and championed an "unpartisan" foreign policy for this country.

The services are set for 2 p. m. in the new chapel of the Park Congregational Church that Vandenberg helped build.

In Washington, as well as Michigan, flags flew at half staff for the 67-year-old senator. He died Wednesday night after a long illness.

Boy Scout News

Kingston District Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston District, Boy Scouts of America, was held Monday evening at the B'nai B'rith building with Troop 5 as host. An unusually large attendance of about 40 scouters was reported.

Highlighting the meeting was the presentation by Sam Trull, district chairman, of a 25 year service award to the Rev. Harry E. Christiana of Port Ewen.

It was reported that last Friday more than 75 Boy Scouts were alerted and instituted a search for a local 12-year-old Scout who had been reported missing. The boy was found within 15 minutes.

Discussion at the meeting centered about plans for the spring season with its outdoor activity and camp projects. Every troop represented reported progress in scouting activity, advancement and population.

Adult Leaders Needed

A call for adult leaders was again issued with stress placed on the Cub scout level. In reporting the meeting, David Mendel, district publicity chairman, said, "The need at this point in the Scout program is vital and critical and all interested adults and parents should come forward as volunteers to their closest Scout troop.

Midway during the meeting, the group split into two groups, the committeemen meeting together, and the scoutmasters and assistants meeting under Frank Bourke, district commissioner. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edward Netburn and Mrs. Frank Vertetis, mothers of Troop 5 members.

A city-wide paper collection will be made Saturday, April 28, starting at 9 a. m. Wards to be covered are Nos. 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and the town of Ulster fire district from the city line to Lake Katrine.

Is Guest Preacher

The Rev. Dr. Milton J. Hoffman, professor of Church History at the New Brunswick Theological Seminary will be the guest minister at the Fair Street Reformed Church, Sunday morning. His subject will be "The faithfulness of God." Dr. Hoffman was educated at Hope College in Holland, Mich., and at Oxford University where he was a Rhodes scholar. He has spent his life in educational work and has for years been active in Netherlands-American affairs. Dr. Hoffman is a Knight of the Order of Orange-Nassau having been knighted by Queen Wilhelmina in 1943 during the war. The service at the Fair Street Church will be conducted at 11 a. m.

Truman Begins WSB Move as Inflation Check

Washington, April 20 (AP)—President Truman has begun the task of rebuilding a wage stabilization board to help check inflation and iron out defense disputes.

The White House announced yesterday that Mr. Truman had named Dr. George W. Taylor, of the University of Pennsylvania, as chairman of a proposed 18-man board to supplant the one rendered inoperative when labor members walked out Feb. 16.

Taylor credited with being the author of the "Little Steel Formula" of World War 2, agreed to head the new board for the period of organization only, the White House said.

The steel formula, introduced in the spring of 1942, limited wage rate increases to 15 per cent above Jan. 1941 levels. Wage stabilization officials may have used it as a pattern for present efforts to hold wage increases to a percentage limit. The original wage stabilization board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, adopted a 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases after Jan. 15, 1950.

Sets Up New Board

Mr. Truman began setting up a new board late yesterday. His Mobilization Advisory Board had voted 12 to 4 in favor of such action. Industry representatives cast the dissenting votes.

Employer spokesmen reluctantly acknowledged that if they were asked by Mr. Truman to propose a slate of employer members for the proposed wage board they would—out of patriotism—comply. They were not pleased, however, about the projected wage-dispute authorization for the new agency.

The Mobilization Advisory Board suggested an 18-man panel consisting of six members for labor, six for management and six for the public.

Dr. Taylor represented the public in heading the World War 2 Labor Board and presumably would be one of the six public members, in the proposed new board. He is a professor of industry.

Kaufman to Rule On Transfer Plea

New York, April 20 (AP)—Federal Judge Irving Kaufman expects to rule Monday on a legal move by convicted atom spy Ethel Rosenberg, 35, asking that she be transferred from Sing Sing prison's death house to the Women's House of Detention in Manhattan.

Mrs. Rosenberg's affidavit stated that she was taken to the death house at Ossining, N. Y., "in order to 'break me'."

She referred to a statement by Assistant U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol that he would vigorously oppose any reduction of the death sentences imposed on Mrs. Rosenberg and her husband, Julius, 32, unless they revealed something of their spy activities.

Mrs. Rosenberg's legal maneuver came in an application filed with Judge Kaufman yesterday for an order to show cause why she should not be removed from the death house and transferred to the women's detention house.

The application was directed at United States Marshal William A. Carroll and W. L. Denno, warden of Sing Sing.

Mrs. Rosenberg entered the death house April 11. Her husband is being held at the Federal House of Detention in Manhattan. Judge Kaufman sentenced the Rosenbergs to death on April 5. Another defendant, Morton Sobell, got 30 years.

Mrs. Rosenberg's brother, David Greenglass, who pleaded guilty and testified for the prosecution, got off with a 15-year sentence.

Boy Scout News

Kingston District Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston District, Boy Scouts of America, was held Monday evening at the B'nai B'rith building with Troop 5 as host. An unusually large attendance of about 40 scouters was reported.

Highlighting the meeting was the presentation by Sam Trull, district chairman, of a 25 year service award to the Rev. Harry E. Christiana of Port Ewen.

It was reported that last Friday more than 75 Boy Scouts were alerted and instituted a search for a local 12-year-old Scout who had been reported missing. The boy was found within 15 minutes.

Discussion at the meeting centered about plans for the spring season with its outdoor activity and camp projects. Every troop represented reported progress in scouting activity, advancement and population.

Adult Leaders Needed

A call for adult leaders was again issued with stress placed on the Cub scout level. In reporting the meeting, David Mendel, district publicity chairman, said, "The need at this point in the Scout program is vital and critical and all interested adults and parents should come forward as volunteers to their closest Scout troop.

Midway during the meeting, the group split into two groups, the committeemen meeting together, and the scoutmasters and assistants meeting under Frank Bourke, district commissioner. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edward Netburn and Mrs. Frank Vertetis, mothers of Troop 5 members.

A city-wide paper collection will be made Saturday, April 28, starting at 9 a. m. Wards to be covered are Nos. 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and the town of Ulster fire district from the city line to Lake Katrine.

Is Guest Preacher

The Rev. Dr. Milton J. Hoffman, professor of Church History at the New Brunswick Theological Seminary will be the guest minister at the Fair Street Reformed Church, Sunday morning. His subject will be "The faithfulness of God." Dr. Hoffman was educated at Hope College in Holland, Mich., and at Oxford University where he was a Rhodes scholar. He has spent his life in educational work and has for years been active in Netherlands-American affairs. Dr. Hoffman is a Knight of the Order of Orange-Nassau having been knighted by Queen Wilhelmina in 1943 during the war. The service at the Fair Street Church will be conducted at 11 a. m.

Truman Begins WSB Move as Inflation Check

Washington, April 20 (AP)—President Truman has begun the task of rebuilding a wage stabilization board to help check inflation and iron out defense disputes.

The White House announced yesterday that Mr. Truman had named Dr. George W. Taylor, of the University of Pennsylvania, as chairman of a proposed 18-man board to supplant the one rendered inoperative when labor members walked out Feb. 16.

Taylor credited with being the author of the "Little Steel Formula" of World War 2, agreed to head the new board for the period of organization only, the White House said.

The steel formula, introduced in the spring of 1942, limited wage rate increases to 15 per cent above Jan. 1941 levels. Wage stabilization officials may have used it as a pattern for present efforts to hold wage increases to a percentage limit. The original wage stabilization board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, adopted a 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases after Jan. 15, 1950.

Sets Up New Board

Mr. Truman began setting up a new board late yesterday. His Mobilization Advisory Board had voted 12 to 4 in favor of such action. Industry representatives cast the dissenting votes.

Employer spokesmen reluctantly acknowledged that if they were asked by Mr. Truman to propose a slate of employer members for the proposed wage board they would—out of patriotism—comply. They were not pleased, however, about the projected wage-dispute authorization for the new agency.

The Mobilization Advisory Board suggested an 18-man panel consisting of six members for labor, six for management and six for the public.

Dr. Taylor represented the public in heading the World War 2 Labor Board and presumably would be one of the six public members, in the proposed new board. He is a professor of industry.

Kaufman to Rule On Transfer Plea

New York, April 20 (AP)—Federal Judge Irving Kaufman expects to rule Monday on a legal move by convicted atom spy Ethel Rosenberg, 35, asking that she be transferred from Sing Sing prison's death house to the Women's House of Detention in Manhattan.

Mrs. Rosenberg's affidavit stated that she was taken to the death house at Ossining, N. Y., "in order to 'break me'."

She referred to a statement by Assistant U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol that he would vigorously oppose any reduction of the death sentences imposed on Mrs. Rosenberg and her husband, Julius, 32, unless they revealed something of their spy activities.

Mrs. Rosenberg's legal maneuver came in an application filed with Judge Kaufman yesterday for an order to show cause why she should not be removed from the death house and transferred to the women's detention house.

The application was directed at United States Marshal William A. Carroll and W. L. Denno, warden of Sing Sing.

Mrs. Rosenberg entered the death house April 11. Her husband is being held at the Federal House of Detention in Manhattan. Judge Kaufman sentenced the Rosenbergs to death on April 5. Another defendant, Morton Sobell, got 30 years.

Mrs. Rosenberg's brother, David Greenglass, who pleaded guilty and testified for the prosecution, got off with a 15-year sentence.
